PRINCESS ANNE BANK REACHES ONE MILLION

In just 41 business days the new Bank of Princess Anne, located on Virginia Beach boulevard near the entrance to Arsons Village, has become a million dollar bank, according to W. Albert Hess, president.

The new bank, referred to as Princess Anne County's first bank, opened its doors for business on March 13 with a capitalization of $225,000. At the end of 41 days the bank had passed the million dollar mark.

Hess also reported to the Board of Directors of the new banking institution that the bank now has more than 500 depositors.

The Bank of Princess Anne opened with a staff of four persons headed by Hess and is designed for a much larger staff. There is ample parking and room for additional facilities on the site.

Other officers of the bank are Sidney S. Kellam, chairman of the board; and Edwin C. Kellam, cashier.

The Board of Directors includes, besides the officers, Albert Lee Bonney, John Aragona, S. Paul Brown, John V. Fentress, Fred A. Haycox, Richard S. Holland, Frank D. Tarrall, Kenneth Whitehurst and Charles Burlage.

The bank is open five days a week—Monday through Friday—from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m., plus an extra opening each Friday afternoon from 4 to 7 p.m.

Fred A. Haycox Is Reappointed

Fred A. Haycox of Virginia Beach has been re-appointed by Governor Almond for a four-year term on the Coastal Turnpike Authority. His term will expire May 12, 1966.

The Coastal Turnpike Authority was set up several years ago when interested Tidewater businessmen and their counterparts in North Carolina organized a two-state project that envisioned a road from Virginia Beach to Nags Head.

Other Virginia members of the Authority are Sidney S. Kellam and Sidney Banks, both also of Virginia Beach.

Byrd Roms on Robert Kennedy For Muddling in Virginia Affairs

Attorney General Robert Kennedy's surprise action in filing a motion in U. S. District Court, Washington, to prohibit Virginia support of any public school in the state until Prince Edward schools are reopened on a desegregated basis brought a ringing rebuke last week from Sen. Harry F. Byrd.

In a statement concerning the two-year shutdown of Prince Edward County schools two years ago, Kennedy charges that U. S. Supreme Court orders have been "circumvented and nullified" and that efforts to work out an amicable solution with county and state officials had proved impossible.

Senator Byrd lashed out at the move as an "attempt to destroy the few remaining states' rights—ones being the right to educate our own children with our own money in our own state."

Virginia's opposing Democratic gubernatorial candidates were to offer for a change with retiring Attorney General Albert S. Harrison, Jr., and Lt. Gov. A. E. S. Stephens both condemning the Justice Department's action as interference in Virginia's affairs.

Autopsy Order Given by Police In Fire Death

Carl R. Reinhardt, a 48-year-old construction worker, was burned to death Sunday in his garage apartment in the 300 block Gatewood Avenue, London Bridge. Princess Anne police listed the death as suicide.

The body was recovered at 2 p.m. after a bizarre sequence of events which led to an order for an autopsy.

Patrolman William C. Stockley answered a call to the Reinhardt home about noon. He said gasoline had been spilled around the apartment and the fumes "were terrific." He said he had to open a window to help clear the air.

To The Victors, The Spoils

Princess Anne Gains Honors With Its Cattle

When the 12th Annual Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce 4-H Junior Steer Show was all over, Jimmy Johnson of Princess Anne County held the trophy for the Grand Champion of the show, and Jerry Moulton was the proud owner of the Reserve Grand Champion trophy. John Moulton showed the grand Champion Angus Heifer. These were the honored awards for Princess Anne animals in competition with 18 steers from Norfolk County.

Johnson's 1,112 pound Prime Hereford Grand Champion steered on his way to the top early in the show. He first won the Princess Anne Hereford class. He then competed with the best Hereford from Norfolk County and won Champion Hereford honors. In competition with the Champion Angus, this big Hereford was named Grand Champion of the Show.

The 925-pound prime Angus steer named Reserve Grand Champion followed the same pattern. He would not be outdone by his fellow partner from Princess Anne County. This great Angus steer won the Princess Anne Angus Class. He then competed with the best Angus from Norfolk County and won Champion Angus of the Show. In competition with the Champion Hereford, he was named Reserve Grand Champion of the Show.

In the Purebred Angus Heifer Class, John Moulton outdid two Angus Heifer entries from Norfolk County, and won the Champion Angus Heifer of the Show.

In the Putting and Showmanship class, six of the eight winning showmen were from Princess Anne County.

Princess Anne was not to be denied still other honors in the Show. The Grand Champion Hereford was bred by Gordon Potter, of Oceana, who has a fine herd of Hereford cattle. The Reserve Grand Champion was bred by Kenneth Elliott, of Walnut Hill Farm, Rockyville.

'Gitmo' Worker Looks for 'Out' In Vacationland

A civilian employe at Guantanamo Bay seems to feel a little constricted in Castroland and has written a plaintive, if whimsical letter in this direction. He's looking for a place to spend a month's vacation with his six teenage daughters, whom he describes as "silly young ladies."

His letter to the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce was of the tongue-in-cheek variety, but its implications were quite evident.

"Down here on this island that used to be Cuba," his letter begins, "there is an isolated spot called Guantanamo Bay—I plan to leave this garden spot for at least four weeks beginning the latter part of July and particularly like the area around Norfolk."

Well, Mrs. Julia Neime at the Chamber office is right on top of this one with a fast reply because, as the correspondent points out in a postscript: "Bad service is very erratic here lately; must be some trouble somewhere, eh?"

C of C Backs N&W, Nickel Plate Merger

Hailing the proposed merger of the Norfolk and Western Railway and the Nickel Plate Road as a move which will result in more efficient rail transportation, stimulate industrial development and generally be in the public interest, the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce went into action Wednesday through the executive committee with a resolution forwarded to the Secretary of the Interstate Commerce Commission expressing full approval of the application.

Formal application has been filed with the ICC for the merger and the purchase by the Norfolk and Western of the Sandusky Line of the Pennsylvania Railroad and N&W's lease and subsequent acquisition of the stock of the Wash Railroad.

ICC approval of the plans would create an expanded Norfolk and Western system of 7,400 miles, linking the Port of Hampton Roads and the Midwest. The joint N&W-Nickel Plate merger will retain the name of the Norfolk and Western Railway Company, incorporated under Commonwealth of Virginia laws exclusively. The new system will rank without question, as the strongest in the nation.

Text of the C of C resolution follows:

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED:

That the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce does hereby approve the proposed merger of Norfolk and Western Railway Company and the New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Company and the lease of Wash Railroad Company by Norfolk and Western Railway Company and requests the Interstate Commerce Commission to act favorably on the applications in File No. 30,000.

SHEPARD SET TO BLAST INTO SPACE FRIDAY IF WEATHER CLEARS

Virginia Beach Astronaut Set For New Try

The biggest man in Virginia Beach—and certainly the most spectacular one in the city's history—wasn't even around to know the excitement his fame had engendered among his fellow citizens.

He is, of course, Cmdr. Alan Bartlett Shepard, Jr., of 550 Brandon Road, Bay Colony, selected to be America's first man in space.

He was reported thoroughly disgruntled when officials at the Cape Canaveral launching site told him the blast-off had to be cancelled because of the weather.

Waiting in quarters near the huge Redstone which was to lift his Project Mercury capsule into space and nearly 300 miles down range, Cmdr. Shepard was anxious to meet the challenge which motivated him to volunteer for the program when it was announced more than two years ago.

And waiting in Bay Colony, his wife, Louise, and her parents and daughters were equally chagrined at the delay. They are happy that Shepard's dream has come true, but they are anxious for the launch.

Over 500 At Dinner For General Hospital

Nearly 550 citizens of the Virginia Beach area attended a banquet last week at the Convention Center to hear more about the plans for the Virginia Beach General Hospital.

Willard R. Ashburn, co-chairman—along with Hunter C. Phelan and F. S. Royster, Jr.—of the hospital fund drive to be held in the near future, said that the need for more beds was heightened by the fact that Norfolk, South Norfolk and the eastern section of Norfolk County "are already 222 beds short of the authoritative minimum for the population."

He declared there was an "urgent and demonstrable necessity" for the hospital because Virginia Beach residents could no longer rely on hospital facilities.

Sanger Speaks

Dr. William T. Sanger, chancellor emeritus of the Medical College of Virginia, who was introduced as one of the nation's top hospital authorities, said the minimum hospital need is 3.75 beds per 1,000 population.

Dr. Sanger said a major factor in the rapid increase of hospital costs has been "the tempo of progress in medical discoveries." So great is this progress, he said, that "the newest hospital is never up-to-date."

R. R. Richardson, chairman of the Norfolk General Hospital board pledged laboratory facilities for the proposed Virginia Beach hospital until the new hospital could provide its own.

Introduced by Kellam

Sidney S. Kellam, who introduced Dr. Sanger, said the board of the proposed new hospital "is not opposed to the building of any other hospital. . . . We live in this community; the responsibility is ours."

Ashburn said the proposed hospital would serve some 37,000 living in Virginia Beach and in Princess Anne County east of a line running along Lynnhaven Inlet and Lynnhaven village.

Dance Will Launch Full Week of Gaiety Beginning July 22

Preliminary steps for the crowning of Queen Lotus 7th have been completed by members of the Cape Henry Woman's Club under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Leonard Hulsew. Lotus Week will be July 22-28, with the ball on Saturday, July 22, at the Convention Center.

Sponsored by five organizations, lovely high school girls will compete for the title to be determined by penny votes. The final results will not be announced until the formal ceremony at the ball, Mrs. L. C. Brennan, chairman of the Queen Contest, announced today.

Lottery Charge Nets Jail Term

John D. Fritsinger, was sentenced last week in Circuit Court on a three-year prison term and fined $500.

One year of the three-year sentence for managing a lottery was suspended, but a three-year probation imposed for a previous conviction on a similar offense was revoked.

Fritsinger was arrested in July at his Baylands home. State and Princess Anne County police found two foil-wrapped numbers hidden in a cedar block wall at his home.

Jean Eggleston Is Married To William Cook

Miss Jean Knox Eggleston and William Compton Cook were married Saturday at 4:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church.

The bride's parents are Rear Adm. and Mrs. John Boyd McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilkerson Cook of Nashville, Tenn., are the parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. Henry G. Morgan, rector of the church, performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length, princess style gown of imported white peau de sole and pearl-and-sequin trimmed Alencon lace. The chapel train was appliqued with pearl-trimmed lace, which extended in points from the hemline. A cap of Brussels lace, which belonged to her great-grandmother, held her finger-ring veil of French illusion. She carried a bouquet of royal orchids, lilies of the valley and gypsophylla.

Miss Mary Peyton Henningway of Norfolk was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Ann Carter Morton, Helen Browne Ballio and Clara Miles Shumadine, all of Norfolk. Miss Mary Allen Eggleston, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

Charles Wilkerson Cook Jr. of Nashville was best man for his brother. Groomsmen were Lt. (jg.) John E. Sloan of Norfolk; Elmer E. Wilson of New York City; John H. Teas of Birmingham, Ala.; and Edward C. Blank, E. Dan Smith, James O. Bass Jr., W. H. Bradford and Philip H. Boyd, all of Nashville.

After a reception at the Princess Anne Country Club, the couple left for a wedding trip to The Cloister in Sea Island, Ga. On their return they will live at 1308 Westmoreland Ave. in Norfolk.

Nancy Fowlkes Is Wed To James Reid

The marriage of Miss Nancy Lucille Fowlkes and James Craig Reid of Virginia Beach took place Saturday in the Kempsville Baptist Church at 2 p.m.

Cmdr. and Mrs. Hubert Arthur Fowlkes of London Bridge are the parents of the bride. Mr. Reid is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lowell Reid of Red Oak, N.E.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wilbur N. Todd of St. John's Baptist Church in Princess Anne. He was assisted by the Rev. Arnold B. Blount, pastor of the Kempsville Baptist Church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace and satin. The bouffant skirt, appliqued in lace medallions, extended into a chapel train. Her tiered finger-ring veil of imported illusion was arranged from a small crown. She carried a cascade of white roses, centered with cymbidium orchids.

Maid of honor was Miss Jean Naron Cape of Wilson Mills, N.C. Bridesmaids were Misses Mary Porter Riera of Virginia Beach; Ann Stroud of Lynnhaven; Helen Louise Phelps of Virginia Beach, cousin of the bride; and Jimi McDaniel of Goldsboro, N.C.

Mr. Reid was his son's best man. Groomsmen were Edwin Reid of Red Oak, the bridegroom's brother; Oliver Daniel Griffin of Franklin, cousin of the bridegroom; and Warren Patrick Sawyer, Darrell Thomas Calhoun and Preston Fields, all of Greenville, N.C.

The couple left for a northern wedding trip after a reception in the social hall of the church. They will live on Laskin Road at Virginia Beach.

Highlights Of Ten Pin Bowling

Monday evening rolling in the Princess Anne League, Marie Smith shattered all sorts of records. Starting out slowly with a 102 game, Marie found her spot and really let the maple have it. Rolling a 230 her second and a 224 her third, brought Marie's total to a big 615. This set takes high honors here at The Thunderbird for lady bowlers rolling in a sanctioned league. Marie Templeton held the previous high game record with a 237, and Marie's 230 edges this game for top honors.

The high set of 600 bowled by Charlotte Kadas was high in the league. Marie had a 230 Monday night. Marie has been steadily climbing the last few weeks, last Friday she rolled a 507 in a roll-off game. This is the first season of league play that Marie Smith has been able to complete, and we're so pleased and proud that she is completing this year in a blaze of glory.

Marie is one of the few left-handed bowlers, and really plays that old ball down the lanes. Bowling in three leagues this year, she has carried a 139 average. Marie and her four other children all under six, and it's not unusual to see all six of the Smiths come in, and the children sit and watch their parents bowl. Congratulations again, Marie.

Princess Anne League
Marie Smith, rolling for 'The Lucky Strikes' was by far the hottest bowler we've seen in the whole league was cheering her on, rolling on the lanes next to Marie was John Anderson, and he swears Marie's high game rubbed off on him. Marie's high game was a big 213 game which was his first in the 200's. Hope this is the first of many games way up there for John.

N.A.S. Oceana Civilian League
Charlotte Marshall led the ladies tonight, rolling on the Jets. Team Charlotte rolled a 180 game which helped shoot her total to 502. Tommy, rolling for the Panthers had a 208 game and a 505 set. Jimmy Allen, for the Crusaders had a nice 202 game.

Firemen & Policemen's League
It's nice to write about big sets, like the one Roy Taylor rolled the Monday evening for Team No. 9. Roy had 189-186-263 for a 550 set. The 268 game won a Thunderbird Trophy for Roy. Roy is a newcomer to the Virginia Beach area, but it's obvious Roy is no stranger to the game of bowling, and I feel sure we'll be hearing more about Roy "Ace" Taylor. Rolling for Va. Beach No. 3 Team, Roy's Exports had a high 245 game, while his teammate Lou Dickens had a big 221 game. Was real glad to see Lou Dickens (Mr. Chief) come up with a high game.

Princess Anne Ladies
Frances Hill entered the big sets this week. Rolling on Rose Vine Team, Frances rolled a 142-160-223 for a total of 334. Nice going, Frances, Mabel Beale had a 169 game, which helped her team win 3 points.

Church & Military League
Again it was The Crusaders, winning four points over The Gobbs. Ken Whitehurst was high for The Crusaders and had high game for the league this evening with a 225 game, his teammate Ed Williams also rolled a good 191 game.

Charles Hall had a 189 for the Free Lancers.

Town & Country Ladies
Beach Travel Service was not again tonight winning four points over Atlantic Fun Oil. Ruth Meyer was really hitting them good for Beach Travel, Ruth had 154-180-202 for a 336 set, which was high game and high set for the evening. Ruth had a 224 game, and it was so good, to hit 300. This league voted to start bowling at 8 p.m. for the rest of the season. How will Ginny Horner make it by 8, when she cut naps and has to be phoned to make it by 9?

Princess Anne Suburban
Al Hammett did it again. Al had a nice follow-up to his 470 set of last week. This week Al had 211, 188-214 for a fine 623 set. Al is sure hitting the 600's consistently. G. Collins had a 228 game, and R. Collins had a 224 game. Both of these men roll on the Hot Points Team. Sure wish I knew the first names of these gentlemen. What would be even better would be to have full names listed on the recap sheets.

Thursday Night Ladies
Faye Agee was high for this evening with 179 game and a 494 total. Faye was rolling for Kelly's Texaco, which won three points over Clark Chevrolet. The Live Wires won three big points over The Gunners. Shirley Schaefer had a nice 184 game for the Live Wires.

Pingstons Ladies League
Rolling for the Alley Cats, Clay Wilson came up with a big 213 game. Clay had strikes in the first five frames, and was so excited that I swear that's why she missed in her sixth frame. Her 212 game is the highest rolled so far in this league.

Virginia Beach Moose
Rufus Sawyer was the bowler for this league tonight. Rufus came up with a 212 and 204 for a 564 set. This helped his team win four points. Ship Sawyer was high for his team with a 202 game.

Friday Night Mixed
Neil Santivasi was doing some fine bowling. Neil had 164-176-190 for a total of 535. Neil was talking to Neil last week and told her I thought she was bowling so much better this year, this is sure true, as she showed us Friday night. Neil and her husband roll for All-state Insurance Team. Jim Burgay had a 215 for Ying's Restaurant. Glenn Hollomon rolled 200 for Amthaus Motors. Bob Beck had an even 200 for Lankhorne Insurance.

Inter-City Traveling League
Cavalier Coin-Team had two make-up games today, and there was no holding Lee Amundson. The first set, Lee had a big 245 game and a 596 set. In the second series Lee had 191-214-223 for a grand total of 628. Glad to see old da hitting them again.

BEVERLY HART SMASHES 488 IN NEW BUNNIE LEAGUE
Second week bowling in the new Ladies Summer League was a huge success. Team No. 8 is wondering what happened to them as The Wonders knocked out a foe for a point loss. Pat Alcorn led the Wonders with 423 aided by Allen Seel with 390. Sally Edwards had a fine 428 for No. 6. The Poul Bails were all fouled up and dropped four points to the Emmies. Mildred Story was a ball of fire for the Emmies helping in with a nice 161-225. Margaret Wilkins helped with 371. The Mixed Nuts and the Odd Bells split as Alice Faust shot 411 for the Nuts and Bev Hart had 164-176-158-495 for the Odd Balls.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS The Responsibility of Dating

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am miserable and don't care what happens to me. Don't you think a girl of 15 and a sophomore in high school is old enough to date or double-date, even triple-date? A boy asked me to go to one of these homecoming dances and we would triple-date with two of my best girl friends and their dates. I'll tell this boy, he'll say I'm just a 'baby' and the other boys will say we are even more than they are now. If I am talking to a boy, another boy will come up and say, 'I wouldn't advise you to talk to her, she's a nanna's little girl.' or they'll say 'rock-a-bye-baby.' This is ruining me. My parents say I can't date until I am 18 and by this time I won't be able to get one."

OUR ANSWER: Fifteen is a highly young age for a girl to think her life ruined because she can't date or hasn't ever had a date. Youth is so important. But, there is a problem. The homecoming dance is not all-important; there will be many other dances. But, in this modern world of ours, and even in earlier times, nobody ever thought about passing a law, or parents never got together to decide at what particular age their children should be allowed to start having dates. Would that do away with this problem? Even if there were a law saying boys and girls could start dating at 15 or 16, many parents would disregard it, and often rightfully so.

Where does this put the problem? Where it belongs... within the family circle. Parents have the right and the obligation to determine when their children should be allowed to date and to exercise proper supervision over the kind of company they keep. But it doesn't stop at just saying, "When you're 18, you can date."

It may be possible, with some real effort, to "bottle up" a boy or girl and refuse to let them have dates until they are 18, but we don't think it at all wise to deny the enjoyment of school activities (the social kind) that are properly conducted and chaperoned. The youngsters don't have to "date" for all these affairs—parents are usually welcome, too.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, write to: FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL YOUTH COUNCIL, 1777 KENNESAW AVENUE, N.E., ATLANTA, GA. 30329.

Stacey Exciting Darlington Race Entrant May 6

Nelson Stacey, Cincinnati, Ohio, the most exciting race driver to appear in NASCAR ranks since Fred Lorenzen abdicated his USAC stock car championship two years ago, has entered the $50,000 Rebel 300 convertible classic at Darlington Raceway Saturday.

Stacey, the last year MAREC champion, will drive the same 1961 Ford with which he drove to the front of the Daytona 500 until a blown motor forced him out near the 200-mile mark and with which he placed fourth in the Atlanta 500, one lap behind winner Bobby Burdick. Although he must wear rookie stripes, at Darlington, officials want that Stacey, too, could take the fifth Rebel 300 crown at the finish.

Two more rookies, Ed Livingston and Pete Boland, modified cars from Charleston, S.C., have also entered while Curtis Cridler, entered a 1961 Mercury.

Keeping Fit In Today's World

Physical Culture

The drill sergeant's idea of good posture is head up, chin in, chest out, and stomach in. The fact is, such a position is a pose. Your posture is your body's position when you are not aware of it. Only when the soldier's ramrod attitude becomes an unconscious habit can we call it posture.

What is good posture? Dr. A. H. Steinhilber states that the human body carries so much weight on its skeleton structure that no one position is right for everyone. A good standing posture is when the bones from feet to head are held in the vertical alignment that is most nearly balanced. By balancing on each other just right they can carry the rest of the body's weight with no strain on muscles and ligaments. This would be tireless posture.

Three factors that keep many of us from attaining good posture are physical structure, living habits, and emotional problems. For example, turned-up toes and weakly supported arches result in quickly tiring, painful feet, as well as difficulties with the knees.

Faulty position of the hip bones or pelvis gives the whole spinal column a poor foundation. One result is an exaggerated swayback that may become painful. Further up the spine this may cause a compensatory hump and a forward hunch of the head and neck.

It is not uncommon for one of our legs to be shorter than the other. This tips the pelvis down on one side, and the lower spine leans toward that side. To get reasonably straight, the spine first bends back toward the high side, then again to the low side. A double or S-curve results, and the body appears to hang from the high hip. Also our environment, and especially our physical activities, have a great effect on our posture.

An experienced coach can spot the athlete who specializes in a single sport by his physique such as large hips, shoulders, and chest muscles and straight back of the weight lifter, the powerful forward-drawn shoulders and relative undeveloped arms of the basketball player, the right-handed baseball pitcher's spine is twisted a bit to the right, and his outpawp

When the cause of poor posture is psychological, exercise will not help. The man who habitually carries the burdens of the world on his shoulders looks like it. If he can learn to have a more carefree attitude his entire frame will report the change. Of course, if he has carried such burdens for years, his muscles, joints and ligaments may be so changed that they cannot at once speak the new language. Whatever your problem, a good posture is worth working for. By adopting a healthy and happy way of life most of us can achieve the slim, straight lines of youth, and feel better both physically and mentally.

Bendler's Help In Recruiting Brings Award

Unusual cooperation with the Army Recruiting Service has resulted in presentation of a "certificate of appreciation" to H. Harold Bendler, manager of the Virginia Beach office of the Virginia Employment Commission.

The award affirms that Bendler's assistance on a local level helped to "build and maintain the regular U.S. Army."

The commanding officer of the U.S. Army Main Recruiting Station in Richmond, Maj. Lawrence H. Owens, came here for the presentation in Bendler's new office at 226 17th street. The Beach Army Recruiting Service representative, M/Sgt. L. N. Almeida, also was in the official party.

Owens explained that in the former employment commission office in the 400 block of 17th St., Bendler had provided window display space for the Army recruiting program as well as handling literature for the Army and making available his testing facilities whenever persons desired to enlist.

Bendler said he would continue to cooperate with the Army in any way he was able to do so.

Easter Seal Drive

This cake at Moore's Bakery is having an active part in the annual drive conducted by the Virginia Beach - Princess Anne Chapter of the Virginia Society for Crippled Children. As of last week the icing had been "decorated" with a total of $39.80 in silver donations.

Republican Women's Club Hears Etheridge on County's Schools

Princess Anne Treasurer V. Alfred (Jack) Etheridge, in a speech at the last meeting of the Princess Anne County Republican Women's Club, said that each day a child stays away from school costs the county 61 cents.

This, he said, is because the state subsidy allowed county public school systems is based on average daily attendance. The figure comes to about that much per day per pupil, he said.

Etheridge pointed out that there are now some 20,000 pupils in the Princess Anne system, the number having increased by 2,200 to 2,600 each year for the last nine years. He estimated the growth in the county population at more than 1,000 persons a month and noted that all but three of the white schools in the system had been built in the past 10 years.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. L. M. Ober, program chairman, and Mrs. R. Forrest Fowler presided.

Member Reads Birdneck Club Garden Article

A magazine article, "Tidewater Gardens," written by Mrs. David Stormont, was read by Mrs. E. L. Rowell, Jr., at the last meeting of the Birdneck Garden Club.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Johnson on Bobolink Drive with Mrs. E. Ashley Haycox, Mrs. Cecil Mears, Mrs. H. W. Lindsay and Mrs. Kelsey G. Darst, Sr., serving as co-hostesses.

Wall plaque awards were presented to Mrs. Paul Gallup, blue, and Mrs. Stormont, Mrs. E. A. Martin and Mrs. C. N. Grubbs, red. Mrs. Rowell received a blue horticulture ribbon for her collection of tulips.

Mrs. Gallup was cited for winning two blue ribbons for arrangements in the recent "Time Out for Beauty" flower show sponsored by the Cavalier Garden Club.

Know Your Lawn's Enemies

With many homeowners, having a lush, healthy lawn is a matter of pride. One of the first steps in learning to recognize your lawn's enemies. Crab grass easily stands out as the worst offender and until recently one of the hardest to control.

Fortunately crab grass is not difficult to spot. It is characterized by its wide, spreading blades and, as it matures during mid-summer, by the three-pronged purplish seed head which forms a fan. Like most weeds, crab grass grows profusely and can quickly choke out the lawn grass, leaving in its place a scraggly unkempt ground cover.

Control of this pest is now within every homeowner's reach, however, according to turf specialists at The Dow Chemical Company. Unlike most grasses which are perennials, crab grass is an annual, sprouting each year from seeds produced the preceding year, and this fact has become the "weak link" upon which research scientists have focused their attention.

for several years. Their work now has led to development of a new pre-emergence crab grass killer which destroys the seeds before germination, thus giving near-perfect control of this old lawn enemy.

The job is surprisingly easy to do, too. Treatment should be made in early spring, preferably as soon as frost is out of the ground. The granular material is applied with an ordinary lawn fertilizer spreader, and a moderate sprinkling brings the chemical into contact with the soil.

Once crab grass has been eliminated, a good program of preventive lawn maintenance—proper fertilizing, watering, and mowing procedures—should be all that is needed to keep it out.

Author Hostess To DAR Group

Mrs. Walter E. Campbell, well-known as Elizabeth Campbell, author of the current and popular children's book, "Nails to Nicksies," was hostess, with Mrs. John P. Beamon, Jr., as co-hostess, to Sarah Constant Chapter DAR, April 28 at Mrs. Campbell's home on Glenock Road, Norfolk.

Mrs. Josephine A. Turrentine was guest speaker. She gave an interesting report of the happenings of the 70th Continental Congress of the society held in Washington during the week of April 19.

A discussion on National Defense, led by Mrs. J. Edward Johnson, chairman, brought out some pertinent facts regarding National Security.

Mrs. Elizabeth Beaman Wells, regent, presented to the chapter the National Honor Roll Certificate with Gold Ribbon for outstanding achievement for the past year, and all members were urged to attend the luncheon at the Chamberlain Hotel, May 11, when Mrs. Ashmead White, president general, will address the Tidewater chapters.

Tickets can be purchased from any member of the club.

Cimarron Film To Be At Beach

Edna Ferber's great novel "Cimarron," has been made into a great motion picture by Metro-Goldwyn Mayer.

Telling the story of the opening of the Oklahoma Territory and the tremendous land rush of 1889, the picture recreates on a spectacular canvas and in stirring scenes one of the most exciting and turbulent periods of America's pioneer history.

His story, depicting the courage and adventurous spirit of the men and women who helped spawn a great new country, as represented by Yancey Cravat and his bride, Sabra, spans a period of four decades.

Heading a cast of 368 speaking roles are Glenn Ford and Maria Schell, as Yancey and Sabra; Anne Baxter, Arthur O'Connell, Russ Tamblyn and Mercedes McCambridge.

Chi Omega Elects Virginia Beach Girl

Chi Omega, social sorority at East Carolina College, has initiated eight women as new members. The initiation ceremony was held at the St. James Methodist Church in Greenville.

The new members are: Donnie Hicks, Raleigh; Paulette Ward, Durham; Elaine Brewer, Rt. 1, Siler City; Dinah Nibbelink, High Point; Judith A. Doyle, Raleigh; Karen Kast and Catherine Sheaso, both of Jacksonville; and Ruth Johnson, of 507 Cavalier Drive, Virginia Beach.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

A "Tidy" Problem

Red Dolan dropped by the Widow Parker's last week to drive her to the depot. She was leaving on her annual month-long visit with her sister.

"Land sakes the folks in this town 'are nice,'" she said. "You're the fourth person that's offered me a ride today and I've already arranged to go with Mrs. Phillips. But, Red, there is one thing you can do for me."

"You name it," says Red. "well," she replied, "in some diplomatic way would you let my nice friends know they won't do me a favor if they come in and house-clean for me. They did last year and it took me three days to get things back to rights."

From where I sit, some folks start out with good intentions and end up interfering. We may not agree with the way our friends fix up their homes and they may not agree with our preference for beer with meals, but these are choices we each have a right to make. Respect for them is the biggest "favor" of all.

17-Year-Olds Charged In 29 P. A. Break-Ins

Two 17-year-old boys, accused of 29 robberies, break-ins and acts of vandalism, were returned to Prince George's authorities Monday from Omaha, Neb., where they were picked up last month during a routine curfew check.

Each has a 15-year-old wife and when Omaha police nabbed them April 19 one of them was carrying a .35-caliber revolver.

Their names were not released because of their age and they are being held for juvenile court hearings May 10. Police say loss and damage due to the thefts and vandalism "amounts to thousands of dollars."

They accompanied police on a tour of the crime scenes Tuesday, most of them on or near Virginia Beach Boulevard. The majority of the break-ins occurred since March, the boys travelling on foot or by bus of the place of business to be victimized.

Some of the establishments entered were: Viking Construction Corp.; Cunningham Malbon and Etheridge, real estate firm; Louis Fraser, Inc., glass firm; Puritan Foods, Inc.; E. Martin Harrell, food broker; Servicemaster Rug Cleaners; Severyn's Truck Bar; Gutter Construction Co.; Terry Corp. Construction; Slocum, builders; J. K. Parker, steel products; A's Sheetmetal Co.; Smith & Kenna, electrical service; M. R. Welch, errand service and a number of homes.

The youths were arrested April 16 and returned to Prince George's last Monday. They told police they participated in 16 entries together. Most of the break-ins occurred since March.

LYNNHAVEN WOMEN HOLD "PLANT SWAP"

The Lynnhaven Garden Club met at the Lynnhaven Presbyterian Church, having a most interesting workshop and a "Plant Swap."

Mrs. Harry E. Billups told us that by using a poison, "No Mole," it would rid us of ground rats and moles. The moles dig trenches and eat the worms and bugs in the soil, but the ground rats use the moles' trenches and eat the roots of the plants, killing them.

Our Plant and Bake Sale was a big success and we are looking forward to next year.

The hostesses were Mrs. C. R. Reid, Mrs. Wade Van Housen, and Mrs. J. C. Law, Jr.

More than 75 junior ballroom dance students were guests last Saturday of Sarah Sadler at a tea dance at the Cape Colony Club.

Seashore Park Trails Reopen After Being Closed Six Years

Seashore State Park is open again after a six-year shutdown—at least part of it.

Two wilderness trails, considered to be among the most beautiful nature spots in this flower-happy state, were made available to strollers Saturday for the first time since the federal court desegregation order was handed down in 1955.

Crowd Expected

Although the number of visitors will be limited because none will be accommodated after the 40-car parking lot is filled, state officials expect a throng of nature lovers over this weekend if yesterday's break in the weather provides the expected balmy springtime so dear to the hiker's heart.

The park will be open daily from 9 a.m. to sundown. Access will be by a new three-quarter-mile entrance road off the Shore Drive (U.S. 60), slightly west of the former main road. The entrance, presently unpaved, will be available for use by park visitors but won't be completed until July.

Only the mile-long wilderness trails will be open to the public. All other trails, roads, swimming, camp and picnicking areas will remain closed. There will be no drinking fountains or toilet facilities.

The park was carved out of the wilderness in the 1930s by 600 Civilian Conservation Corps workers. In 1936 it became a wildlife and wild flower preserve.

Woman's Club Meets Tuesday

The Princess Anne Woman's Club will meet Tuesday May 9th at the Pine Tree Inn.

Mrs. Forrest White will review the writing of "Three Witty Ladies."

Mrs. Ella Whitfield, two-time winner in the District meeting, will read two of her award winning poems, "Speak to Me," and "Looking Backward."

The program will be by the club's Literature, Poetry and Drama chairman, Mrs. Earl DuVal. This will be the last meeting of the year for the club, and members can be assured "Ray Notes" to carry them until the Fall meetings begin.

A stamp-saving game that American children get paid for playing

Today, thousands of American youngsters are buying U. S. Savings Bonds by saving 10¢ and 25¢ Savings Stamps each week. Stamps are sold at many schools, through the Treasury's School Savings Program and at most Post Offices. And as the stamp books are filled, they can be exchanged for full-fledged Bonds.

Here's how an eight-year school savings program works:

If they save this much each week	Bonds collected	Total saved	Value at maturity
25¢	4	$75.00	$100.00
50¢	8	$150.00	$200.00

For further information write to your Savings Bonds State Director, or to the Savings Bond Division, U. S. Treasury Department, Washington, 25, D. C.

...and a special note to grownups about U. S. Savings Bonds:

You can save automatically with the Payroll Savings Plan.

You now earn 3 1/2% interest to maturity. You invest without risk under a U. S. Government guarantee.

Your money can't be lost or stolen.

You can get your money, with interest, anytime you want it.

You save more than money—you help your Government pay for peace.

Buy Bonds where you work or bank.

W. C. Overman Made Partner In Norfolk Firm

William C. Overman, of Bay Colony has been made a partner in the Norfolk firm of Langley and McDonald, consulting engineers, it was announced this week.

Overman, 32, has been with the firm as associate engineer since 1958.

A native of Elizabeth City, N.C., Overman graduated from the Virginia Military Institute with a B.S. in Civil Engineering in 1950 and from the University of North Carolina with an M.S. in Sanitary Engineering in 1951.

Overman moved to Virginia Beach in January, 1959. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, American Waterworks Association, and the Princess Anne Country Club. He and his wife, the former Anne Langdon Townsend of Marshall have two young daughters.

Virginia Beach Doctor Attends G.P. Assembly

Dr. J. A. White, 215 69th street, recently attended a meeting of more than 4,000 family doctors in Miami Beach Convention Hall. Doctors from every part of the country were registered for the American Academy of General Practice 1961 Annual Scientific Assembly. The Academy, headquartered in Kansas City, Mo., has more than 27,000 members and is the nation's second largest medical association.

Dr. White heard 25 of the nation's top medical authorities discuss new developments and progress in the fields of therapy and diagnosis. There were 120 scientific and 300 technical exhibits that reported research results and showed new drugs, instruments and equipment.

The Academy is the only medical association which requires every member to continue his medical education. Rapid medical progress, the Academy believes, makes it necessary for the doctor to keep learning. For this reason, every member must complete 50 hours of postgraduate study per year.

Senior Class Officers

The National Outlook

Both the House and the Senate have passed a bill enabling the federal government to aid depressed areas. There was strong opposition to such a proposal, but there never was any real hope of defeating it. President Kennedy made this one of his anti-recession measures and the Eisenhower administration had supported such an extension of federal government activity.

The cost of the measure will be some $400 million. At present there are 103 areas which meet the requirements for help as depressed areas. This is determined by the percentage of unemployed in relation to the average for the nation as a whole.

There are many reasons why an area may become depressed, and these are crucial from the viewpoint of appraising the wisdom of this measure. Some of the more important of these reasons are:

High labor cost: This can force up the costs of production and thereby increase prices. The result is a smaller market and less need for the old output. This is one of the things which has happened in the coal fields. To attempt to meet it the mines have made enormous investment in machines to keep prices at a level which enables them to compete with alternative sources of fuel.

Unfavorable business climate: This may take the form of a bad tax system, hostility on the part of the local government misunderstanding of the problems of management refusal to enforce the laws against labor abuses, and so on. Where such a situation is found it is to be expected that business will not remain any longer than necessary.

Shrinking market: This may be permanent, as, for example, buggy manufacturing, or it may be temporary as in the case of automobile and steel today. In either event it reduces the need for workers and hence increases unemployment in these industries.

Transportation costs: With competition as vigorous as it is today in most lines, the cost of getting a product to market may become a matter of utmost concern. The result in many cases is that a business will set up units as close to its market as possible, and this may leave many workers at the old site without jobs.

Exhaustion of a natural resource: This is what gave us the ghost towns of the west. But it may happen in any field which is based upon the extraction or manufacturing process of a natural resource.

Increased productivity: From the point of view of employment, farming offers the best example of this. Through mechanization, larger units, better fertilizer, and better seeds, the increased output per acre has been fantastic. The same process, to some extent, has gone on in almost all industry.

Foreign competition: An increasing number of industries are finding it difficult—and some, impossible—to meet the prices of competitors from abroad. Wherever this is true, it hurts employment in this country.

Now financial aid by the federal government will not, and can not, offset any of these reasons for an area becoming depressed. This does not mean that the problem is not serious. These unemployed persons need jobs, and the nation needs to get them back to work.

Senator Wallace F. Bennett (Utah), after listening to exhaustive hearings on this bill, said point-blank in the report of the Committee on Banking and Currency that "the time to stop a surge of federal intervention in the field of plant location is before the principle of federal intervention is established." Unfortunately it is too late for that now. But that does not change the fact that the expenditure of this $400 million will not begin to solve the problem of depressed areas.

SAILING TIME SHIFTS

The Old Bay Line has made its annual Daylight Saving Time schedule shift. Steamers will leave Norfolk at 5:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time each day, rather than the normal 6:30 p.m. because of the arrival of DST in Baltimore.

Virginia Beach 'Toastmasters' Club Organized

Charter night ceremonies at the Cape Colony Club marked the final organizational step for the new Virginia Beach Toastmasters Club when Monroe Farmer was installed as first president.

Farmer was installed by George J. Jackson, Norfolk area governor. Other officers installed were John Gravett, educational vice president; Thomas Shoemaker, executive vice president; George Darden, secretary; Ashton Walton, treasurer; and John Tyler, sergeant-at-arms.

The club charter, from Toastmasters International, was presented by John B. Tallent, lieutenant governor of Area 38.

Wives and guests attending the banquet heard prepared speeches by Dean Brainerd and Jeff Wells. Gravett was toastmaster of the evening and introduced the speakers. Shoemaker was toastmaster for the extemporaneous part of the speaking program.

The club meets on second and fourth Wednesdays each month at the Pine Tree Inn, Virginia Beach Boulevard.

Junior Women Hear Librarian

The Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne International, Inc. met today at the Virginia Beach High School. Mrs. N. H. Palmer, chairman of public affairs, introduced the guest speaker, Miss Margaret C. Cappe, librarian of the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Library.

Miss Cappe appeared in conjunction with National Library Week and gave a book review on Hawaii written by James Michener. The Juniors helped man a booth at the Convention Center during "Spring Book Festival" which was for the entire county. The Juniors have also contributed two and one half hours a month per member to the library as a club project.

(Events exactly 100 years ago this week in the Civil War—told in the language and style of today.)

Either Side

LONDON—May 13—Queen Victoria today told the world that England would remain neutral in the war between the states in America.

Noting "certain hostilities between the government of the United States of America and certain states styling themselves as the Confederate States of America," the Queen proclaimed a "royal determination to maintain a strict and impartial neutrality in the contest between the contending parties."

Her majesty's decision was arrived at with full agreement of Prince Albert, her consort, according to court circles.

THE FAR-REACHING decision capped a month of international intrigue in which Federal envoys to the court of the Queen sought to steer Britain clear of any direct aid to the rebelling Confederate forces.

Secretary of State Seward earlier had given Lord John Russell, secretary of state for Great Britain, a thinly-disguised protest over his meeting with representatives of the Confederate government.

In this message, Seward advised Britain that privateers would be treated as pirates and that suppliers of aid to the privateers would, in effect, be treated as accomplices of the pirates—a clear warning to Britain to steer clear of the infant Confederate Navy.

IN HER proclamation, Queen

QUEEN VICTORIA, who has declared Great Britain neutral in the war between the states of North America.

Victoria specifically outlawed the enlistment of subjects of the crown in forces of either side of the North American controversy. Subjects of the Queen also were forbidden to supply munitions; to convey men or arms to either side in the war, or to in any other way aid either force.

Big Riot in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—May 10—At least 30 persons were killed today, and several more gravely wounded, when Union troops opened fire on a mob in the downtown area of this city.

The troops were under command of Capt. Nathaniel Lyon, assigned in February as officer-in-charge of the St. Louis arsenal. Lyon's forces raided a nearby encampment of state militia, forced the militiamen to surrender, and were parading them through the streets of downtown St. Louis when mobsters began throwing rocks.

The stones were met by gunfire and the 30 fell under the hail of Union bullets.

St. Louis is a troubled city today. Missouri Gov. Claiborne Jackson has branded President Lincoln's call last week for troops as "unconstitutional" and "revolutionary." The southern sympathies of the state militia—the group Capt. Lyon captured—are frequently and loudly proclaimed.

John B. Dey Choral Group Plans Concert for May P-TA Meeting

The John B. Dey Elementary School Chorus, composed of 100 selected voices from the sixth and seventh grade students, will present a concert at the May P-TA meeting on Tuesday evening, May 9, at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

The program, consisting of small ensemble numbers as well as choral works, is under the direction of Mrs. Irene A. Korte, vocal music director.

Choral numbers to be heard include: "The Orchestra Song" (Quodlibet), "America, the Beautiful," with the descent sung by Janet Thornton; Mary Pope, Phyllis Midgett, Maxine Stone, and Helen Kay Twiford; Leroy Anderson's "The Syncopated Clock," "Do-Re-Mi" from the "Sound of Music" by Rodgers and Franke, "O Lord Most Holy," (Pans Angelicus).

A duet, "I Whistle a Happy Tune," will be sung by Fred Rudiger, Jr., and Bobby Kemp. A girl's ensemble consisting of Mary Pope, Martha Korte, Helen Kay Twiford, Maxine Stone, Julie Earl Jimenez, and Susanne Athey will present "Fantasy on Nursery Rhymes," by Bell, and an arrangement of the folk song, "O Soldier, Soldier," by Rowe.

Social Security Speakers Are Made Available

John Grooms, field representative of the Social Security District Office in Norfolk, said today that a number of inquiries each week are about services which are not rendered by that office.

As a convenience to the public, Grooms has enumerated some of the services constantly available:

(A) Issues social security cards. (B) Assists individuals with claims for retirement, disability and survivor benefits. (C) Assists employers, employees, and self-employed persons with problems concerning earnings. (D) Assists beneficiaries with changes of address and required reports. (E) Answers inquiries from the public. (F) Lends social security films. (G) Cooperates with community interest groups such as: United Fund, Council of Social Services, Commission on Aging, Mental Health Association, etc. (H) Furnishes speakers to groups on social security subjects. (I) Provides free Social Security printed materials.

Grooms emphasized that films on social security and speakers on the subject can usually be made available to either small or large groups with several days notice. The 1960 Amendments to the law brought about a number of important changes, he said, and it is likely that many organizations may wish a more complete explanation than could be obtained through pamphlets.

The services rendered by the Norfolk office are free for the asking.

Gubernatorial Candidates Set On July Debate

C. R. Howern, Jr., President of the Norfolk Federation of Civic Leagues, announced today that the two Democratic candidates for Governor of the state of Virginia in the primary election July 11, 14, Governor A. E. S. Stephens and Attorney General Albert S. Harrison, have accepted an invitation of the League to appear at a joint public service meeting in Norfolk the night of June 14.

The Federation of Civic Leagues, a non-political, non-sectarian group of 18 Civic Leagues in the newly-annexed area, has brought all state and local candidates for public office together in similar meetings over the past two years. It is believed that this joint meeting between the two Democratic gubernatorial candidates will be the only one of its kind anywhere in the state of Virginia this year.

The ground rules of the meeting as laid out by the committee will give each candidate an equal amount of time for rebuttal. Then a question and answer period also will be equally divided between the candidates.

It is believed by the Federation that this type of meeting will give the public the best opportunity to become acquainted with the candidates and the way they stand on pertinent issues. Further details on the meeting will be announced at a later date.

In buying any home, financing is one of the most important features in deciding whether to purchase or not.

At King's Grant, this decision is made easier by Norfolk Federal Savings and Loan Association in offering a new concept in home financing. 90% of the first $20,000 and 80% of the next $5,000 can be financed through that organization. We also have F.H.A. insured and F.H.A. (in-service) insured loans, plus several trade in plans on your present home if you have one.

Wallpaper Enjoys a Comeback As An Aid Decoration of Home

Wallpaper has made a comeback as a decorating aid. Great improvements have been made in both design and process of wallpaper manufacture. The present market furnishes an enormous variety of papers, resulting in their wider use and a better understanding of their proper selection for particular purposes.

Wallpapers are manufactured in various widths, but are sold in bolts or sticks which may contain 2, 3, or 4 rolls. A roll is actually 36 square feet, but 30 square feet is used when estimating amounts. Paper is always priced by the roll.

Question of Pattern
One big question confronting the home decorator is whether a wall should be in a plain color or a pattern. A patterned wall contributes movement but may eventually tire the eye if the color and line contrast are too strong.

You may prefer to use wall papers for areas of transient use such as foyers, corridors, dining rooms, guest bedrooms, children's rooms, powder rooms, closets, bathrooms and playrooms. Papers are thought less adaptable for living rooms and master bedrooms. Generally, patterned walls are more satisfactory with subdued or plain colored floor covering and draperies, which in turn should harmonize in color with the paper.

Walls with many openings or breaks are not suited to a large pattern. If paper is desirable for a particular room, the subject or pattern should be in character with the use of the room, and if possible should help express the personality or interest of the owner. The scale of the pattern must be consistent with the size of the room and the height of the walls. Vertical lines accent height. Horizontal lines tend to lower height.

Light is Important
In most cases, ceilings should be painted a lighter tone of the color of the wallpaper background. The amount and character of natural light should influence the selection of the general tone value of the paper. Light papers are best for dark rooms.

Large or strong patterns often limit the use of pictures of other wall accessories. Small pictures are lost in large patterns.

Remember also that small samples of wallpaper often become overpowering when repeated on large surfaces. It is better to underplay patterns than to overdo them.

It's not a good idea to apply new paper over old. Walls are the background for your furniture and you, so, plan thoroughly before selecting.

The wall finish most often used today is paint. In thinking about using this type of wall finish look before you paint.

There is no all-purpose paint. The correct type of easy upkeep paint must be selected for specific uses, so know the problem, study paints, and be sure you know how to apply paint.

It's a good idea to experiment first with a small piece of wood or fabric, or an unnoticeable spot, before painting the entire surface. Paint is the only finish with which you can't dictate the exact color. You may need to mix and test under various lights. Using related colors in adjoining rooms, not necessarily in the same way, or in the same values, helps create a feeling of unity while still allowing each room to hold its individuality. Paint is darker after it dries, so here again, testing will help get the color you want.

Very light, warm colors give a neutral background for furniture and help keep the home bright and cheery, even on the darkest days. Woodwork and walls painted the same color add space to the appearance of a small room.

Once you have decided on the color, study the paints and prepare the room. Clear away the furniture and remove all books from the shelves. Patch small cracks, sand or scrape all scaling paint, remove all electric outlets and switch plates.

and spread cloths over a wide area to guard against splattering. Open the windows for ventilation. Don't forget to dress sensibly for free movement, and add a cap for your hair. Read directions and follow them.

Radio Honor Won By Edgar Koontz

C. Edgar Koontz, W4QCL, 114-33rd St., Virginia Beach, Virginia has been awarded membership in the DX Century Club, exclusive society of amateur radio operators who have made two-way short-wave radio contacts with at least 100 countries and colonies of the world.

Using the call letters W4QCL, assigned by the Federal Communications Commission, he talks regularly from his home with "ham" associates all over the earth — a fraternity of 250,000 men and women.

The American Radio Relay League, national amateur society, sponsors the DXCC award for proficiency in radio operating which becomes a special asset during natural disasters such as floods or tornadoes, and during war time when the armed forces must have large numbers of trained communicators in a hurry.

Whispering Pines Garden Club Elects Officers, Plans Plant Sale

The April meeting of the Whispering Pines Garden Club was held on the 27th at the home of Mrs. S. S. Howard, 3230 1st street.

Officers elected for the coming year were: Mrs. S. W. Ferguson, president; Mrs. L. P. Crockett, vice president; Mrs. N. C. Edge, 2nd vice president; Mrs. S. S. Howard, corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. A. Horton, recording secretary, and Mrs. W. B. Hall.

It was decided that the club would have a backyard plant sale on May 4 at the home of Mrs. Lewis Smith, 628 22nd street.

Mrs. H. E. Billups spoke on methods of drying flowers and showed a variety she had dried using mixtures of borax, cornmeal or sand. By drying flowers while they are available in our gardens we can enjoy their beauty and color year-round.

Guests were Mrs. John Adams, Mrs. D. N. Bailey and Mrs. J. A. Clark.

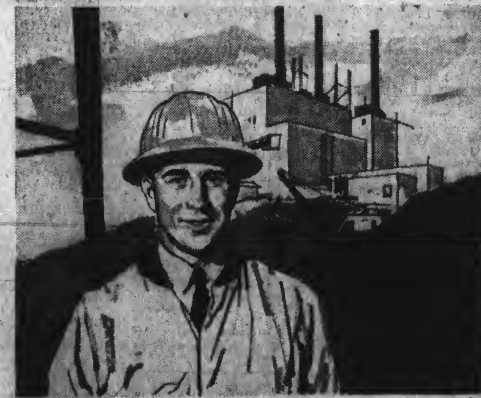

New members welcomed into the club were Mrs. C. A. Waller, Mrs. C. T. Bagby, Mrs. J. A. Meredith, Mrs. F. E. Bennett and Mrs. Knaua.

Arrangements were judged by Mrs. J. B. Tillett and Mrs. D. P. Hinkler. Ribbons were awarded to the following: Mrs. Lewis Smith and Mrs. S. S. Howard, blue; Mrs. S. W. Ferguson, Mrs. F. E. Bennett and Mrs. L. P. Crockett, red; and Mrs. N. C. Edge, yellow. In the horticulture division Mrs. Lewis Smith had three blue, two red and one yellow and Mrs. N. C. Edge a yellow.

European Gardens Is Lecture Subject

Mrs. Parlette L. Davis will entertain the Princess Anne Garden Club on Monday, May 8 at the Princess Anne Country Club.

There will be a business meeting at 2:30 p.m., followed by a lecture on European Gardens by Frederick Huette, superintendent of Parks and Forestry for the City of Norfolk.

MR. GREEN, at the lumberyard, whose incoming shipments of building materials mean business for our railroad. He's just one of many local businessmen who look to the N&W for dependable transportation. In fact, of the scores of things you buy... from cars to china cabinets, from food to fertilizer... much of it travels by N&W.

MR. SMITH, traffic manager of the factory who sends his company's products to market on the N&W, knows that his shipments will be handled swiftly and efficiently. Dependable transportation is vital to the successful operation of his company... and a successful, growing company provides more job opportunities for local folks.

MR. BROWN, at the electric plant, who keeps power flowing to your home — your lights, your refrigerator, your TV... your schools and other buildings. We're proud that his company's plant generates power from coal hauled by the N&W. Coal creates traffic, and jobs in mining, transportation and power generation.

MR. JONES, the banker, who works to bring new industry to your town. We're backing his efforts with promotion, personal selling by our Industrial Department, an extensive, scientific industrial study of our territory. And for good reason — new plants create more jobs and prosperity for your community, more trade for our railroad.

These four know the score
...on efficient transportation

And so do thousands of other folks along our lines... who directly or indirectly use N&W service. We of the Norfolk and Western are dedicated to continued service to all of you, and to working as your partner and neighbor to bring progress and prosperity to your community.

When someone says, "Your Johnny's just like you," is it a compliment, or is it an accusation? Whether you like it or not, children do follow in their parents' footsteps.

Johnny learns that kindness and courtesy are virtues, because you are kind and courteous. He learns to love good books and music, because you love them. He learns, through your example, to speak truthfully.

And if going to church and church school regularly is also a part of your usual routine, Johnny will develop that habit just as he has these others.

Then it is a compliment when someone says, "Your Johnny's just like you," for you are doing all within your power to lead him in the right direction.

Virginia Beach Needs a New Community Hospital — "SO DO YOU" — Support the General Hospital Fund

New Dividend Allotment Due On Vet Policies

Over five million veterans will share in a "Special" dividend on their U.S.G.I. and their N.E.L.I. policies. President Kennedy has just announced Payment of this "Special" dividend will commence on July 1 and the processing should be completed by the Veterans Administration on Labor Day, John S. Gleason, Jr., Administrator of Veterans Affairs, stated.

Payments will be made automatically without the necessity of an application Gleason reported and will be made to some 4,800,000 veterans of WW II holding N.E.L.I. and to approximately 200,000 WW I veterans who have U.S.G.I. policies.

Recently the President ordered a speed up of the "Regular" dividend as a stimulus to the economy and payments were completed last March 17.

The payment of the "Special" dividend was authorized after a consultation by the VA Actuarial Advisory Committee, composed of experts from some of the largest insurance companies in the nation, and studies by VA's own insurance specialists. This study of contingency reserves indicated that the "Special" dividend could be paid in consonance with sound insurance practices without jeopardy to the veteran's insurance funds.

Both the "Regular" and "Special" dividends are a return to the policyholders of part of the premium payments and are possible principally because the death rate among policyholders continues to be much lower than the rates upon which the premiums were established by law.

Veterans are reminded not to make inquiries in advance as the time necessary to make replies would tend to create a delay in payment.

No Need To Paint Again Until You Want To Change Colors

SPRED SATIN outperforms all other interior paints because it dries to a rubber-tough latex film with colors that stay bright. It keeps your rooms new-looking until you want to change the color scheme. SPRED SATIN is so durable it can be washed repeatedly without damage or fading.

SPRED SATIN goes on twice as fast with roller or brush — no tugs, no laps, no brush marks. It dries in twenty minutes, rooms are back in use immediately. Choose from wide range of new latex colors.

P.A. TRAINING SCHOOL NEWS

By LINWOOD HOLSEY

Congratulations! Mr. Price and Track team.

Some of the members of the track team went to the Penn Relays held in Philadelphia, Penn., on Thursday, April 27. The following members went: Benny Smith, Captain; Rufus Knight, Leon Fitzgerald, Howard Smith, Henry Spencer, Theophilus Lawton, and William Chang.

These boys brought home a second place in their division from the many schools participating. Mr. Price coach, and the team were given a warm welcome back home in the auditorium on Monday morning. Mr. Price, then gave the members of the mile-relay their medals for second place, in the Penn Relays.

We are proud to know that we have such fine boys in our school, and they represented us well. Keep up the good work boys—from the students and faculty.

Senior Day was observed Friday April 28 for all Seniors in the area. The P.A. seniors also participated in this event which was held at the Norfolk Division, Virginia State College.

Church Women Schedule May Fellowship Day

United Church Women of Princess Anne Council of Church Women will participate in the nationwide observance of May Fellowship Day on May 5 with services beginning at 11:00 a.m., at Chaghy Methodist Church at Back Bay.

Mrs. T. S. Gaskill of Cape Charles, VIRGINIA CONTACT Representative on Oligant Work, will be the guest speaker and will also show slides. Mrs. Gaskill is especially concerned with the child care center at Cheritan and with the work in Accomac County. Open House is held in July for anyone caring to visit and see how the work is carried on.

May Fellowship Day is an annual observance sponsored by United Church Women, a general department of the National Council of Churches. There are more than 2,200 local and state councils of United Church Women taking part in this year's observance.

The theme for the day is "The Churches Free and Responsible". The theme points up our responsibility not only as individuals but as Christian groups. The responsibility and the freedom of the churches are matters of nationwide concern. The hope is that study of this problem will help to develop a clearer understanding of the role of the churches in the community and nation.

The offering received on May Fellowship Day is used to continue and to expand the work of the local and state councils.

Following the service a Fellowship Hour will follow.

The meeting will be presided over by Mrs. R. G. Hollomon, president of the Princess Anne Council of Church Women.

Mrs. Arthur Laramie, chairman of May Fellowship Day, will present the program.

THE MIXING BOWL...

IT'S Fun TO COOK

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

For the very latest in food facts and fables... for practical, down-to-earth recipes that please both palate and pocketbook, read the "Mixing Bowl" by Lucile Clark each Thursday in the Sun-News.

Pound cake is "period," like milk glass, fat Paul Revere silver teapots or Hepplewhite chairs. Its delicate, fine-grained firmness bespeaks the elegance of the 18th Century when hospitality was an art — you might say a law — in America.

About 1750 a perfect, tender cake was expected of the mistress of a fine home when guests came to tea or coffee. There was no better evidence of good housekeeping in Colonial days than a light hand with cakes.

The traditional flavoring for pound cakes was then, and still is, ground mace. Mace gives a tasteless fragrance to sweet, rich foods. Not only is it great in pound cakes and yellow cakes generally, but chocolate dishes are even better for a pinch of this exotic spice. When the cherry pie season comes along, remember that a little mace gives cherries a famous flavor.

Just in case you've never known, mace and nutmeg are products of the same tropical evergreen tree, native to the Molucca Islands, Indonesia and to Grenada in the West Indies. This tree bears a peach-like fruit with a seed which is nutmeg. Around this seed is a lacy web. The lace is mace.

Nutmeg has a sweet, warm flavor with a spicy undertone. It's delightful in puddings, sauces, baked goods, particularly doughnuts, beverages, such as flaps, punches and eggnogs.

But to return to our pound cakes: Here are three heirloom-type pound cakes recipes from the test kitchens of the American Spice Trade Association. Spiced Pound Cake and Georgia Pound Cake are made without leavening. Five or six eggs, beaten into the butter-sugar mixture one by one, hold in the air which lusty beating works into the batter.

Spiced Lemon Pound Cake uses double-acting baking powder as well as eggs, so has a texture a bit more like that of a butter cake. Pound Cakes are so good and rich that frosting isn't really needed. In this matter, however, you'll want to please your family. A butter frosting containing a little mace makes the rich richer and more luscious.

Spiced Pound Cake
1 pound (2 sticks) butter or margarine
1 1/2 teaspoons ground nutmeg or mace
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
5 eggs, unbeaten
2 cups sifted cake flour

Have all ingredients at room temperature. Soften butter or margarine. Add spice and salt. Beat 4 minutes by electric beater or 8 minutes by hand. Gradually blend in sugar until fluffy, beating 2 minutes by electric beater or 3 minutes by hand. Beat in 4 of the eggs, one at a time, total beating time 1 minute with electric beater or 2 minutes by hand. Stir in all the flour at one time. Beat 2 minutes by electric beater or 5 minutes by hand. Blend in remaining egg 15 seconds by electric beater or 30 seconds by hand. Turn into a well-greased lightly floured 8x4x4-inch tube-cake pan.

Place in a cold oven. Set oven control to (300°F) slow. Bake cake mixed by electric mixer 2 hours, the one mixed by hand 1 1/2 hours. (Since the electric beater entraps a little more air into the batter, it produces a cake that is a little thicker.) Cool in pan 10 minutes. Turn out onto wire rack to finish cooling. Serve plain without frosting or if desired sprinkle top lightly with confectioners' sugar.

YIELD—One 8x4x4 tube cake.

Spiced Georgia Pound Cake
1 pound (2 sticks) butter or margarine
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg or mace
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1 pound sifted confectioners' sugar
6 eggs, unbeaten
3 cups sifted all-purpose flour

Place butter or margarine in a mixing bowl. Mix until softened. Blend in nutmeg or mace and pure vanilla extract. Gradually stir in confectioners' sugar. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Gradually stir in flour. Grease only the bottom and lightly flour a 10x4-inch round loaf pan. (Do not grease the sides). Bake in a pre-heated slow oven (325°F) 1 hour and 20 minutes or until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean.

YIELD—One 10-inch tube cake.

Spiced Lemon Pound Cake
4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
4 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1 teaspoon ground mace
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine
2 cups sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 cup milk

Sift flour, baking powder, mace, and salt. Cream butter or margarine and gradually add sugar. Beat until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add lemon rind. Add flour mixture alternately with milk, beating until smooth. Pour into a greased and floured 10x4-inch tube-cake pan. Bake in a pre-heated slow oven (325°F) for 1 hour and 15 minutes or until a cake tester inserted in center of cake comes out clean.

YIELD—One 10-inch cake.

SPICE TIPS
Nutmeg adds flavor to lemon sauce. For added flavor to lemon sauce, add ground nutmeg to taste.

Serve over puddings, cake or gingerbread.

Mace adds the Gourmet touch to creamed chicken dishes. To give cream of chicken soup or other creamed dishes the gourmet's touch, add 2 blades of whole mace to the pot when cooking the chicken.

May is usually a month of entertaining for Mother's Day, May Day parties, blushing June brides or just plain wanting to have a springtime party. Tiny sandwiches, cheese straws, dainty Danish pastries, slices of delicious pound cake and cookies of your choice make up party favorites.

Here are some recipes you might like to try.

Snoopyballs
1 lb. butter (2 sticks)
1 cup 4x sugar
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup finely chopped nuts
Cream butter and sugar together until fluffy. Add flour, salt, vanilla and nuts. Thoroughly blend. Shape into tiny balls and place on ungreased baking sheet or in a shallow pan. Bake about 15 minutes in a 350° oven. Remove and roll in 4x sugar. When thoroughly cooled, store in cookie tin.

Holiday Punch

3 6-oz. cans frozen pineapple concentrate 3 6-oz. cans frozen orange concentrate 3 6-oz. cans frozen lemon concentrate
8 cup white corn syrup
1 bottle Sherry or Port Wine
3 quarts cold water
3 quarts sparkling water
Combine 3 fruit concentrates, syrup and wine. Mix well and chill for several hours or overnight to blend flavors. About 15 minutes before serving time pour chilled fruit concentrate and wine in punch bowl and add sparkling water. Blend and put in good size block of ice. Makes about 3 gallons.

Seaside Park Features Two Popular Bands

The Seaside Park ballroom is a lively spot at Virginia Beach these weekends. Two favorite orchestras, the Vagabonds and the Saints — divide the time on the stand. The former play Friday nights and the Saturday and Sunday matinee sessions; the Saints motivate the action Saturday nights.

One Sunday afternoon session proved so popular that it was extended for three hours, winding up at 8:00 P.M., and provision has been made to continue the longer hours to accommodate future Sunday crowds.

Seaside Park continues open on weekends—Friday, Saturday and Sunday—through the spring season, with virtually all the resort's attractions in operation. This includes the midway's wide variety of rides, both for adults and the youngsters, a number of new skill games and the regular old favorites, and the refreshment stands.

Princess Anne Crop Diversion Brings $77,179

As of April 27, corn and grain sorghum producers on 180 farms in Princess Anne County had filed forms indicating their intention to participate in the 1961 feed grain program, Russell Dudley, chairman, County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announced today.

In an effort to increase farm income and to stop the buildup of feed grain supplies, the program provides special payments to corn and grain sorghum producers who agree to divert a portion of the acreage formerly planted to these two crops to an approved conservation use. While the program is voluntary, corn and grain sorghum producers will not be eligible for price support on any of their 1961 feed grain crops unless they cooperate in the feed grain program.

The chairman reported that 7700 acres of corn and 10 acres of grain sorghum on the "participating" farms have been signed up for diversion to conservation use. The farms have 1850-60 base acres totaling 6,679 acres for corn and 10 acres for grain sorghum. The minimum and maximum diversions for a particular farm are calculated from its 1959-60 base acreage.

Negotiable certificates issued as payments for diversion from corn and grain sorghum production have a total value of $77,179.36. These certificates are redeemable either in feed grains or in the cash equivalent. Slightly under half the total payment to be earned on a farm under the feed grain program will be made in advance if the farmer requests it.

Grain and corn sorghum farmers in the county who are interested in the program but who have not yet filed an "intention-to-participate" form are urged to get in touch with the County ASC Office without delay.

St. Gregory's Club to Elect

The St. Gregory's Women's Club held their April meeting in their Social Hall.

The nominating committee presented the slate of officers to be elected on the May meeting as follows:

President, Mrs. Glenn Perkins; Vice-President, Mrs. John Ward; Recording Secretary, Mrs. A. De la Cruz; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Roland Swartz; and Treasurer, Mrs. Reginald Barber.

Speaker of the evening was Mr. Harold Ulrich, member of St. Gregory's Mens Club, who spoke on plans for this year's "Summer Festival" to be held in July.

New Thalia Pupils To Register May 11

On Thursday, May 11, all children living within the district served by Thalia Elementary School, who will be six years of age on or before October 1, 1961, are expected to attend the Pre-School registration to be held at the school at 2:30 p.m.

All children will need birth certificates. A copy of the certificate for school files is needed by a child born out of the state of Virginia. Those with Virginia birth certificates will need to present them for pertinent information, but they will be returned.

A nurse from Princess Anne County Health Department will be on hand to discuss the pre-school vaccinations and shots and other health department services.

IT ISN'T JUST PLAIN LUCK THAT MURPHY MEN ARE MOST SUCCESSFUL

We need good men interested in selling. We want to pay those men $10,000, $15,000 or more annually in selling our line of Rembrandt Paints.

We are the pioneer organization and today's leader. We are recognized with an AAA-1 rating and national reputation for production and performance.

Our 72nd Line, strictly new, exclusive, copyrighted, is heavily endorsed by industry, financial institutions, the general business and professional field. Our line includes indoor billboards, posters, art, specialized and custom made calendars, practical specialties and timely gift items.

Our territories are definite. Your accounts are protected. High commissions are paid upon acceptance of all orders, plus a liberal cash bonus.

Our 1960 sales again hit all time high. Our 72nd Line is really terrific. We furnish everything — no investment required.

Act promptly. Deline's experience. Give three references.

FARM SCIENCE

Teacher was discussing the wonders of science with her class of nine year olds. They were each naming the most wonderful machines in the world—television, airplanes, submarines, etc. One little girl spoke up to say she thought a hen was the most wonderful.

"Why a hen?" asked the teacher. "Well," answered the little girl, "do you know anything else that will take all our table scraps and turn them into fresh eggs?"

PRINCESS ANNE 4-H STEERS

SHOW EXCELLENCE QUALITY Princess Anne County is extremely proud of the 19 boys and girls who were enrolled in the 12th Annual 4-H Junior Steer Project. The proudest of all is this tired but joyful County Agent, who says that the boys and girls this year have done the best job he has observed in the eight years he has been in the county. Cockrell says all the boys and girls have done an outstanding job throughout the year, since receiving their calves on September 17th. The cattle were well fed as evidenced by the grading of the calves at the show. Five calves graded prime, eleven calves graded choice, and three calves graded good.

The cattle were extremely well groomed and trained, showing many hours of hard work by the boys and girls with their steers. These 4-H Club members deserve a great deal of credit for their accomplishments this year.

The placings in the show are as follows: First place in the Hereford Class went to Jimmy Johnson, who also received the Champion Hereford Award, and the Grand Champion of the Show. Second place, Bobby Vaughan; third place, Bill Cannon; fourth, Gale Craddock; fifth, Joe Pease; sixth, Stephanie Pease; seventh, Johnny Joyce; eighth, Clyde Moon, ninth, Richard Joyce; tenth, Diane Frost; and eleventh, David Moulton.

Princess Anne Angus placings are as follows: First, Jerry Moulton, who also received the Champion Angus award and Reserve Grand Champion of the Show; second, Lee Parker; third, Al Basnight; fourth, Eddy Vaughan; fifth, Joe Moulton; sixth, Lee Durham; seventh, Jackie Elliott, and eighth, Clyde Freeman, III.

Boys and girls must not only do a good job of showing their cattle, but must also do a good job of feeding their steers. The Princess Anne Hereford steers gained 435 pounds average per head, from the time they were received in September. The Angus steers gained 311 pounds during the same period. However, this is but one of the many activities conducted by the VPI Extension Service in this county, and now we must look forward to many other activities which will be coming up in the near future.

JUDGING TEAMS TO COMPETE

Princess Anne will have two 4-H Judging Teams competing in the Southeastern district. On May 13, the Land Appreciation Team will compete for honors at the District Contest to be held in Richmond, Virginia. The members of this team are Bill Cannon, Dan Humphries, Tommy Chien, and Joe Pease.

On May 20th, the 4-H Livestock Judging Team from the County will compete with the other counties in the Southeastern district. This contest will be held in Courtland, Virginia. Members of this team have not been determined yet, since the boys are still working hard to make a team. Those who are working out are Bobby Vaughan, Johnny Joyce, Joe Moulton, Al Basnight, Gale Craddock, John Osmundson, and Tommy Bonboy. All of these are bucking for who makes the team.

PLAN NOW FOR SUMMER PASTURE

Act now to avoid pasture problems this summer.

The lack of mid-summer grazing is a recurring problem on many Princess Anne County farms. Here are some suggestions to ease the problem.

Plant sudan grass, sudex, or pearl millet. Graze one cutting of alfalfa and orchard grass. Use reserve pasture, or plant to harvest excess tall grass and ladino or other pasture in early May for silage, and then use this pasture for grazing the rest of the season. Use rotational grazing for all tall grass and ladino clover pastures.

WEEVILS CONTROLLED IN FALLOUTREATED FIELDS

Alfalfa fields which received the recommended dose of heptachlor last fall apparently are virtually free of the troublesome weevil.

But, several fields not treated last fall have alfalfa weevil larvae present. Many farmers using the malathion and methoxychlor sprays (their only recourse now) are apparently getting good control. Do not use heptachlor in any form on alfalfa this spring.

BEWARE OF PHONY SEED PEDDLERS

The phony seed peddlers, like the proverbial bad penny, have turned up again.

Every spring and fall, hot-shot seed peddlers come out of hiding and try to dupe some farmers and suburbanites into buying poor quality seed, or seed of unadapted varieties. They reinforce their sales talk with pretty pictures or yields records to show how many bushels or tons per acre their seed will yield, or how their seed will turn your front lawn into a green paradise.

The joker in the deck is that these phony peddlers tell the truth—but not the whole truth. They forget to tell you the fields were irrigated, or that the yields were produced entirely different conditions than those in Virginia. Or perhaps that the beautiful lawn had a full-time gardener to take care of it.

Another kind of phony seed peddler is the one who poses as a seed expert, claiming he can look at seed and tell how good they are. Phony seed peddlers make many other approaches. Regulatory officials try to stop them, but often the people that suffer don't mention their seed source until after they have trouble—and then the "seed expert" is never seen again. Your chances of getting good seed of adapted variety are far better when you buy from a reliable local seed dealer. Before buying from anyone, be sure the seed has a current purity and germination test, that it is adapted to our area, and that it is a variety of proved ability.

If you suspect a seed peddler as being a phony, get a sample of the seed and then send the sample to the Virginia Department of Agriculture in Richmond for testing. Poor seed of unadapted varieties is never a bargain.

Observing "Hospital Week"

Virginia Beach Hospital one of the members of the Tidewater Hospital Council which is joining other medical institutions this week in holding open house in honor of the annual celebration. (Boice Studio.)

Even Newsmen Need Friends When Cape Canaveral Is Goal

"Never discount the value of friends." This statement was brought home forcibly last week when a trio of representatives of the Virginia Beach Sun-News witnessed the launching of the first American into outer space at Cape Canaveral, Fla. as Virginia Beach's Commissioner, Alan B. Shepard, seemed "out of this world" in a Redstone rocket.

The story of how Fred A. Haycox, George Gilliam and Albin R. Malthe, all representing the Virginia Beach Sun-News, were able to secure last minute official press badges to get on the "Cape" for the rocket launching started on Thursday morning, May 4, the day before the scheduled launching.

Tight Situation
It was Thursday morning in the Sun-News office when Haycox remembered an old friend, Captain Theodore S. Johnson, who was in the base, the base just outside Cape Canaveral. A hurried call to Capt. Johnson brought forth the information that if we came down there was hardly a chance to get "out on the Cape." Capt. Johnson said he would continue working on the matter while we were in flight.

Taking off from the Norfolk Municipal Airport at 12:45 p.m., the Virginia Beach representatives arrived at Melbourne, Fla., at about 1:30 p.m. Melbourne is located about 30 miles from Cape Canaveral. The first order of business was a call to Capt. Johnson. Again we were told the situation was "very tight," but he told us of conversations he had arranged during the day with NASA officials the group in charge of Project Mercury and the scheduled rocket launching.

Thursday night we dined with Capt. and Mrs. (Helen) Johnson, and more telephone calls to the "Cape" brought little encouragement. We decided to go directly to the motel where the astronauts had been quartered and where the NASA public and press information was maintained.

Through the Jeffersons, we met a Lt. Col. Ken Grimes, who was the air force officer assigned to the press detail for the Friday launching. He is the public information officer for Patrick Air Force Base normally.

At about midnight Col. Grimes came to us with three official press badges and at this point we felt that we had accomplished the impossible. With the badges we were able to go directly to the special press observation area on Cape Canaveral early the next morning and we witnessed from 6000 feet the launching of America's first man in space. It was a thrilling experience and a moment of unequalled excitement.

But, through all the excitement and the crowded press badges it was evident that without good friends like the Jeffersons it would not have been possible and our hurried trip to witness this historic-making flight would have been in vain without their help through valuable contacts on the scene.

Hospital Fund's Public Appeal Due Next Week

The preliminary phase of the current campaign for $800,000 to provide a new open staff community general hospital at Virginia Beach is approaching its climax with three advance gifts divisions at work. They are: Master gifts, William P. Dickson Jr., Chairman; Doctors (medical division), Dr. John Crawford, chairman; special gifts, A. Gordon Stephenson, chairman. Reports on the results of these divisions will not be available until their work is completed. Meanwhile, the general terms solicitation of the general public will begin next week under the chairmanship of B. M. Stanton.

Gifts of the board of directors and others have already been received in amounts sufficient to cover the purchase of the existing Virginia Beach Hospital. The project contemplates erecting a substantial addition to the present hospital, and gifts now received will apply to the addition. Widespread publicity is being given the program, according to William P. Vaughan, publicity chairman, by all media including newspapers, TV and radio in this community effort. WABC-TV (Channel 18) will present a special theme titled "Hospital Week" on Saturday at six o'clock. Campaign officials have appealed to local residents to stand by in interest in the campaign organization.

United Airlines Crews To Stay For Time Being

Council Quickly Gives Shepard Honors of City

The Virginia Beach City Council, in special session the afternoon of Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard's historic flight into space, named him Honorary Mayor of Virginia Beach for life and conferred upon the Dome the name Alan B. Shepard Convention Center.

It didn't take long for the city fathers to memorialize their adopted son. Councilman Canon moved that Mayor Dusch's resolution on the honorary mayoralty be adopted almost before the unanimous vote was recorded. Councilman Kitchin moved that the Center be given its new name.

And, while the action was taken quickly and joyfully, there was a note of deep reverence and prayerful thanksgiving in the proceedings with the prayer offered by the Rev. Henry G. Morgan, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

"Louise Shepard Lake" Is Named For Her Wife

The 36-acre Lake Alice, adjoining the new Bow Creek Golf Course, has a new distinction and Princess Anne's astronaut family has a new honor.

The lake is now "Louise Shepard" and Cmdr. Alan Shepard and his family have been made life members of the 18-hole golf club.

In a letter to Cmdr. Shepard, John Aragona Enterprises, Inc., over Aragona's signature, the organization took the note of the epic flight into space but, with a bow to the axiom that home is where the heart is, the letter went on:

"To say nothing about your courageous wife, Louise, would be a great mistake—her faith in you and your work gave faith to America in these crucial days. Well done to both of you."

The letter recounted the action taken by the Aragona board of directors and co-eds. "Your certificate of Life Membership will follow in a few days and may keep you safe and healthy for many years to come; God bless you."

Beach Chamber Defeats Proposal To Change Name

A name change for Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce was turned down by members in a mail vote counted Monday. A majority of the 193 ballots cast, 102, favored the proposed change to Virginia Beach—Princess Anne Chamber of Commerce. But chamber president Albin R. Malthe said by-laws require a two-thirds majority of those voting to carry the resolution. A three-fourths majority would have been 129 ballots.

The name-change move was preliminary to a plan to include county firms and individuals in the chamber.

Company Tells Beach C of C "No Move Now"

United Airlines does not contemplate moving flight crews from this area after its merger with Capital Airlines until the merged operation has been experienced for a period of time, according to Charles M. Mason, vice-president in charge of employee relations for United.

The airline's position was outlined in a letter to Albin R. Malthe, president of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, received this week.

There will be a complete evaluation of the present number of flight crews at Norfolk until such time as we can evaluate the development of the combined operation," Mason pointed out.

The letter from Mason was in reply to one written by Malthe a few weeks ago when it was learned that United might be considering shifting the present Capital flight crews from this area.

A great percentage of the flight crews and their families reside in the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County area and the Chamber of Commerce expressed its concern to United officials on a possible movement of this personnel.

Harrison Gives Hampton Roads Top Importance

A. S. Harrison, Jr., Democratic candidate for Governor, offered to Virginia's last week a 12-point program—backed by the full prestige, power and influence of the Governor's office—for industrial development in the state.

"The success of any industrial development program will depend upon the chief executive of the state," Harrison said. "If I am elected Governor, I pledge my vigorous, untiring and enthusiastic support of industrial development and the expansion of the economy."

"I shall marshal the full prestige, power and influence of the office behind this effort. The Governor's office consists of those of other state, county and municipal offices should be open to all citizens and representatives of development, corporations, chambers of commerce and other civic organizations."

All-Out Effort
"These efforts should be always available for consultation and conference. Nothing less than an all-out effort will suffice. Such an effort can be made effectively and with dignity, I propose to make it."

The program for industrial development, the first major plank in Harrison's platform for July 14 Democratic primary election, would operate squarely within a climate favorable to business, "an atmosphere in which government, management and labor line and work-together in full recognition of their interdependence and mutual interest."

"We must resist in the future, as we have in the past, the efforts of those who would repeal or weaken Virginia's right-to-work law," Mr. Harrison said. "The welfare, dignity and independence of the laboring man depend on this—as well as any successful industrial development program in Virginia."

Mayor Frank A. Dusch, on behalf of the City of Virginia Beach, presents to Mrs. Alan B. Shepard, wife of the astronaut, a bouquet of roses. (Boice Studio.)

Astronauts' Family Quietly Waits, Then Is Deluged With Plaudits

While the eyes of the world were focused on Cape Canaveral last week where the nerve-rattling delay in Project Mercury was holding up Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard's space flight, a tense, down-to-earth drama was being enacted in quiet Bay Colony.

Behind drawn curtains in a modest home in a relaxed neighborhood where the Shepards have been welcomed as "friends down the block" there was none of the hurried excitement that was going on around the Florida launching pad. The neighbors on Brandon Road were discreet and considerate of the astronaut's family and realized that here again was a case of the home folks having to sit and wait.

By GEORGE GILLIAM
DATE: May 5, 1961
PLACE: Cape Canaveral, Florida.
TIME: Beginning early in the morning.

3:30 A.M.—Telephone rings; desk advises 3:30, time to get up.
4:00 A.M.—Off by rental car to the Holiday Inn near Cape Canaveral for breakfast. All shapes and sizes of news photographers, reporters, TV and radio people all conversation the same; weather looks good; how everything things goes well.

5:00 A.M.—Big blue and silver Air Force buses from Patrick Air Force Base start pulling up in front of Holiday Inn; finish breakfast; start lining up to get on bus; don't forget to pin on "press badge"; we worked so hard to get last night; finally on bus; give name to Air Force Captain; he checks list and waves us on to a seat.

5:15 A.M.—Bus finally pulls out and we're on our way to "The Cape"; sun just coming up and the sky are clear over Cape Canaveral.

5:40 A.M.—Pull up at the main gate; Pan American Security Guard climbs aboard and checks to see that all have badges; horizon shows gantries of all sizes and shapes; huge radar and telemetry antennas dotted all over the landscape; feeling of being in on something real big takes over.

5:50 A.M.—Bus turns off main road and at last to the press observation area; big raised platform studded with TV cameras, telephone lens cameras, little ones, big ones; where is the Mercury-Redstone Missile, of course, how could you miss it; every camera and every eye is focused on one spot about a mile and three quarters to the southeast; and there it stands, shining in the bright orange early-morning sun.

6:00 A.M.—Low clouds on the horizon off shore and to the south.
6:05 A.M.—Loudspeaker of the public address system crackles alive and announces T minus 30 minutes and a hold for about ten minutes; someone playing a tape recording of activities since Alan Shepard was awakened, time of breakfast, what he ate, when he put on his space suit, when he got into the van for transport from Hanger 8 to the launching pad.

6:10 A.M.—Time check... set your watches, and resume countdown at T minus 30.

ARMED FORCES DAY CELEBRATION MAY 20 FEATURES BG PARADE

A mammoth parade, consisting of more than 60 units in the line of march, and led by a host of dignitaries, will step out at 10 a.m. Saturday, May 20, on its 22-block hike up Atlantic Avenue.

With Rep. Thomas N. Downing, First Congressional District member of the House of Representatives, acting as military marshal and Ena Roy Carstene, newly assigned to the Oceana Naval Air Station, as the military marshal, the parade components will begin assembling at 8th Street and Atlantic Avenue at 8 a.m.

The line of march moves off from 8th Street promptly at 10 and proceeds past the reviewing stand to be erected at 30th and Atlantic.

Units of all the services stationed in the area will be represented with a variety of bands, drum and bugle corps, color guards, drill teams and mobile equipment.

High school bands in the Tidewater area will add a colorful note and representatives of civic and fraternal organizations will be on hand again.

City and county officials, invited administrative authorities from other communities and high brass from the armed services will be at the head of the procession.

Capt. C. K. Harper, chairman of the Armed Forces Day Committee, and the City of Virginia Beach have extended invitations to a select list of guests to join dignitaries in watching the parade from the covered reviewing stand.

After the parade, the distinguished guests will attend a cocktail party and luncheon at the Sir Walter Hotel.

The afternoon, a boat parade will sail along the beach and efforts are being completed for a fly-over by a fleet of out-moded, slow-moving planes from which flyers provided by the garden clubs can be tossed to the decks of the pleasure craft in the water spectacle.

Colonel Grimes indicated that he had visited Virginia Beach but that he would like to after hearing what Al Shepard has said about it.

Tidewater Builders Home Show Opens Friday At Norfolk Arena

The Tidewater Association of Home Builders is sponsoring the Tidewater Builders' Home Show Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Norfolk Arena.

With 52 exhibits to be seen, the sponsors say the show will feature "tomorrow's living" and the display will include entries from the Virginia Beach, Norfolk and Portsmouth chambers of commerce.

One unusual offering will be a "component part" house erected on stage before the audience Friday night and Saturday and Sunday from 2 to 10 p.m.

On hand, in addition, will be the winning displays in the Model Home Contest constructed by students in Tidewater secondary schools.

The show is part of the Tidewater Home Week celebration, set during the period May 8 to 14 by proclamation of the mayors of Virginia Beach, Norfolk, Portsmouth and South Norfolk.

Frederick Napolitano is president of the TAEHB and George M. C. Horner is executive director. Home Show chairman is Lawrence A. Sanicello and Estelle Doherty is director. Others active in planning the exhibit are: James E. Brown, Horace C. Cloutier, Clayton Shomaker, national sales director, Motor Sales, and publicity—advertising, Tom Matthews.

Every home community, working under Cloutier, is composed of Julian Raskin, Paul P. Merritt, Jr., Stanley Warshaw, Anthony Goss, L. J. Goldrich and W. A. Wile.

Applications for the position of manager of the Tidewater Builders' Home Show are now being received, according to William B. Lilliman, director of convention sales.

Major responsibility would involve handling detail plans for conventions, trade shows, exhibitions etc. It would also require handling housing for convention delegates.

Further information may be obtained from McCombs or Lilliman.

Rescue Squad Elects Officers

The Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County Rescue Squad held an election of officers Monday night at the squad headquarters. The following officials will be installed June 9 at a place to be selected.

Captain, A. B. Midgett; first lieutenant, Alvin Bailey; second lieutenant, Roy Hale; sergeant, Russell; plans and training officer, Marvin Hines; secretary, William Sutton; treasurer, Claude Edwards; public relations officer, Lewis Smith; and chaplain, James Midgett.

Named to the advisory council were: President, Judge Robert Watson; vice president, Dr. J. A. White; legal advisor, J. Peter Holland, III, and trustees—Ally Cohen, Fletcher Garlick and Reeves Johnson.

The medical advisors are Dr. John Mays, Dr. James Charlton and Dr. C. W. Dewell.

Beach Artist Wins Sears Show Prize

Three cash prize winners were named Saturday in the second annual All-American art show at Sears Roebuck & Co. on 21st St.

The $50 prize for the best oil painting went to John B. Apperson of Virginia Beach. The $25 prize for the best watercolor went to Lee Noro of Norfolk, and the $10 prize for the best example of the graphic arts was won by Peggy Clevary of Norfolk.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS our hospitals are engaged in providing high standard health care for our community; and
WHEREAS our hospitals are community service institutions, and are ever responsive to changing community health needs; and
WHEREAS our hospitals look to their partnership with the community to provide the best possible program of health care for the public;

BE IT RESOLVED that this community, in recognition of National Hospital Week, May 7-13, salutes its hospital for the provision of a vital community service and further accepts its responsibility as a partner in providing the health care services which answer the community need.

Highlites Of Ten Pin Bowling

Church and Military League
Congratulations to all you gentlemen, all the recap sheets had the bowlers fall names. You may see how much help this is to at the control center, and I thank you.

Princess Body Works was the high team for tonight. Wilbur Morris, rolling on this team had the high game for the evening with a 107. Oh, for three more pins. Maybe next week? Charles Ball, bowling for the Free Lancers had a bid 106, while Danny Marrow had a bid 104 for Princess Anne team. You were all so close to 200's.

Princess and Policemen's League
Warren Hiteshaw on the C. F. Kadas' team, was high for the league with a 579. Warren had 187-199-204. Jerry McGraw, on the Virginia Beach Fire Dept. team had the high game of 214. Don Clark, for the F.O.P. team had an even 200 game. Come on men, let's see some high sets this next week.

Pioneer Mixed League
This league is happy to welcome Betty Mauch back to the fold. After her short trip to the hospital, Betty Mauch is on the Virginia Gift Shop team, and had a nice 160 game, which is real good after the lay-off she had. Welcome home.

The ladies were in the line-up again. Marie Smith had a 326 set for the Lucky Strikes team. Marie is really bowling up a storm and we hope she keeps rolling. Rosanne Reed, rolling for the Southern Materials team had a nice 512 set. This is not unusual for Rosanne. She is one of our better and consistent bowlers. Doris Schutteit is coming back strong. Doris had a 507 set for Elyson's Atlantic team.

Haven't mentioned Bill Horner in two weeks and the typewriter can't take it. After writing about all those high sets and games of the previous weeks, the keys automatically type out his name. Now I feel I can say about him this week? Bill was high man for his team, had a even 200 the first Paul Goldman rolling for Kelly Supply was high with 508 set. Talk about consistent bowling. Paul rolled 178-179-179. Irv MacLeod had the high game for the evening with a flat 200. Smiling Sonny Doyle was high for his team with a 403. Come on, Sonny you can do better than that.

Thunderbird Major
These boys were rocking up some high games tonight. Mike Cimmino had high set of 603 for Hitz TV Team. Mike also had the high game with a 235. Art Leimbach rolled 238. Ed Muehlberger 222. Dick Arts 222. Pappy Bruner 214. Mac Modahan 215. Walt Pool and Ken Leach both had 215. Roy Taylor 215. These men complete their schedule May 16, and we're hoping to have many of these bowlers in our spring scratch league.

N.A.A. Oceana Civilian League
Good glory, you will look at what Melva Grinstead did tonight. Melva bowls for Bill's Sunoco Team, and bowl she did. Melva had a 231 game and a 377 set. Not only did Miss Grinstead win a Thunderbird Trophy, but she also won high game and high set for the ladies in this mixed league. I'm sorry to say that this is the last week of scheduled bowling for this league, we hate to see it end. It's been most enjoyable having this league bowl with us.

Princess Anne Ladies
Look here, the ladies are really racking up good scores. I'm sure Shirley Mosier was one happy girl. Shirley rolled a big 235 game and totaled a fine 544. Shirley's 226 game won a Thunderbird Trophy for her, and also takes high honors in this league for high game and high set. Nice going, Shirley.

Town and County League
Well the girls started at 8 p.m. this evening, and it sure agreed with one member of this league. I'm speaking of Pat Boccummi. Pat rolls for Barr's Pharmacy team, and had a good night. Pat rolled a 223 game and a 307 set, which was of course high for the league. Barr's team four points from the first place team, D. D. Bonney 223 rolled a 485 set.

Clay Wilson had a nice 482 set for her Atlantic Fuel Oil team. All-state Const. finally won four big points, must credit the win to Peggy Lechman and Betty Flynn. Peggy rolled a nice 465 set and Betty had a fine 432. Since this is my team I feel that I should give

Jerry Young Ends "Boot Camp" Stint

Jerry L. Young, son of Mrs. Lucille L. Young of 7205 Atlantic avenue, has graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Mich.

The graduation exercises, marking the end of nine weeks of "boot camp", included a full dress parade and review before military officials and civilian dignitaries.

In nine weeks of instruction, the "new recruit" is developed into a Navy "Bluejacket", ready for duty with the fleet.

Ball & Chain Mixed Doubles
High for this league was Danny Santivaci with a 232 game and 508 set. I'm usually writing about Danny's better half, but well good tonight. So congratulations to you Danny, that 232 was a pretty game.

Les and Lorraine Amundson won three points from the Lang aneckers. Lorraine was high for the ladies with a 462 set. This is not unusual for Lorraine. She is one of Thunderbirds better bowlers and surely our most consistent lady bowler.

Thursday Night Ladies
Shirley Schaefer was hot again tonight. Shirley bowls for the Live Wires, and came up with a 469 set, which was high for the league. Judy Allwin Davis had the high game with a 171.

Princess Anne Suburban
Al Hammett, where was your 600 tonight? Al has been getting 600 sets every week, and I was sure you would have another tonight, although there was sure nothing wrong with Al's 565 set. Al had 168-188-197. How's that for consistent bowling?

High for the night was Mr. Kerr with 303-100-243 for one of those over loving 600's. His big total was 603. Mr. Kerr is a real find on the recap sheet. Since I don't know Mr. Kerr I do hope he will forgive me, but in order to get any recognition (as I have stressed before) I must have a full name on the recap sheet. So I don't know Mr. Kerr I have given him the first name, Ben. Hope you don't mind Mr. Kerr but I wanted you to have the credit for this big set.

Pinbusters Ladies League
This is another league which is a lot of fun to watch. Since every week these girls show steady improvement. Last week Clary Wilson had high games, and this week she had a 205 game. This is the honors go to cute Bev McKelher first venture into the 200's, hope this is the first of many for her. The first is the toughest, so you're over the hump, Bev.

This league had another star. Barbara Anthony really found her spot today. Barbara had 181-179-180 for a 547 set. This Barbara's first 500, and she can't wait to tell her husband, cause he always wins when they are out pre-calling.

Friday Night Mixed League
Boy, the ladies came back strong tonight. Ruth Henke came back to lead the ladies with a big 191-184-194 for a 569 set. This league is back to her Oceanic Drug Team. And now look at the ladies on the Atlantic line. Team Scott Cashman rolled 183-172-209 for a 564 set, then her teammate Nell Santivaci is making me cry my words by coming up with a nice 506 set. Lorraine Kadas just missed the 500 mark, Lorraine had a 205 game for a 485 set.

Hub Lattimer was high for the men with a 551 set, and Dick Munford had the high game of 212.

Coffee Time League

High game for May was rolled by Betty Jugo of the Horse Shoe Girls with a 170. Betty also took high set for last week with a 511 series. Lou Cashman of the Do-Nuts came through with a 177 game, and Margaret Gregory of the Happy Buns bowled a 178 game.

Little League Season Opens With Fast Play

The Princess Anne Little League opened their season Sunday, May 7 with the Orioles, sponsored by WOFI radio, beating the Ducks, sponsored by Haynes Furniture Co. 12 to 6.

The Orioles are the leagues defending champions, although they played last season as the American Legion. Led by Robert German, who went 3 for 4 at the plate, the Orioles displayed plenty of batting power and a fine defensive team and will be a serious threat for the league championship again this year.

The outstanding play of the game, was made by the Ducks' left second baseman, Bevie Lord, who in the fifth went towards second base to take a line drive off the bat of Robert German with the bases loaded and prevented at least two Oriole runners from scoring.

Two home runs were hit during the game, both by Oriole players. Robert German hit the first in the third inning with one on, followed by Bart Phillips in the fourth with one runner on base.

Orioles 304 30-7 8 1
The winning pitcher for the Orioles was Billy Allen who held the Ducks scoreless for three innings and was relieved by Robert German in the fourth.

The second game of the season Tuesday night between Southern Materials and Rosewood was highlighted by a double play from Ormsby to Cann in the first inning.

Southern Materials 100 220-5 2 4
Rosewood 000 301-4 3 6
Hennley and Baine; Ormsby and Wilson.

Commercial Bowling League

Sandler Seafood continues to dominate play as they defeated Smith-Keene four to zero. Holt Buick stayed close behind as they also won four points at the expense of Firestone '50'.

With only two nights remaining in regular league play, only these two teams are in contention. Thus it looks like another down to the wire thriller.

Wally Bornemann coped high game honors with a 218.

Small Fry League
Note: All totals are for two games.
The Mixed Keglers took 2 pts. from the Crackerjacks as Anne Scott shot a resounding 181-227.

This was Anne's best game and she was a mighty happy girl. The Crackerjacks showed a 220 by Franklin Simpson and 204 by Jim Strickland.

Behind Jesse McDougall's 126-231 his bowlers took two points from The Cavaliers. Robert Dumas shot 210 for the Cavalier five. The feminine touch made it a clean sweep over the Markers as they weren't marking so well. Dale Moore and Sandra Cartwright hit a fine 233 and Evelyn Petree went up with 217 for the "Pems", while Ricky Dinkins hit a fine 214 for the Markers.

The Blue Angels won three the easy way as The Phenoms failed to make an appearance. Gerald Caldwell shot 202 while rolling off the foreleg.

The Vikings gained a forfeit as well as The Gators couldn't muster a full team. Don Foote clipped a 118-201 in the rolloff.

Bayside Businessmen
Chesapeake Atlantic split with Clark Chevy as Jim Verague shot a fine 192-244 and Joe Grundmeyer helped with 406.

Despite steady shooting by Bill Dunn 522 and Bill Wasarhaley 482 Cavalier Club took it on the chin in all three games as Burrow Martin Drugs were hot. Tom Chapman had 234-469 and Don Truett helped with 583. Lindsey Vitreux also clipped in with a 260-480.

Smiths Ford took the measure of Bayside Hardware in two games and gained total pinfall as well. Vince Chancell's 187 gave the hardware boys the third game.

All other sheets in this league were incomplete.
Thursday Morning Break
In last week's action the Mixed Nuts up without their captain and dropped four points to The Workers. No wonder though as Marjorie Pauley had 153-423 and Eleanor Wheeler shot 408. Ruth Harris had 194-326 for the "Nuts".

Despite a beautiful 1051-857 by Margaret Hall her foul balls dropped three points to the "Odd Balls". Marie Scheinhart was the season as she shot 163-398 helped out by Lee Morgan with 389. Edna Simonelli had a nice 158 for the Foul Balls. Mary Michle showed great improvement by shooting a sparkling 141. That will help that average, Mary.

The "Gabbins Gussies" were bowling instead of yaking and came up with a three-point victory over C. E. Thurston. Marcela Orr lead the Gabbins with 101-389 with Betty Boyer and her 374 close behind. Mildred Story tried to turn the tide, hitting a fine 156-419.

The pride of the Thursday morning break, Betty Boyer, came through in the clutch again and won the big "O". Over that it is, monthly grocery prize. Shall we say "B.B. brings home the bacon"?

Keeping Fit In Today's World

By JOHN WAREING
Physical Culturist
Glympia Athletic & Health Club
With all the discussion in print and over background features on salt-free diets, low-calorie diets, high-protein diets and numerous others, it is not surprising that many people wonder if they, too, should get on the diet band wagon.

To anyone who is puzzled by this complicated subject, I offer these three simple rules:
1. Don't adopt a diet without a good reason plus medical advice.
2. Don't be a food faddist.
3. Do eat a varied, balanced diet of the ordinary foods.

To understand the reasoning behind the rules, we may consider the therapeutic, reducing and the health-food diet. The therapeutic diet is one made to order for some particular disease. It may be low in salt, high or low in calories, high in protein, or have some other special characteristic which makes it beneficial for a patient with a given disease or condition.

Whatever its special character, it must be a complete diet supplying all of the nutrients which are required by the body. If you are normal and you can't salt from your diet for a period, the body becomes depleted of this essential nutrient and the result is the development of the deficiency state known as hypotension. Its symptoms are drowsiness, loss of appetite, pain in the muscles and others. In extreme situations individuals have died from too rigid a curtailment of salt. A low salt diet, like any therapeutic diet, should be for a specific disease and only on medical advice.

What effect does pork and other meats have on blood pressure? There is no evidence that they produce hypertension and on a meat-free diet it is difficult to obtain the nutrients which you require. So do not adopt such a regime unless it is prescribed for you by a physician for some very unusual circumstance.

What about reducing diet? If you are an adult you may be overweight and a reasonable decrease in calorie intake might be advisable. But get the advice of your physician before undertaking weight loss. You must be certain that it is desirable for you to reduce and that you are going about it in a rational way. There are good and bad reducing diets. A good one is well planned and adequate in all nutrients except calories. A bad one may be inadequate in some ways and result in illness, discomfort, or disappointing results.

What about low-calorie diets? If properly used in a good diet, they are fine. If one eats more than the usual amount, the total calorie intake may not be reduced. One might think today that calories are undesirable or even that the word calorie is becoming an in-jargonism. In our enthusiasm for youthful figures, let us remember that adequate calories are essential. They are particularly important for children and young adults. Studies have demonstrated that the well-fed child, or slightly above standard weight, is more likely to grow into a physically sound adult. Hence, if someone in the family is on a low-calorie reducing diet, do not think that this same diet is necessarily good for the rest of the family.

The health-food diet is the third familiar type. None of these foods, unfortunately, have the magical properties often implied by the food faddist. Yogurt and wheat germ, for example, have developed an unjustified mystic reputation out of proportion with their food value. Added to an otherwise adequate diet they will not prolong life and increase vigor, nor will they make one more attractive or less nervous. Only the abnormal person may need a special diet. For the rest of us, the basic foods (milk, dairy products, fish, eggs, meat, fruit, vegetables, cereals and bread) provide the maximum of good health requirements.

Mary Morgan Is Married To Gerald Lynn Hood

The Rev. C. L. Kidd officiated at the marriage of Mary Morgan and Gerald Lynn Hood. The April 15 ceremony took place in the chapel of Virginia Beach Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Lee Andrews of Belhaven, N.C., and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. William Endris of Barboursville, Ky.

The bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over mint green satin and a mint green veil attached to a pearl and sequin crown. She carried a bouquet of orchids and white lilies.

Miss Frances Whitney of Virginia Beach, who was attired in mint green organza and carried a colonial bouquet of purple lilies, was maid of honor.

Wallace Guthrie of Virginia Beach was best man. Groomsmen were Carl Fields of Virginia Beach and Lawrence Lowe of Sayre, Md.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lowe. Upon their return from a wedding trip to New York, Mr. and Mrs. Hood will make their home in Lynnhaven.

Mrs. Nicholas Smith III and daughter, Ann Lewis, of Richmond are occupying the Randolph cottage on 80th Street for a year, while Comdr. Smith has sea duty.

Miss Shoemaker, Mr. Gothie Wed In Eastern Shore Chapel

Miss Katy Frances Shoemaker and Lt. (jg.) Daniel Lloyd Gothie were married Saturday at 4 p.m. in the Eastern Shore Chapel.

The Rt. Rev. William A. Brown officiated at the ceremony.

Rear Adm. James Marshall Shoemaker, USN, (ret.) and Mrs. Shoemaker of Virginia Beach are parents of the bride. Lt. Gothie is the son of Mrs. David Kenneth Leiby of New Hope, Pa., and the late Lt. Daniel S. Gothie, USN.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of imported Swiss organza. The princess style gown was paneled with insertions bordered with val lace. She wore a bouffant silk illusion veil, attached to double dahlias of the Swiss organza.

A semi-cascade of phalaenopsis orchids, lilies of the valley and stephanotis.

Miss Kathryn Lewis Tallaferra of Norfolk was maid of honor. Mrs. Andrew Timms of Charlottesville was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Mary Lou Lammann of Cherry Chase, Md.; Anne Kenney of Sewickley, Pa.; Christine Leiby of New Hope, Pa.; and Constance Kennedy and Elizabeth Turner of Virginia Beach. Little Miss Robin Marie Shoemaker, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Dr. Leiby was best man for his stepson. Groomsmen were John R. Cannell and Richard O. Scribner of New York City; Maury McKeon of Manchester, Conn.; Nicholas R. Flagger of Glenade, Pa.; and Lt. L. Gordon Smith, USMC, and Lt. L. Alvin B. Krongard, USMC, of Baltimore, Md.

After a reception at the Cape Colony Club in Virginia Beach, the couple left for a wedding trip in Bermuda. On their return, they will live at 122 Pinewood Road, Virginia Beach.

Mrs. Lawrence Turner and her three daughters of Lynchburg spent last weekend with Mrs. Turner's mother, Mrs. R. C. Everett on Cavalier Drive.

Miss Campbell, Mr. Whitehurst To Be Married

Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Campbell of Lamesa, Tex., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Betty, to the Rev. Walter A. Whitehurst, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Whitehurst of Princess Anne.

Miss Campbell is a graduate of Lamesa High School and McCurry College, Abilene, Tex., and after special training was assigned to three years' service as a Methodist missionary in Cuba.

The Rev. Mr. Whitehurst is a graduate of Ocala High School, where he was a member of the band, and of Randolph Macon College. He and his bride-to-be met at the missionary school in Nashville, Tenn., and he subsequently spent three years in Christian service in Chile.

The missionary work began after his first year as a student at the Duke University Theological School. After serving in South America, Mr. Whitehurst returned to Duke, where he will receive his Bachelor of Divinity degree next month.

100 Years Ago This Week...in THE CIVIL WAR

(Events exactly 100 years ago this week in the Civil War—told in the language and style of today.)

Naval Beef-Up

WASHINGTON, D.C.—May 6—This week's call by President Lincoln for volunteers included a summons for 15,000 seamen to participate in blockade service at Southern ports. Shown above are sailors in a typical drill aboard a Union man-of-war. Mr. Lincoln also called for some 45,000 three-year Army volunteers. Naval strength now stands at only 7,000 officers and men.

South Declares War on North

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—May 6—The South declared war on the North today.

The provisional Confederate government issued the declaration as it prepared to move its headquarters north to Richmond, Va., to be nearer the areas of actual combat.

The action followed a stirring message delivered last week by provisional President Jefferson Davis to the Southern congress. Davis said the South was striving for peace "at any sacrifice, save that of honor and independence."

DAVIS recalled that "peaceful overtures" had been made in Washington early in March in an effort to resolve the hot question of Ft. Sumter.

Union spokesmen rebuffed the Southern envoys, Davis asserted, adding: "The crooked paths of diplomacy had nearly strangled us, so wanting in courtesy, in candor, and directness as they were the course of the United States government toward our commissioners in Washington."

Key architects with Davis in shaping of the South's declaration were said to be Vice-President Alexander H. Stephens of Georgia, former member of the Federal Congress, and Robert Toombs, also of Georgia, the South's secretary of state, and long-time law-maker. THERE was no immediate reaction from the North. Observers believe the declaration will be officially ignored—just as the formation of the provisional Confederate government has been officially unacknowledged in Washington.

Tennessee Out

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—May 6—Welcome word was received here today of the vote in Tennessee to secede from the Union and join the Confederate states.

The Tennessee action followed by only one day the dramatic 69-1 vote in Arkansas to pull out.

King Loses In Playoff Match In Open Golf

Amateur Claude King, Virginia Beach High School football coach, came within a whisker Monday of winning the Virginia State Open golf championship in Portsmouth, but fell victim to "experience" in the person of Jack Isaacs, 62-year-old Langley Field professional.

Isaacs won the title for the fifth time when he put on a garrison's finish with two closing birdies to beat out King by two strokes in the 18-hole playoff.

The popular King used the expression that "experience" beat him in the playoff. The match was nip and tuck all the way with the players all even after 16 holes.

The pair had completed the 72 holes Sunday in a deadlock for first place with scores of 293, 4th highest in State Open history.

Another point that tells the story is that Isaacs, the winner, needed only 25 putts for the 18-hole round and King required 28.

Isaacs won the title in 1949, 1950, 1953 and 1958. He has been runner-up several times.

Both players made the turn through nine holes with even par 36's, but the pressure began to tell on the incoming nine. They both slipped over par but matched each other stroke for stroke coming to the 17th tee.

At 17 Isaacs got in trouble off the tee but went one up on King when he holed a 20-foot putt for a birdie. Isaacs hit a tremendous drive at 18 just off the edge of the green and got down for a birdie to King's par four. Final: Isaacs 75; King 76.

"Shaggy Dog" Cops Coming to Beach

Those hilarious cops from Walt Disney's "The Shaggy Dog" are up to their old tricks again.

In the persons of James Westfield and Forrest Lewis, they once more bring rollicking mirth to the motion picture screen in Disney's newest and wackiest comedy of them all, "The Absent-Minded Professor," starting Sunday at the Beach Theatre.

The picture stars Fred MacMurray, Nancy Olson, Keenan Wynn and Tommy Kirk. The riotous cops are well-known comedians to MacMurray and Kirk, having appeared with them in previous Disney funfests, "Shaggy."

In their new roles, again as frustrated policemen, the comedians behind the badges raise havoc just to bring unrestrained laughter to audiences. They spoil at least a dozen uniforms and wreck four police cars for some of their madcap scenes.

OVER THE FENCE

American Little League News

By NELLIE F. MATTHEWS

This Saturday, May 13, is TIME DAY at the Virginia Beach High School Stadium. This is the day of the player auction when the team coaches and managers repair to their lair for the big rumble. Names of 80 or so boys will have top billing as these men bid for replacements to fill their team rosters. Only 23 players will be chosen. Their thrill will be indescribable. The others? Some... bitter disappointment. Some, with a shrug, "Wait till next year!"

Some... "We'll be playing ball anyway."

And right you are, boys. You'll play ball on organized minor league teams. You'll have regularly scheduled games under capable supervision throughout the season. And who knows? You may be picked to replace a major leaguer who moves away or quits for some other reason.

A grand slam to Bill Fannery and Bill Kutz, our farm team co-owners, who have given their all to the rookies the past six Saturday mornings. It hasn't been easy at 6:00 A.M., considering the Arctic Circle of this area. And a screaming triple to faithful helpers George Kerns, Richard Stark, Bob Currie and others.

A warm welcome to Bob McGrath (nee Raymond), the new manager of the Sports. Your work is really cut out for you, Bob, rebuilding with seven newcomers. The best of luck! Incidentally, Bob needs a coach to work with him. One of you eager fathers please get in touch.

Rotarian manager Smokey Henry is not exactly new to the Brotherhood. Smokey pinch hit with the Rotarians last season. With Hugh Mayo, Smokey helped produce the Linkhorn championship team this past winter. His competent assistant is Jim Jones.

For the second year, the Tigers will be managed by Hugh Mayo and James V. Powell, Jr., who had the runner-up team last season. We have recently heard it said by a well-known Little League manager that Hugh and J. V. have been practicing their boys even in the snow!

Cub manager Bill Renn—need we say more? Since the beginning of Little League here at the Beach, Bill has been coaching the Cubs.

most of the time to pennants. According to him, this year he's rebuilding. Yeah? With Bill is resident worker, David Brown.

We're happy to have Ken Babcock with us. Ken managed the Tigers for two years before Navy duty took him away last season. This year he will be umpire-in-chief and is busy training our beloved boys in blue. Which reminds us, congratulations Ken, on your very own second boy in blue recently arrived.

Bill Vaughn and Bert Owens have promised to be official scorekeepers. Thanks a million with a big "whoa" from a couple of us who've tackled that task. Little League scorekeeping just ain't simple like in the majors.

Finally, we welcome a real pro, Newton Thomas who will announce all the first games. Newton has given play-by-play on radio and his profession is music. Because he works at night, he will be unable to announce the second games. To follow him each Tuesday and Friday will be like stepping up to the plate behind Mantle. Do we have a courageous volunteer?

Surely, there are many who have been left out of this effort. For deeper satisfaction comes from the changing faces of the boys we're trying to help than from mere mention in print.

Horse Show Begins Friday At Greenbriar

The Tidewater Horse and Pony Association will hold its annual show Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Greenbriar Farms, Military Highway near Indian River road.

There will be 60 classes with more than 200 animals entered in the three-day competition which will be featured by the appearance of the Arabian Horse Club of Washington, D.C., and an exhibition by the Princess Anne Police Canine Club.

Classes will include, as well as Arabian, hunters, Western, saddle and walking. The show will start at 7:30 p.m. and continue Monday at 9:30 a.m., ending Sunday with the final judging beginning at 12:30 p.m.

McDowell Set To Defend Pee Wee Golf Title

Charles McDowell, Virginia Beach's stellar 16-year-old golf star, is burning the links in preparation of the defense of his senior title in the National Pee Wee Golf Championships June 13 and 14 in Orlando, Fla.

If young McDowell takes the tourney again he will be the first repeater in the history of the competition.

McDowell came from behind to top the 1960 13-15 age division title with a second round two-under-par 70 over the lush Rio Pinar Country Club layout. He was in third place after the first day's competition, in which he had a 76.

The young prep star numbers a host of titles among his laurels. He holds three National Pee Wee wins, the 1960 Virginia State Jay-Cee Championship and second in the 1960 Virginia State Junior, among others. His best score during his career is an amazing 66 over a par 71 course.

McDowell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. McDowell, 9210 Atlantic Ave., Virginia Beach.

He will drive to Orlando with Walter S. Clements and his son, Zack, of 101 Lakeshore Dr. Zack will compete in the 11 to 13 age division.

Albin Mailhes, Jr., On Academic Roll

Lt. Colonel Roy W. Haynes, Headmaster at Fishburne Military School, Waynesboro, announced recently that Cadet Albin R. Mailhes, Jr., was on the third academic roll for the month of April.

Cadet Mailhes is in the junior class and is in his second year at Fishburne School.

A stamp-saving game that American children get paid for playing

Today, thousands of American youngsters are buying U. S. Savings Bonds by saving 10¢ and 25¢ Savings Stamps each week. Stamps are sold at many schools, through the Treasury's School Savings Program and at most Post Offices. And as the stamp books are filled, they can be exchanged for full-fledged Bonds.

Here's how an eight-year school savings program works:

If they save this each week	Bonds collected	Total saved	Value at maturity
25¢	4	$75.00	$100.00
50¢	8	$150.00	$200.00

For further information write to your Savings Bonds State Director, or to the Savings Bond Division, U. S. Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C.

... and a special note to grownups about U. S. Savings Bonds:

You can save automatically with the Payroll Savings Plan. You now earn 3% interest to maturity. You invest without risk under a U. S. Government guarantee. Your money can't be lost or stolen. You can get your money, with interest, any time you want it. You save more than money — you help your Government pay for peace. Buy Bonds where you work or bank.

Colonial Stores Food Center

Colonial Stores year-old, $5,000,000 warehouse and food distribution plant in Norfolk Industrial Park. (Haycox Photographic, Inc.)

Caton Elected Cape Henry Club President

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Cape Henry Club, the nominating club proposed the following officers for 1961-62 and they were elected unanimously:

President, Edward Caton; vice president, A. B. Crews and secretary-treasurer, Giles Dodd.

A steering committee composed of Lewis Smith, Robert Cramer, Dodd and Caton, was appointed to work with James M. Powell, general manager of the Sir Walter Hotel, to revise the by-laws and house rules of the club.

In other action, it was decided that the club year would be from June 1, 1961, to May 31, 1962, with the exception of the five months from November through March. Dancing will be held each Friday night, beginning June 9 and there will be a "Gala Opening" June 30 for members and their guests with music refreshments and buffet.

A limited number of invitations for membership will be mailed this week. It was also announced that members again will be entitled to pool privileges.

Colonial Wins "Brand Names" Retailer Award

Before an audience of nearly 1,000 key figures in government, industry and retailing, Colonial Stores, Inc., was honored as runner-up Certificate of Distinction winner in the Specialty Stores and the Food Stores-Class I category of Brand Names Foundation's 13th annual "Brand Name Retailer-of-the-Year" Competition. Presentation was made May 4 at the Brand Names Awards Banquet in the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City.

C. L. Johnson of Atlanta, sales promotion manager for Colonial Stores, accepted the certificate awarded for his firm's accomplishments in presenting manufacturers' advertised brands to the public during 1960.

These awards, often called "retailing's most coveted honors," were given to 164 firms in 24 categories of retailing. The winners represent 35 states, including Hawaii, as well as Canada and the District of Columbia. A bronze Plaque is presented to the top winner in each classification as the nation's "Brand Name Retailer-of-the-Year" in his field. A maximum of four runner-up Certificates of Distinction are also presented in 23 of the 24 categories.

Johnson Sparks

The keynote address at the banquet was delivered by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson. Colonial Stores had its beginning in 1901, when David Pender, then 20-year-old, opened his grocery store bearing his name in Norfolk. This store was to form the nucleus of a supermarket chain that today spreads over 100 Southern and Midwestern states with 460 stores in 336 communities.

Pender was born in 1874. His life fits the American success story as it tailored for it.

When he was 24, David Pender had a chance to move from his hometown of Tidewater, N.C., to a new job in Norfolk. Pender had been in Norfolk only a short time before he discovered he wanted to own his own grocery store. His chance came when an old family friend, F. S. Royler, noting the youth's ambition and character, endorsed a note for $2,000 for the purchase of the store. Two years of David Pender's life were spent in paying off the note.

Another move

A short time later he incorporated on Brewer Street as the David Pender Grocery Company with a capital stock of $5,000. It was January, 1901. Two years later, he moved again. A new building, containing five storerooms, was built at Monticello Avenue and Washington Street, now Market Street. He watched it building and noted the neighborhood. Before it was completed he had leased the two stores at the corner, turning them into one large store. Later he leased a third adjoining store, and Pender's became the grocery store of Norfolk.

Meanwhile, L. W. Rogers, a New Englander transplanted to Atlanta, Ga., was developing a chain of stores in much the same way. He died in 1914 but Rogers Stores stores were dating the South and in 1940 the firms merged into Colonial Stores, Inc.

In 1938 the Albers chain of Cincinnati was acquired, giving Colonial a total of more than 400 stores in 40 states with sales amounting to $450,000,000 annually.

The company opened a $5,000,000 food distribution center a year ago in Norfolk's Industrial Park which service 77 stores in the Tidewater area.

Two of these are in Virginia Beach and two others are located in Princess Anne County. D. B. Jones is division general manager and J. H. Blasingham, Jr., division advertising manager.

At Virginia Beach, C. D. King manages the 31st Street store and J. G. Brown the 17th Street store. The Bayshore outlet is managed by H. D. Stirling and the one at Ocean by F. T. Simmons.

TVDC Lauds Industrial Aids In Rail Merger

The Tidewater Virginia Development Council has adopted a resolution, endorsing the proposed merger of the Norfolk and Western Railway Company with the New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Company (Nickle Plate).

The resolution also endorses a proposed leasing of the Wabash Railroad Company's lines and property by the N&W as a part of the Nickel Plate merger now before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Clarence H. Oethagen, TVDC vice president and executive director, said that TVDC is vitally interested in the merger because its achievement will "greatly strengthen the area's industrial development potential."

The railroad merger and the construction of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel will act together as two of the greatest assets to industrial development Tidewater Virginia has experienced in its entire history, said Oethagen.

"It's like knocking down two walls which have bottlenecked us for many years," he said.

Easy Access

The bridge-tunnel, once completed, will give immediate access to northern markets.

The Nickel Plate merger would give direct rail connections from Norfolk to points as far west as

"With the merger approved," said Oethagen, "we would be in a much more favorable position to show industrial prospects how goods manufactured in Tidewater Virginia can easily reach all points to the south, north and west, as well as to foreign markets through our ports."

Action on the proposed merger-lease-purchase will be taken by N&W stockholders in annual meeting at Hotel Roanoke today.

Stockholders of record on last March 23 will vote either in person or by proxy on a detailed plan mailed them in March. Approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission was requested with the filing of formal applications on March 17. As yet, the ICC has not set a date for public hearings.

N&W stockholders also will vote on the re-election of five directors. Directors whose terms expire May 11 and who will be voted upon for re-election to three-year terms are: Walter S. Franklin, Philadelphia; John S. Alfriend, Southern States; T. Saunders, Roanoke; Frank D. Beale, Norfolk; and G. Albert Shoemaker, Pittsburgh.

Bonnie Bill, president of the student body will speak briefly on the responsibility of the student to the school and the community.

Navy Ensign Offers Spare Time To Fighting Red Menace in U.S.

Ensign Gerald Jacobson, USN, is assistant avionics officer at the Oceana Naval Air Station and administrative vice president of the Apollo Soucek Toastmaster's Club at the NAS.

To the untitled, "avionic officer" means aviation electronics. Everyone knows that the toastmaster clubs are devoted to helping members improve their ability to stand on their two feet and make vigorous and intelligent speeches. Jacobson preside at meetings and generally act like the suave executive type.

But Ensign Jacobson is different. He enlisted in his native Chicago immediately after graduating from high school and was commissioned last June after more than 12 years as a "white hat" in the enlisted ranks. He felt he owed it to his country which, he says, "has done so much for me."

If the story ended there it would be just another nice boy, run-of-the-mill yarn, but along the way Ensign Jacobson learned more than most men about Communism.

It's His Dedication

In training at Pensacola, the young sailor was required to write a paper on the Communist system of government and propaganda. That did it for Jacobson! In his research he became convinced that insinuating and insidious infiltration by the Reds into the American national stream of life was the most dangerous enemy we had to face.

He has dedicated every spare moment from his Navy duties and his family to spread his ideas of the Communist menace within our boundaries. Jacobson has made himself available to civic organizations, church and school groups without stint. His message is simple, direct:

Rules Listed
"The only way we can fight this menace at home," he says, "is to understand what we are trying to fight; in addition, we must have unshakable confidence in the United States Government."
"Without this, we are weakening

"One way to avoid losing your shirt is to keep the sleeves rolled up."

6th Grade Thoroughgood Pupils Meet World's Leaders by Mail

By JAMES GROTUS
Hard by the famous old Adam Thoroughgood House on the Lynnhaven River in Princess Anne County—a house believed to have been erected in 1637—a group of 37 boys and girls are pioneering in 1961 fashion in the field of education.

With the guidance of their teacher, James Darden, Jr., the 21 boys and 16 girls of this Thoroughgood School 6th grade class are achieving rewarding results in social studies through contact with people who are making history.

For those who think that today's school curriculum is a cut-and-dried affair, a day with these youngsters and their teacher would be an eye-opener.

Took a Chance
Darden, who is 36 years old and dedicated to his chosen profession, thought in the early days of this school year that his pupils would profit by first-hand contact with the people and the nations in the news.

With many misgivings and frequent warnings that nothing could come of his plan, young Darden sparked the interest of "his children" by telling them of far places and important current events.

Backed by the parents, he initiated a program of letter writing, giving each child a choice of the country of personal interest. He was frankly surprised at some of the wise selections made by his 12- and 13-year-olds.

One, Janice Meads, chose Germany, where Darden saw two years of his army service with the 303d Airborne Infantry Regiment

Michael Esber, Mark Reynolds and Ricky McClintic with autographs and mementos they received as result of letters written to Canada, New Zealand and the Vatican, respectively. With them is their 6th grade teacher at Thoroughgood School, James R. Darden, who sparked the undertaking to write top government leaders throughout the world.

den had to classify the experiment he probably would call it "Lessons in Learning."

That would be the closest to the mark. The children learn many lessons in life and living—the

The Red Line

Inevitably, another child—Carol Cassidy—chose Russia and encountered the usual silence of the Kremlin. But from the Soviet embassy in Washington has come a flood of literature and pictures exemplifying the usual Communist propaganda line.

Vicki Meek selected France and her scrapbook contains all manner of information about the provinces and letters from various civic and government officials. It is impossible to catalogue the whole range of 37 separate channels of investigation explored by the class but Darden is quick to recognize outstanding effort and points with justifiable pride to the work of the exceptional students.

Amid shouts of derision, for example, grinning Ricky McClintic fired off a letter to Pope John, Vatican City. To the surprise of everyone except confident Ricky, back came a letter from the Pontiff, an autographed picture and a holy medal carrying the Pope's blessing.

Hard to Classify
Mark Reynolds went "down under" with his correspondence and proudly shows a letter from New Zealand's Nash, leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition in that country.

Michael Esber implicitly displays a letter from Prime Minister Diefenbaker of Canada and a framed autograph from our northern neighbor's head of government.

It is difficult to put a label on the work Darden's class is doing. "Social Studies" seems inadequate; "Foreign Government" hardly fits; "Ancient History" or "Current History" won't do either. If Dar-greater the personage, in most cases, the reader he is to help an American youngster find out about another part of the world.

Ambassadors
Mayors of large cities like Berlin, Paris, Toronto—take your pick—respond cheerfully and quickly. The students consider themselves ambassadors of sorts and from their correspondence they absorb all kinds of information about the country of their

In buying any home, financing is one of the most important features in deciding whether to purchase or not.

At King's Grant, this decision is made easier by Norfolk Federal Savings and Loan Association in offering a new concept in home financing. 90% of the first $20,000 and 80% of the next $3,000 can be financed through that organization. We also have F.H.A. insured and F.H.A. (in-service) insured loans, plus several trade in plans on your present home if you have one.

"Virginia Beach Needs a New Community Hospital — $50,000,000 — Support the General Hospital Fund"

Virginia's Art

By Leslie Cheek, Jr.
 Director, Virginia Museum of Fine Arts

The Poetics of Corot

"LE RAPPEL DES VACHES"

The power to transform an everyday event into a lyrical painting is seldom given an artist, but Jean Baptiste Camille Corot (1876-1875) possessed such a power to a very generous degree. Who but Corot would think it possible to make a painting full of poetic and tender feeling out of two cows standing in a pond, a few trees and three small figures?

Yet Corot did exactly that, and very successfully too. In his "Le Rappel des Vaches" painted in 1870, The Virginia Museum of Fine Arts acquired it in 1948 through the gift of Mrs. A. D. Williams.

Corot achieved this miracle of the transformation of the mundane to the poetical through his suggestive and refined treatment with his careful but not obstructive detail. One of his contemporaries, the painter Daubigny, said that "he puts nothing on the canvas, yet everything is there."

It is good to find a painter who was not poor. Corot's parents were prosperous—his father a hairdresser and his mother a modiste with their shop on the Rue du Bac in Paris and a country house at Ville d'Avray where many of Corot's landscapes were painted.

Corot's struggle was against his parents rather than against poverty, for they wanted him to have the life of a shopkeeper too. But in 1826 he was allowed to go to Italy, and as early as 1832 he exhibited three canvases at the Salon in Paris. In fact, he received official recognition through purchases by the state before private collectors began to buy his works. But he lived to be tremendously popular, frequently selling as much as 200,000 francs (of 19th century valuation) worth of paintings a year.

Throughout his career he retained an indifference to money, and his easy modesty and his enthusiasm for work helped him to maintain his intensity of sentiment and the poetic charm of his paintings to the end of his life. "Le Rappel des Vaches" painted just five years before his death, is ample testimony to this statement.

Oceana Civic Club Will Meet Friday

The Oceana Civic League will hold its regular monthly meeting Monday, May 15, at 8 p.m. at the Oceana fire station.

Mrs. Hudson is past president of the Chesapeake Woman's Club, and received the citation of "First Citizen" of Chesapeake Beach. After the speech, the meeting will be open to discussion of matters pertaining to the proposed hospital.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

Boy Friend Wants Things His Way

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am a girl of sixteen and like a boy, nineteen, who also likes me. I have three problems. My first: Whenever we walk down the street together he says 'hi' to every girl that goes by and looks back at them. What can I do to stop him from doing this? He also thinks he's so cute he just has to snap his fingers and the girls come running. In my opinion and the opinion of my friends he isn't especially cute. Second: he thinks I should do everything he says and if I don't he says he'll go up to this town where he can get a steady job and stay and I'll never see him again. How can I stop him from doing this? My third problem: he loves to make up big stories and gets me all upset by them. One is where he said he was giving me up to marry another girl cause he was tired of waiting for me to reach nineteen so we could get married. What can I do? I love him very much.

OUR ANSWER: Get wise, young lady, get wise. In the first instance, fight fire with fire, so to speak. Say "hi" to all the boys who pass and let him "hi" all the girls he wants to.

In the second instance: Courtship, like marriage, should be a 50-50 proposition. Nobody can be the "boss" all the way. In courtship one usually puts the best foot forward. The individual boy or girl who "gives in" or "gives up" for the sake of peace and harmony is just buying future trouble. If someone is "bossy" and demanding during courtship, that individual will become even more so after marriage.

In the third instance: If you know they are "big stories" why worry about them? Why get upset? Keep a level head and try to show him how foolish it is to make them up.

And we add: Courtship is the time for couples to learn the "give" and "take" that is essential to the success of any marriage. We don't say that a marriage won't last if one partner is "boss" all the way; but we don't believe that it will be the happy partnership that is so ideal.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

The MIXING BOWL...
IT'S Fun TO COOK

Mom's Meal

Imagine—finishing a Sunday dinner for Mom. This isn't impossible for Dad and the children if they choose the menu carefully. For a suggestion, a ham slice and orange fritters might be selected.

What mother wouldn't be proud of her family if they invited her to sit down to a Sunday dinner... prepared in its entirety by Dad and the children?

For dinner, choose something different yet easy. A meal that will not become too involved.

A broiled ham slice is the center of attraction as Mom sits down to the table. Accompanying this delicious smoked pork product are golden brown orange fritters.

Neither of these two items is difficult to prepare. A meal that nicely compliment Mother's Day Dinner—just use 1 or 2 packages of frozen green asparagus, according to number to be served. Place frozen asparagus in pan, just cover with boiling water, add 1 teaspoon salt to each package. Cook until tender, don't over cook. Drain well, place in serving dish, pour over melted butter or margarine, sprinkle over—with just a sprinkling of crisp french fried onions.

An easy salad but very good is hearts of lettuce with Mom's favorite salad dressing.

For dessert surprise Mom with a cake decorated just for her. Your bakery will have just the kind you want. Dad and the children can prepare a wonderful meal so easily so you just surprise that precious mother of yours.

Now for a couple of recipes to help mother prepare meals for her family—after Mother's Day.

Pork Chops "Show Off" At May Dinner
It's not only the ladies' new spring apparel which is receiving second looks and timely nods of approval.

Pork, displayed as roasts, chops, steaks and in the ground state is also gathering honored glances at this time of the year and it's no wonder.

Pork rib and loin chops especially prepared as a light and not too nippy spring entrée in the form of Celery Fork Chops claim approval from all age groups.

Col. Hostetler Ends Course

Army Lt. Col. Jerome K. Hostetler, whose wife, Phyllis, lives at 555 Ditchley rd., completed the four-month associate course at The Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kan., May 4.

The class, which consisted of 374 U.S. Army officers and 28 allied officers from 12 countries, was addressed by Gen. Clyde D. Eddleman, vice-chief of staff, U.S. Army, at graduation day exercises.

The college, the Army's senior tactical school, was established in 1881 as the School of Application of Infantry and Cavalry. The associate course was established in 1947 and is designed to prepare selected officers from all components of the Army for duty as commanders and general staff officers. The graduating class included 67 Army Reserve and National Guard officers on temporary active duty, indicating the Army's effort to train and maintain "One Army."

Colonel Hostetler has been assigned for duty in Europe.

Seaside Park Has 2 Bands

"The Vagabonds" looks like a typographical error, but actually it's the correct name of one of Seaside Park's newest bands. The band, currently winning a whole host of new friends with weekend appearances at Seaside Park Ballroom.

The Vagabonds share the bandstand with the Saints, another up-tempo outfit which has been around for a considerably longer time. The Saints have a strong following among the fraternity.

Seaside Park, although open only Fridays through Sundays, at this time, offers a full schedule of amusement, resort attractions — thrill rides, skill games, a complete kiddieland where the youngsters have their own miniature versions of the adult scene, and refreshment concessions where you can get anything from a hot dog to a substantial meal.

Next fireworks display at Seaside Park is scheduled for Saturday, May 20.

Ochsner Joins 50-Year Club

Albert H. Ochsner, 710 Holladay road, Linkhorn Park, is among the 371 surviving members of the Class of 1911 of the University of Wisconsin who will be inducted into Wisconsin's Half Century Club at one of the highlight events of the State University's annual Commencement-Reunion weekend calendar June 24.

The surviving members of the class who received their degrees from the University 50 years ago will become members of the Half Century Club at a luncheon in the Memorial Union on Friday, June 2. This year marks the 21st in the history of the University and its Alumni Association that the certificates have been presented to Wisconsin graduates of a half century or more, beginning with the Class of 1891, and brings total membership in the club to over 2,800 over the past 20 years.

Gracious Treatment at Mealtime Lets Family Feel Like Guests

By LOUIE HEDMAN
Assistant M. D. Agent

Did you ever stop to think that your family as well as your friends are your guests when you sit down at your table for the mealtime with which you have planned and prepared the meal on menu much to them, a pretty table and a pleasant meal makes everyone happy.

Mealtime is often the only time in the day that the entire family is together. There are many ways to make it a sociable and friendly hour of relaxation amid the busy day's activities.

You'll find it easier to train the children in good eating habits and table manners, too, if you make each meal a pleasant occasion. Good manners and social poise come through everyday practice.

So put a bowl of flowers on your lunch table, a gay tablecloth on your dinner table, or occasionally use your best china—just for the family's enjoyment. These little hints count much at mealtime.

And, when special occasions—holidays, company dinners or parties—come along, every member of your family will be at ease. They will be able to make your guests feel they are really part of a friendly family circle.

Our most familiar and popular way of table service is none other than the "country" or "family style" meal. This is the one you probably are using in your home right now. It's informal, and it's easy to place the food in serving dishes and to pass it at the table. Even for company meals, family style service may be the one you prefer to use.

Know-How Required
But there's much we can do to make our table and this way of meal service as colorful and inviting as possible. Here are a few suggestions to make your table a correct and convenient way to serve your family and guests, and a dozen and one ideas for using your dishes, glassware, and silverware to set a pretty table with an interesting centerpiece.

Perhaps you've become so used to using the dishes nearest at hand, the regular tablecloths or mats, that you've forgotten about some of the little extras that will brighten up your table. Have you? Now is the time to bring them out.

Tablecloths—then, rayon, or cotton damask, or plain or novelty weave cloth—how we enjoy them! And what a variety of colors they come in, from traditional white to lovely pastels or deep tones. Each one has its place.

Many Times, Many Uses
Placecloths, placemats, tablecloths or place mats are real time savers, and of course you rely on them. But choose them just as carefully as you would a more expensive cloth. You can do wonders with a pretty background.

BIRCHWOOD GARDEN CLUB
The Birchwood Garden Club of Lynnhaven met in the home of Mrs. P. L. Chevalier, Jr., with Mrs. J. W. Fowler and Mrs. M. S. Ireland as co-hostesses. The program was an "As you like it" clinic conducted and orally judged by club members who had attended the Norfolk Federation Judging School this past season. Each member was given a judging chart to award points according to her opinion of the arrangement being judged.

The following officers were voted to lead the club: President, Mrs. J. W. Fowler; 1st vice-pres., Mrs. B. J. Newman; 2nd vice-pres., Mrs. J. R. Schmalz; recording secretary, Mrs. F. D. Stree; correspondence secretary, Mrs. H. W. Niewander; treasurer, Mrs. C. H. Chamberlain; and historian, Mrs. P. L. Chevalier, Jr.

These officers will be installed at a Banquet June 5th at the Breakers Hotel, Virginia Beach.

LEGAL NOTICES
VIRGINIA: In the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the County of Princess Anne, on the 4th day of April, 1961.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION
PRINCESS ANNE LUMBER CO., INC., Plaintiff, vs.
CHARLES MEREDITH ROPER and MARGARET S. ROPER, Principal Defendants
To the Honorable Judges of said Court:

Your petitioner, Princess Anne Lumber Company, Incorporated, respectfully shows, unto your Honor:

The object of the above entitled suit is to attach the real estate of the defendants, known and numbered as Route 2, Box 205, London Bridge, Virginia, more particularly described as all that certain parcel of land, situated in Princess Anne County, Virginia, London Bridge, designated as "Roper" as shown on a plat entitled plat showing portion of land of Bessie D. Richardson (formerly Harry D. Church), located at London Bridge, Princess Anne County, Virginia, dated July 3, 1948, duly recorded in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of Princess Anne County, Virginia, in Map Book 24, page 38, consisting of two brick homes and a large brick shop, and to subject the said real estate to payment of the indebtedness of said Charles Meredith Roper and Margaret S. Roper to the plaintiff in the sum of $4,882.84, plus 15% attorney's fees amounting to $688.89, with interest at 6% per annum from June 1, 1960, until paid.

An affidavit having been duly filed that the defendants are not residents of this State and that their last known post office address is Roper, North Carolina, and appearing that service upon the defendants cannot be had in this State, it is ordered that they do appear, within ten days after due publication of this order, and do what is necessary to protect their interest.

And it is ordered that this order be published once a week for four successive weeks in the Virginia Beach Sun-News, a newspaper published in Princess Anne County, Virginia.

NOTES FROM YOUR COUNTY AGENT

By E. R. "DICK" COCKRELL, JR.

Mother discovered her little daughter fighting with the boy next door. After parting them she lectured her daughter. "Next time," she said, "I don't want you hitting Johnny back. Remember that you're a lady. Out-talk him!"

LUMBER TREATMENT CAUSES GREENHOUSE TROUBLES

Some wood preservatives may do a good job of protecting lumber—but if that lumber is subsequently used in greenhouses trouble may ensue.

Complaints have been received lately from growers about what was killing seedling plants in newly constructed plastic greenhouses. Investigation pointed to the cause of trouble as a wood preservative containing pentachlorophenol. The treated lumber had been used to frame the greenhouse. The wood preservative is excellent for termite control and preventing wood decay, but it is also a strong plant killer, and can play havoc with peppers, petunias, eggplants, and tomatoes.

In VPI Circular 760, "Plastic Greenhouses", available from my office, a 2 percent copper naphthenate is recommended for treating the framing material. The treatment does not injure plants being grown in the greenhouse and is therefore more satisfactory than pentachlorophenol.

PLANT GROWING TROUBLES CAN BE BY-PASSED

Many troubles which plague plant growers can be by-passed. For instance, poor plant growth in greenhouses often is a sign of fertilizer starvation. But sometimes too much fertilizer may be applied causing a soil condition referred to as soluble salt injury to plants. Nitrogen and potassium are the two main culprits. Growers who fail to measure the amount of fertilizer, relying instead on a general hand or large container, rather than planning how much to apply and weighing out the material, can expect trouble. If a soluble salt injury is suspected, the only way you can cure the situation is to soak the soil thoroughly and wait for about 20 to 30 minutes and soak again, so the water flows freely from the bottom of the seed or plant container.

Limestone May Be Needed
When you are potting soils which contain peat, add some limestone to offset the acid nature of the peat. A potting soil should contain 1/2 peat, 1/2 loam, and 1/3 sand. It's a good idea to add to this mixture two pounds of limestone plus a pound of superphosphate per cubic yard of 27 square feet of soil.

Combat Organisms

Soil organisms may sometimes cause poor seed germination. There is an answer to this problem. Soil sterilization will kill the organisms. But if the soils have not been sterilized, treat seed with arsan or semesan or other seed protectant. For step by step information on seedling control, Circular 704 "Selling Early Plants", available from my office.

When the seeds have germinated, the seedlings become susceptible to all the organisms of the soil and in the air. A common complaint when seedlings are started inside is that something seems to kill them after they emerge from the soil. This is generally caused by a fungus and is called "damping-off". The condition develops when the soil is moist and the temperature warm and humid around the plants, and injury occurs just at the point where the seedling emerges from the soil. The stem turns brown and withered and the plant will fall over. Sterilization with steam or a fumigant is one of the best ways to check the organism before it starts. If non-sterile soils are being used, I would suggest watering the seedling container with a solution containing 3 table-spoonful of captan in a gallon of water, and treating the entire seedling area the same as you would in watering.

Control Mold Growth

Using terrachlor will correct mold growth on sterilized soils. This material is added to the soil being mixed for the seedling or potting mixture. Mold growth doesn't hurt the plants, but is unsightly to prospective buyers.

Provide Ventilation

Good ventilation is always essential. It helps reduce high humidity and helps regulate temperature. Rapid drying of the surface soil will also reduce the effects of damping-off in plant beds. A general rule is to water as the temperature rises in the morning on bright days. Do not water in dull weather unless it is absolutely necessary.

Tomato Troubles

Some growers are currently having trouble with tomato seedlings which are developing purple foliage. Several factors could play a part. A temperature at the plant level of 80° or below could cause the condition. Ideally the temperature should be between 70 and 75° for drainage of the soil so that the plants have "wet feet" and the roots cannot get enough oxygen could cause the condition, as could an acid soil which ties up the available phosphorus. Soils of low fertility produce stunted plants, and stunted plants often are of variable colors. To correct this problem, use 1 ounce of a high analysis soluble fertilizer in each gallon of water to water the plants. Make this application once a week, not oftener. More frequent applications of soluble materials may cause high salt injury.

Roanoke Scene Of 55th Annual Retail Meeting

The Virginia Retail Merchants Association will open its 55th annual convention May 21 at Roanoke with a seven-man team on political action slated for the three-day meeting.

The "Retailer of the Year" Award, which is sponsored by the retail organization, will be presented opening night, also.

Lead speaker for the team will be Walter B. Petrucci, manager of the business relations department of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. Discussing the need and means for political activity among business men will be Raymond Munch, general manager of Miller & Rhoads, Richmond; John C. Compton, general manager of Green-Gifford Motor Corp., Portsmouth; Paul R. Thomson, manager of employee and community relations for General Electric Co., Salem; and Arthur R. Giesen, Jr., of the air conditioning division of Westinghouse Electric Corp., Staunton.

State Senators James C. Turk (R-Radford) and William B. Hopkins (D-Roanoke) will also serve on the team.

The convention's keynote speaker will be Richard A. Armstrong, executive director of the Effective Citizens Organization. The ECO is responsible for holding non-partisan, political workshops throughout the nation. The workshops are designed to afford persons a comprehensive background of political and government knowledge.

Other speakers will be John Hazen, vice-president in charge of government relations for the National Retail Merchants Association; Charles B. Strauss, advertising manager of McGregor-Doniger, Inc., New York City; and Dr. A. W. Zelomak, economist and president of the International Statistical Bureau, New York City. L. W. Bishop, president of the Virginia Industrial Development Corp., and H. Paul Stuber of the Industrial Security Division for Reynolds Metals Co., Richmond will address the convention, also.

Over 500 persons are expected to attend the convention by the state association, which represents over 5,000 businesses in all branches of the retail industry.

President of the organization is S. Willson Sterrett of Augusta Furniture Co., Staunton. Other officers are James T. Mathews, of Sears, Roebuck & Co., Richmond, first vice-president; Richard F. Welton, III, of Smith & Welton, Inc., Norfolk, second vice-president, and Leroy Huxley, Jr., of Hutzler's, Richmond, treasurer.

Methodists Ask $7,000,000 For Education

The Virginia Methodist Conference Commission on Christian Higher Education, meeting in Richmond May 3, perfected its report to be made to the Virginia Annual Conference at Virginia Beach June 12-15.

This report recommends that the Conference raise $7,000,000 for the extension and expansion of Christian Higher Education in the state of Virginia. This solicitation for capital funds will be conducted between July 1 and December 31, 1961.

The suggested apportionment of the $7,000,000 to the educational institutions is as follows: Randolph-Macon College, Abbeville, $1,250,000.00; Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg, $1,025,000.00; Randolph-Macon Academy, Front Royal, $825,000.00; Ferrum Junior College, Ferrum, $1,000,000.00; Westley Foundations, $1,000,000.00; Methodist Assembly Center (Blackstone College), $200,000.00; and Norfolk (proposed college), $1,750,000.00.

The largest allocation in the report is for the new college in Tidewater, but the final gift of this amount is made contingent upon the area's willingness to raise a similar amount by the end of 1964 and its provision of a suitable campus site of approximately 200 acres.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., a man who works very hard at everything he does, is an expert in many fields. A successful journalist, writer, and businessman, he also works very hard at enjoying all the money life brought his way. This month he explains how to make the most out of the next million you come across.

You Have To Put It Somewhere . . . page 10

George Fielding Elliot airs a messy topic this month—the problem of what to do with the two-and-one-half-pounds-per-person of garbage that piles up in this country every 24 hours. Some towns burn it; some bury it; while in others the best you can do is hold your nose when you go past the dump. One thing is sure, says Mr. Elliot—this is one problem no community can ignore.

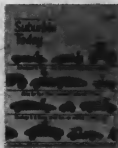

Time To Rally Round . . . page 14

The newest adventure in May, for many sports-minded Americans, is Rallying. All you need to become part of this fast-growing madness is a good car, a good navigator, careful instructions, a rough course, and then—it's the right speed ahead!

On Sunday morning, May 14, Mrs. Walter Kerr will be lovingly visiting a "Happy Mother's Day!" by Christopher (15), Colin and John (11-year-old twins), Gilbert (eight), and Gregory (two). For, although she is perhaps better known as Joan Kerr, author of Please Don't Eat The Daisies, The Snake Has All The Lines, and the hit play, Mary, Mary, her most exacting—and rewarding—job, she proudly says, is being the mother of the five younger residents in their big, rambling, Larchmont, New York, house.

Laura Jean Allen Sports cars (and just plain little cars), says our cover artist, come in many sizes and shapes. There are plump ones and sleek ones and old ones and trim ones. GETTING AROUND

. . . to Our Pleasant Places and People

NOW THAT THE TROUT SEASON is upon us, all Mr. Ciro Ribolini, of San Rafael, California, has to do is take rod and reel and go out to the back yard, where he has built a private trout pool. Local experts told him it couldn't be done, since trout must be kept in running water at a constant, cool temperature with plenty of oxygen, or they'll die, but the plucky angler solved every problem as he went along. What could be cooler and of more even temperature than a cellar, thought Mr. Ribolini, so he set up a barrel aquarium buried four feet into the ground. A sediment and filtering tank keeps the fresh, running water clean, and the tank tenants are kept plump and happy on a diet of trout food, raw hamburger, and hard-boiled eggs—plus a shot of oxygen once a week for kicks. Mr. Ribolini is the only man we know who can walk into his garden whenever the impulse strikes him and fish a breakfast of fresh trout. "They're as fresh as you can get them," he says, smiling. "I clean them, roll them in flour, smear them with butter, and fry them in parsley, lemon, and white wine. . ."

A group of interested citizens have built a drag strip at Coon Rapids, Minnesota, to house the Minnesota Road and Track Association, Inc., a sort of sports-car club for people from four to 14 years of age who drive motorized "go-karts." The purpose of the group is to teach beginners in a go-kart the basic safetydriving rules and the discipline necessary in driving a powered car on a track especially designed to fit their requirements. Cars and drivers are under constant supervision, and plans are already underway to build facilities for quarter midget racers and miniature sports cars on both oval and road-course tracks. Anybody in the area interested in joining the association, please call Mr. Ed Freiberg, of St. Louis Park, Minnesota.

In what seems an inspired fad, we hear that motorists around Dade and Broward Counties, Florida, are pasting a tiny snapshot of one of their children on their car speedometers—exactly at the 50-m.p.h. mark. Those little smiling faces are doing more to slow down drivers than any lecture or remote, grim statistic ever did!

There's a road sign not too far from Bluff Park, Alabama, that reads: "Don't Race Trains To Crossings. If It's A Tie, You Lose."

The latest craze among Cherry Chase, Maryland, partygoers is a drink called "The Tropical Itch." It's made of rum, brandy, gin, and mango juices, served on the rocks—with a swizzle stick shaped like a back-scratcher.

The Peabody Home For Crippled Children in Boston recently got a great big collection of stamps and stamp albums from the Norro Stamp Club, of Norfolk, Massachusetts. The club sends hundreds of stamps and albums to needy and crippled children all over the country because it feels an interest in philately will help the youngsters to spend their free time both pleasantly and profitably. Club members, incidentally, are all inmates at the Norfolk prison and want all of you to know that any "slightly used" stamp contributions mailed to the Norro Stamp Club, Box 43, Norfolk, Massachusetts, will be gratefully accepted.

Thanks for the tip, Mrs. Florence Willett. Mrs. Willett, the beautiful and very busy mayor of Birmingham, Michigan, decided that washing eight or ten bushels of Swiss chard by hand was just one chore too many, so she filled her agitator-type washing machine with tepid water and Swiss chard, ran it for a dozen swivels or so, and then put the clean leaves in the sink to drain.

Enjoy it your own way is the advice of the great-great-grandson of "the Commodore," who talks about his money as freely as he spends it.

SOME YEARS AGO I overheard two little shoeshine boys exchanging ideas, and one asked, "What would you do if someone gave you a million dollars?" The other tyke replied, "Count it." The point is that money—especially in lump sums—is America's favorite conversation game.

I wasn't aware that everybody didn't have a house on Fifth Avenue, a villa in Newport, or a steam-driven, ocean-going yacht, until my second year at St. Paul's preparatory school in New Hampshire. A small incident gave me a hint of my hidden powers. Several of my classmates asked me to treat them to some candy.

"How could I?" I asked. "I have only twelve cents left of my weekly allowance."

"That's all right," they answered. "Just walk in the store and tell them who you are. They'll let you charge anything you want."

"Will they?"

"Sure thing. You are a Vanderbilt."

A Vanderbilt? I felt puzzled. My name was Vanderbilt, all right, but I saw no reason why the store proprietor should be impressed by it.

The boys sneered.

"Oh, go on, stop pretending. Don't you know that your family has one hundred million bucks?"

"I see," I said. I did not. "One hundred million bucks" meant nothing to me. The only thing I really saw was a mean look in my classmates' eyes. I sighed and entered the store where I explained to the proprietor that I would buy one pound of marshmallows, provided he would agree to take twelve cents now and wait for the balance until Saturday. The man behind the counter hesitated. He looked for a moment at the shining dime and two sticky pennies in my trembling hand, then asked:

"What's the name?"

"Vanderbilt."

"What's the first name?"

"Cornelius. Cornelius Vanderbilt."

"Any relation to the old lady who has that big house on Fifth Avenue?"

"That's my grandmother."

"Take two pounds of marshmallows," said the proprietor, "and keep your twelve cents. You'll pay me the whole thing in a heap at your pleasure."

I walked out in a daze.

"You see," said my public, "you can buy the whole town if you want to. Just give your name and tell them to charge. How about getting some bicycles for us?"

From that moment on my horizons broadened. Money has done a lot for me, even if it has failed me on occasion.

Thinking it over, I realize that for one thing it has allowed me to be eccentric. I can say and do what I please . . . without good sense. I can choose the people I want to be with. I'm not beholden to anyone. It's quite a plus.

And there are other rewards, of course. After forty years of adulthood and some pretty wild experiences, I'll go along with the theory that the material and physical pleasures are fleeting and the flesh is weak. But you have to spend, enjoy, and grow up in order to find this out.

One healthy way of getting your kicks from money is travel. I've made 75 crossings to Europe. I've been to Barbados in the Caribbean with its inexpensive pensions and liquor at one-third the U. S. price; to Kandy in Ceylon, high in the mountains, 50 miles from the equator, where you have elephants to ride on; to Zanzibar and the Sultan's palace; to Beersheba in Israel with the camel market and the wonders of the Dead Sea. I've been to Interlaken in Switzerland, and up the Jungfrau ice castle in midsummer; to Oaxaca in Mexico, and the ruined cities; to Rhodes and the excavations; to Capetown with its native compounds and processions. All colorful and worthwhile, and on the way I've met many of the world's great, including De Gaulle, Churchill, Gandhi, and Mao.

Travel and a chance to meet the world-famous are rich rewards. Yet, I must admit, I have invested just as much in giving parties as I have in travel. (What did I tell you about the chance to be eccentric?)

To me, party-giving is more than fun, it is a science. Chef and assistants are picked with care. Food is ordered with an eye to the time of year, the occasion, the guests, and the place. Bartenders are put through a full-scale rehearsal. Decorations and music get equal attention.

Lastly, the guest list is chosen not so much with a study of the individual but of the whole chemistry. One kind of person brings out another, and I like to make stimulating combinations—politicians and comedians and corporation heads, and everywhere, lots of lovely women. Two of my frequent guests, I am happy to say, are Jack Javits, junior U. S. Senator from New York, one of the finest men I've ever met, and his lovely brunette Marion. Paul Getty, with his latest, is another kind of value on the guest list. They say he is the richest man in America. We have been friends for quarter of a century, and I think we always will be, as we each respect the other's feelings and way of life.

The Carlton Alsops are among the many and welcome representatives of the entertainment world. He is a longtime motion-picture producer and beau, a former husband of some of the prettiest stars in Hollywood and now married to an heiress from Houston. I could go on and on. My guests come from all over the country and all over the world, and, with the red carpet rolled out, they have made my parties famous.

WHAT PRICE a good evening—gold champagne, for instance, and the music of the Three Violins, and sixty intimate friends at the Star-on-the-Roof room of the Beverly Hilton Hotel? I'm thinking of a party I had recently for my friend Kenneth McKnight when he joined Vanderbilt Enterprises. We danced till dawn and went on to ham and eggs at the Beverly Wilshire drugstore, and in the end I picked up a check for $6,063, including tips and the drugstore breakfast. A good evening comes high, I admit—but it keeps the money in circulation, doesn't it?

On the serious side, it's an obligation for anyone with money to be generous and, handled wisely, generosity can be a source of much satisfaction. But it's easy to goof in this complicated giving.

ONCE my father told me that his mother, the late Alice Gwynne Vanderbilt of Cincinnati, Ohio, had written out a check for $200,000 to the Tibetan monks. He said his father was so furious he didn't speak to his grandmother in over a month. "Except," added Father, "to say good morning and good night." I always liked that.

My own giving has been less grandiose than my parents' for I believe that charity begins at home. For years on end I have taken care of scores of my friends, and their ex-wives, often unbeknownst to them, and have tried to help equal scores of people I really felt were in desperate circumstances.

In summing up, I'd say that if a rich man can keep his health, fight an even battle with his temptations, and keep busy, he has a good chance of enjoying his money. Oh, and one more thing—it's a good idea to hold on to the principal and let the interest buy your pleasures.

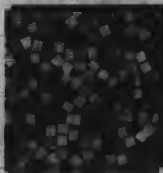

"Sometimes I wish we had a chimney."

GARBAGE IS A NASTY

EVERY DAY, in every American town from Maine to California, household refuse is accumulating at a rate of about 2½ pounds per inhabitant for each 24-hour period. The housewife gets rid of garbage and rubbish by putting it outside to be picked up. After that, it's a community problem. For a community of say 30,000 population, something like 34 tons of refuse per day (aside from sewage) must be collected and disposed of one way or another. It does not just disappear. You—your community—must take it away and put it somewhere. Where? That's the problem, and it's one that isn't easily answered.

In terms of modern refuse-disposal methods, there are just two things to do with it. It can be buried, or it can be partially burned and the ashes can be buried afterward with the non-combustible rubbish.

Each of these methods has advantages and disadvantages.

Burying everything is cheaper in current operating cost, if enough land is available. This method—known to today's sanitary engineers as sanitary landfill—requires about one acre of land per year for each 10,000 population. Operating costs are in the neighborhood of $1 per ton, though higher if the haul to the disposal point averages much over 6 to 8 miles.

Landfills fall into two general classifications—area landfills, using more or less flat land, and depression landfills which use natural or man-made depression or irregularities in the terrain. In area landfills, the usual method is to cut a deep trench in which the refuse is deposited and progressively covered with earth (the proportion of 6 feet of refuse covered by 2 feet of earth, as used at Hopkins, Minn., is a normal one). Parallel trenches are opened as the work proceeds. The refuse, when dumped, is compacted by heavy crawler-type tractors which reduce the bulk to as little as 25% of the original volume.

With proper control, landfills produce none of the nuisance problems associated with the old-fashioned open dumps. They do not breed rats, for example (no rat has ever been known to burrow through earth for more than 12 inches to get at food), and the compacted and treated refuse does not catch fire from spontaneous combustion and make the whole neighborhood reek, as dumps have a habit of doing. Nevertheless, zoning laws, rising land values, and opposition from residents tend to limit the availability of land in or close to the thickly built-up areas, which are the main sources of refuse. People are just beginning to learn the difference between landfills and dumps, and their initial reaction is likely to be, "Put that smelly thing somewhere else." Unhappily, "somewhere else" isn't always available.

One landfill operation on the outskirts of Birmingham, Alabama, threatened by an injunction suit launched by outraged property owners, was rescued by the ingenuity of the Public Works Commissioner, who gave an outdoor tea party for the complainants on top of the landfill—with the result that the injunction was dissolved by hilarious acclamation.

OTHERWISE USELESS or unsightly land (swamps, sloughs, ravines, heavily eroded areas, old quarries or gravel pits) can be used for landfill purposes with good results and eventually transformed into usable sites for parks, parking lots, airports, sports fields, as well as for light industrial or commercial construction. Waste land became a municipal asset instead of a liability, for instance, in Highland Park, Illinois, which converted a 70-acre slough area into a sanitary landfill project serving local disposal needs and those of nearby Lake Forest, Deerfield, Glencoe, and Highwood as well, bringing a substantial annual income at the rate of 45¢ per cubic yard of refuse deposited.

Unfortunately, there is less and less space available for landfill, and this brings us to the other alternative, incineration. About three-quarters of the total volume of a refuse collection (including garbage) can be burned in a modern, well-designed incinerating plant with only 5% to 15% of the original weight remaining in the form of ashes. The rest is transferred to the atmosphere as gases or particulate matter. The ashes, plus the 25% of the original refuse (cans, bottles, metal scrap, crockery, ceramics, etc.) which can't be burned, must still be compacted and buried; but the useful life of the municipal landfill area is extended three to four times by burning off as much as possible of the initial volume. Principal disadvantages of incineration are the need for a substantial capital investment, high operating costs ($4 to $5 per ton), and air pollution.

WORD, BUT—

Some authorities still believe incineration provides the only feasible long-term solution. The Metropolitan Study Commission of Milwaukee County, Wisconsin, sees local landfill sites being filled up and communities facing the costs of longer and longer hauls to areas where land can be made available. Even dumping grounds for incinerator ashes are in increasingly short supply. A number of communities in the county (Wauwatosa, Whitefish Bay, Shorewood, West Allis, South Milwaukee) have built or rebuilt incinerators. To some criticism that these plants are of small capacity and hence inherently inefficient, the Commission points out that several communities could join together to build one large, fully efficient plant to be run cooperatively.

There is some indication, however, that the annexation policies pursued by the City of Milwaukee have made neighboring smaller communities a little shy of cooperative projects as too suggestive of a loss of the identity they have fought so hard to retain. So what, says the Commission, do you do when you run out of landfill sites and have to start paying prohibitive long-distance hauling costs? Long-distance transfer hauling in big trucks or railroad cars to a cooperatively owned landfill site (perhaps outside the county) might be one answer. Another that has been suggested is to start fill-site enclosures of tongue-and-groove sheet-steel piling in shallow areas of Lake Michigan; this might help add to county park areas and to the Milwaukee Harbor Wharf.

Some incinerator enthusiasts insist that prejudice against incinerators arises from misuse in the past, notably by overloading when daily loads have overtaken designed capacity due to rising populations. An overloaded incinerator can, it appears, become an almost hopeless mess. Still, as William S. Foster, editor of the magazine American City, points out in his March, 1960, issue, there are veteran incinerators operating to everyone's satisfaction in built-up areas of such places as Brookline, Mass., and Darien, Conn. Hollywood, Florida, is proud of a "custom-built" incinerator, specially designed for Hollywood's low, flat terrain and occasional hurricane-force winds, and now producing a $37,000 annual saving by centralizing the operations of sanitation-department equipment and personnel. And in Boston, the incinerator provides all heat for the City Hospital—annual savings, $115,000.

Each community or group of communities has this refuse problem to think about—now and for the future. Landfill sites will be more expensive and more costly to reach under exploding population pressures. It may not always be easy to induce town fathers to find money for incinerators or to agree to locate one conveniently—even though good ones don't smell, the daily parade of refuse trucks is no joy to the neighbors. You can, of course, fall back on old-fashioned methods. You can feed garbage to hogs, but you have to cook it or you can't sell the pork. You can just use the good old-fashioned dump, if you can stand the smell, the eyesore, and the rats. One community in Delaware County, Pennsylvania, estimates 100,000 rats, fat ones, on its town dump and is frantically trying to get rid of them because, in this case, the rat population is outgrowing the daily food supply provided by the dump and is spreading all over town. The simple solution applied by the folks of Ketchikan, Alaska—they just dump the refuse on the beach and push it into the sea—isn't universally acceptable; New York and Oakland, California, used to haul garbage out to sea and dump it 20 to 50 miles offshore, but the results along the beaches caused the practice to be condemned finally as a health hazard.

FOR THE SMALL COMMUNITY and even for many big ones, there's little doubt that sanitary landfill is the most attractive and inexpensive means of garbage disposal provided that enough fill area can be assured for the years to come.

But of one thing you can be sure: whether you burn or bury or just try to forget the whole problem and hold your nose when you pass the town dump, those 2¼ pounds per person per day are going to go on piling up—now and in all the years to come.

The towns are going to have to put it somewhere—and keep on putting it somewhere.

families—and where are the towns going to put it?

HOW TO OWN A BIG DREAM ON A SMALL BUDGET. Here are two body styles not generally considered economy models. By habit, they're often more envied than owned. But that habit can now be broken. Because these two are Dodge Darts. And Dart is a full-size Dodge priced model for model with Ford and Chevrolet. In addition, Dart has a number of special economy features its major competitors can't match. A unitized, rust-proofed body, very economical engines, V8 or inclined six, and the new alternator which makes the battery last much longer than usual because it charges at idle. If you're driving the commonplace and dreaming big dreams, do this. Shed the commonplace. Drive your dream. On a very small budget. Your nearest Dodge Dealer will be happy to show you just how small it'll be.

Collected by Mrs. Don Gerber,
Mother of 5

It's the rare and unusual toddler who doesn't have a temper tantrum from time to time. (And if he finds it's effective, he'll be tricky enough to use it when he wants his way.) A few ways to sidetrack tantrums:

- ♥ Plenty of rest. Do not let baby get over-tired or over-stimulated before bedtime.
- ♥ A sense of freedom. Outdoors or indoors, a toddler should have a chance to play under watchful but not nagging supervision.
- ♥ Try to avoid situations that are likely to produce tantrums. Use distraction when storm signals do appear.
- ♥ When the tempest is over, let your child know you love him.

Toddlers, creepers or babes-in-arms all benefit from fruits and vegetables for the vitamins and minerals they supply. Gerber Strained and Junior Fruits and Vegetables are especially made to make your tykes like to eat these important foods. What's more, they're cooked in the absence of air to preserve the utmost in nutritive goodness.

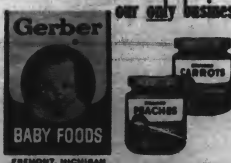

If your baby or toddler is going through an anti-milk stage, you can get extra milk into a reluctant drinker by serving Gerber Custard Puddings, Cottage Cheese with Pineapple and putting extra milk on Gerber Cereals.

Cute "train of thought." To make a cost-nothing train for your toddler, just string several empty Gerber Cereal boxes together, leaving a good length for pulling. Makes a swell "choo-choo" worth hours of fun.

Cover story for cherubs. Gerber Baby Pants are made of soft, soft, polyvinyl film that won't stiffen for the life of the pants. Ample cut to allow for wiggle room and growth. Machine washable; medium, large, extra-large.

New conveniences: Gerber Strained Foods in the Wide-Top® jars with Quick-Twist® caps and the new Shop-Easy labels with the variety names at the top. Y. M. M.

You'll see them any weekend now, gathering happily for a rough, tough, all-day race through the spring countryside

Registration—drivers gather at appointed spot to be put on record and get instructions for the course in a sealed envelope.

WHEN YOU'RE OUT for a drive on a spring Sunday and you pass seven or eight sports cars, most of them top-down two-seaters, each carrying two people, the passenger usually a girl bent over a clip board on which she's frantically scribbling something—these are rallyists, and they're engaged in something called a rally, or, to give it the positively correct spelling, a "rallye."

A rally is a sporting event in which the object is to drive an automobile from Point A to Point B at a certain fixed average speed, say 38.7 miles per hour. That's the simplest form, and even it isn't very simple. For one thing, an average of 38.7 miles per hour is pretty fast, particularly over the kind of roads rally organizers lean toward: dirt, back country, up and down. Suppose you're embarking on a mildly difficult rally. The cars will gather at some convenient place—a park, a restaurant. Competitors will be given sealed envelopes. As the cars move off, their time of departure registered to the second, the passengers, or navigators, rip open the envelopes and find such instructions as:

At third red barn (faded red, not bright) take Lawson's Lane (no sign) to second intersection, average 18.9 for first 2.3 miles, 26.1 to intersection. Look for marked map on porch of General Store. . . ." And so on.

ALL YOU NEED to win a rally like that, a little six-hour run in the country, is a good car, a driver with a miller's sense of pace, a navigator who can produce solutions like an IBM machine—plus patience, understanding, and tolerance. For a really tough rally, you need a lot more.

Rally scoring is done in seconds, the usual system being so many points off a theoretically perfect score for each second the car is late—or early—in arrival at a check point. Check points are maintained by the sharp, stop-watch-wielding types who are running the rally. Location of some of the check points is known to the competitors; others are secret, hidden along some lonely stretch of road to make sure that you're penalized if you're doing 19.5 miles an hour instead of 20.1. Most rallies are run by one of the scores of motor-sports clubs that have sprung up since the end of World War II, with the check points manned by members with a taste for mathematics and the ability to feed off boredom while sitting in a folding chair behind an alder bush out in the countryside, stop watch in hand, pencil always at the ready.

When rallying began to be taken seriously in the United States a few years ago (it's a venerable sport in Europe) contestants could use fairly simple means of calculation. Ordinary wrist watches and the tenth-of-a-mile recorder on the car's speedometer were used. But as time went on and competition became tougher and tougher, such crude devices were abandoned. After all, the odometer, the mileage-recording part of the speedometer, is probably producing a 3-percent error, plus or minus; if you spin the rear wheels a few times in ice or sand, the factor of error will rise, and how do you know you have the right-size rear tires? When you're up against driver-navigator teams who can show seven seconds of error in a 48-hour run, such details become important.

WHEN YOU SEE a rally car with a dashboard that looks like a section of the chief engineer's panel on the "Queen Mary" you will know that the owner is counting on modern science to help him win. He may have four tenth-of-a-second stop watches mounted in a row with a bar-lever arrangement to start and stop them instantaneously in pairs. He'll have an average-speed instrument, an Italian Tachimedion, a Swedish Halds or perhaps one of his own rigging which, when hooked into the speedometer, will deliver a steady average-speed reading. The passenger's side of the car will carry a little goose-neck lamp, a clip board rigidly mounted to the dashboard to form a desk, and something like a Blackwell Mark II circular slide rule will be in evidence, a ginsack that will deliver miles, minutes, or average speed when the other two factors are set on it (to get average speed, set miles and minutes). There will be a short-wave radio for picking up Navy time signals. If the owner is serious about the sport and goes in for things like The Great American Mountain Rally, which takes three days and nights, he'll have a shovel aboard and tire chains and a couple of spotlights in front, called "flame throwers," so powerful they will practically burn a hole through a pine board.

The Sports-Car Rally

There is a school of rallyists who maintain that all electronic and mechanical gimmickery is counter to the true spirit of the sport. These purists maintain that a proper rallyist needs only a sense of timing and a sensitive throttle foot, while a good navigator requires nothing more than a few sheets of paper, a pencil, and a map. It's something like the difference between dry-fly and wet-fly fishermen; or fly-versus-bait fishermen. The IBM-machine adherents go home with more silver cups for rally winning, though.

Such tangible reward is the least of it, however, for a rally is enormous fun, and few who embark on even one little easy one ever get over it. I remember the first rally I ever went on, years and years ago. I had an absurdly small automobile and the average speed was much too fast for us, even if we hadn't got lost twice. But my navigator and I became so interested and so excited that I ran that little car all night long as fast as it would go, my foot flat on the floor. I knew I was ruining the engine, but I didn't care.

THE WORLD SERIES of rallying is the Monte Carlo, properly called the Rallye de Monte Carlo. The "Monte" usually takes 8 days—and nights. Contestants can start from cities all over Europe: Edinburgh, Athens, Stockholm, Paris, Monte Carlo itself, Lisbon, and so on. The rally is run in January, with snow and icy roads the rule, and the impression you have after finishing it is that you've been up and down every mountain on the Continent at least once. Usually the average speed is set so high that only by absolutely flat-out driving can competitors hope to maintain it. Collision and accidents are commonplace—and costly, for every scratch on the car when it comes finally to Monte Carlo (if it does) counts against it. Drivers and navigators eat benzadrine like popcorn and hope that a "spook" won't put them off the road. A "spook" is a delusion: men have died in the Monte Carlo because they thought they saw a truck parked in the road ahead of them, or a herd of cows, or an elephant standing on its head. After five or six days without sleep, the sight of an elephant, perhaps pink, standing on its head on a pile of snow seems perfectly reasonable. Bob Halmi, a leading American rallyist who has competed in a number of European events, is still not sure he didn't see two nude girls waving to him from a snowbank high in the Alps Maritimes one midnight last year.

Despite the difficulty of the course and the high average speeds, a number of cars do come into Monaco with perfect scores every year. To shake them down further, these cars are sent out on an overnight dash through the mountains over as difficult a route as possible and timed to the split second. And the Monte Carlo organizers, with a quarter of a century of experience behind them, can be very difficult indeed. For the final winner there's a prize of a few thousand dollars, of small significance beside the satisfaction of having won one of motoring's toughest contests.

THERE ARE many prizes, of course, the main division being according to engine size. (Most of the competing cars are European, since small size, agility, and speed are important.) One of the most interesting of the competitions is the "prix de confort," which goes to the most luxuriously equipped car in the rally. A typical winner may have circular windshield wipers to clear the snow from his head-lamp lenses; seats that make down into full beds; hot and cold running water; fitted washbasins; electric shavers; electric coffee- and tea-makers; hot plates; and so on through a list of 50 carefully planned accessories.

No one car has ever won prizes for both performance and comfort, however. In the Monte Carlo you can have a comfortable ride or a fast ride, but you can't have both.

Many racing drivers won't compete in such events as the Monte Carlo or the Alpine Rally, another 8-day special, considering them much too dangerous. Stirling Moss, probably the best driver in the world today, likes rallying, and so, for that matter, does his sister Pat, who has won many ladies' prizes. To ride as navigator with a really purposeful driver like Moss requires strong nerves, particularly over typically unfenced Alpine passes. A journalist who rode with him in a Monte Carlo rally told of shivering in the back seat of a small sedan as Moss belted the car along at 90 miles an hour on black glare ice. At one point Moss remarked, "It wouldn't make much difference here if we went off at 30 miles an hour or 90, so we may as well press on."

APPETIZER SPARKRIBS

Put 4 lbs. spareribs, meaty side up, in a shallow roasting pan. Rub with a cut clove of garlic and sprinkle with salt. Roast in a 350° F oven 1½ hrs., or until done, draining off excess fat as it accumulates. Cut ribs apart. Dip in either Tangy Plum Sauce or Sweet-Sour Apricot Sauce; grill about 3 in. from coals until well browned, turning frequently.

Appetizers for 10 to 12

SWEET-SOUR APRICOT SAUCE

When serving egg rolls or other hors d'oeuvres, try this Oriental-style sauce.

Drain two 1-lb., 14-oz. cans apricot halves; force apricots through a sieve or food mill into a saucepan. Stir in a mixture of ¼ cup drained crushed pineapple, ½ cup honey, ½ cup brown sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, few grains white pepper, and 2 tablespoons cider vinegar. Add 2 large cloves garlic, quartered. Bring mixture to boiling, reduce heat to medium, and cook for 10 min., stirring occasionally. Remove garlic. Cool and store, covered, in refrigerator until ready to use.

About 2½ cups sauce

TANGY PLUM SAUCE

For fine indoor fare, oven roast ribs 'n' sauce.

Drain a 1-lb. can purple plums and reserve ¼ cup syrup; pit and force plums through a sieve or food mill into a bowl. Blend in reserved syrup, ¼ cup thawed, frozen orange juice concentrate, and ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Store, covered, in refrigerator until ready to use.

About 1½ cups sauce

LAMB CHOPS BURGUNDY

TO PREPARE: 10 MIN.

TO GRILL: 16-20 MIN.

(allow time for chops to marinate)

- 3 loin or rib lamb chops, cut 1½ to 2 in. thick
- ¼ cup olive oil
- ¼ cup Burgundy
- ½ clove garlic, crushed in a garlic press
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 3 peppercorns, crushed
- ½ teaspoon cumin seed, crushed
- ½ cup chopped red onion

1. Put chops in a shallow dish; combine remaining ingredients in a screw-top jar; shake to blend.
2. Pour marinade over meat. Cover and set in refrigerator to marinate about 2 hrs., turning chops occasionally.
3. Grill chops about 4 in. from coals 16 to 20 min., or until meat is browned, turning occasionally and brushing with remaining marinade. To test doneness, slit meat near bone and note color of meat.

8 servings

Ready for the guests are: Appetizer Spareribs; green pepper squares, cherry tomatoes, and avocado pieces in glass tumblers for serve-yourself Grilled Shrimp Appetizers (on hibachi); Roast Corn with Perky Butter Sauce; Lamb Chops Burgundy; and crisp salad greens.

It Out-of-doors

GRILLED SHRIMP APPETIZERS

Shell fresh shrimp, leaving tails; devein and rinse under running cold water; put into a large bowl. Partially cover with Italian salad dressing; cover bowl and refrigerate at least 2 hrs., turning shrimp several times. Drain shrimp, reserving marinade. Allow guests to thread onto metal or bamboo skewers (soak bamboo skewers in water before using): shrimp, cherry tomatoes, green pepper squares, and avocado pieces. (See photo.) Grill 3 in. from coals about 3 min., or until shrimp are done, turning and brushing with marinade.

ROAST CORN

Loosen husks only enough to remove silks and blemishes from ears of corn. Dip ears in pail of water. Shake well. Rewrap husks around corn. Plunge into water again and let stand until husks are soaked, about 1 hr. Turn ears on grill over coals and roast, turning frequently, until tender, about 15 min. Husk and brush generously with Perky Butter Sauce.

PERKY BUTTER SAUCE

Heat together $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter, $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon Italian salad dressing mix, $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon paprika, and $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon chili powder. Serve hot.

DILLED POTATOES IN PACKETS

TO PREPARE: 15 MIN. TO GRILL: ABOUT 35 MIN.

- 6 medium-sized potatoes, pared
- Salt
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter or margarine, softened
- 2 tablespoons snipped parsley
- 1 tablespoon dill weed

1. Cut each potato crosswise into 1-in. slices and place on an individual square of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Sprinkle slices generously with salt and spread with butter. Sprinkle evenly with snipped parsley and dill weed.
2. Put slices together to reassemble each potato; wrap in foil, sealing tightly.
3. Place on grill 3 in. from coals and cook about 35 min., or until potatoes are tender. Turn packets occasionally to cook evenly.

MINTED BROILED LAMB CHOPS

TO PREPARE: 10 MIN. TO GRILL: 16-20 MIN.

- 8 ribs or rib lamb chops, cut $1\frac{1}{4}$ to 2 in. thick
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup finely chopped mushrooms, lightly browned in butter
- 2 tablespoons crushed fresh mint leaves or 1 tablespoon dry mint leaves
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons wine vinegar

1. Combine mushrooms, mint, sugar, mustard, salt, and vinegar; toss gently to mix.
2. Grill chops about 4 in. from coals 8 to 10 min. on one side. Turn chops and spoon mushroom mixture over surface of each; grill second side 8 to 10 min., or until done. To test doneness, slit meat near bone and note color of meat.

8 servings

HERBED BISCUIT RING

To PREPARE: 15 MIN.

To BAKE: 15 MIN.

- cup butter, softened
- 1/4 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1/4 teaspoon celery seed
- 1/4 teaspoon sage
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme
- Few grains salt
- Four grains paprika
- 1 8-oz. container ready-to-bake biscuits

1. Cream butter until softened. Blend in the lemon juice, celery seed, sage, thyme, salt, and paprika. Cover and chill at least 1 hr. to allow flavors to blend thoroughly. (Soften herb butter slightly before using.)

2. Open biscuit container according to directions on package. Separate biscuits and spread each with the herb butter.

3. In a shallow baking pan, arrange biscuits, slightly overlapping, to form a ring.

4. Bake at 400° F 15 min., or until golden brown.

Diet of Champions

Prize winner or pal, Ken-L-Biskit brings out the best in your dog

Concentrated Ken-L-Biskit provides twice the power of lean beefsteak!

"Ken-L-Biskit is a concentrated kibble. Ounce for ounce, it provides twice the calories (energy-power) of the most flavorful lean beefsteak you can feed your family. And unlike so many other dry dog foods, Ken-L-Biskit is not "blown up." This means, cup for cup, there's more protein, more vitamins, more minerals, more of every nutrient your dog is known to need.

Because Ken-L-Biskit does so much more, you can feed less of it. Hence a most happy economy. And slow oven baking enriches the great flavor of Ken-L-Biskit. Makes for best digestibility, too.

Since every bit of every bite works to create the peak condition and wonderful spirit of a champion, it's no wonder Ken-L-Biskit is the world's largest-selling kibbled dog food! Now available at your favorite food store.

Occupation

Jean Kerr, best-selling author and half a dozen full-time jobs, five of

BY ROLLIE HOCHSTEIN

WHEN Jean Kerr is faced with a form to fill out, one heading always stops her: OCCUPATION. She's an author, of course. Her "Please Don't Eat The Daisies" spiced best-seller lists for fifty weeks after its publication two years ago. Her second book, "The Snake Has All The Lines," is just out and well on its way.

Mrs. Kerr is also a playwright. She co-authored "The King Of Hearts," which, after a hit run on Broadway, is still popular in the summer-theater circuit. And her new comedy, "Mary, Mary," is being hailed as "theater magic."

As the wife of Walter Kerr, a well-known drama critic, she accompanies her husband to dozens of theater openings, often weaving other obligations into her city excursions—like consulting with her publisher, looking in on a rehearsal of her latest play, or autographing a few hundred copies of her latest book.

Further, a seventeen-year-old, strictly nonprofessional collaboration of Jean and Walter Kerr has produced a family of boys—five of them—in an old, overgrown "gingerbread" house in Larchmont, New York.

To juggle all her jobs would tax the talents of a crisply efficient, highly charged regimentarian, which Jean Kerr is not. She is rather shy, soft-spoken, self-effacing, and completely unpretentious. She says she is slow-moving, noisy, and irascible at home. Either way, she is too spontaneous to be comfortable on a tight schedule. So she doesn't juggle. She simply takes first things first.

Her first things come in fives. She enjoys describing herself as harassed and overwhelmed by her sons, but there is no doubt that she has the situation firmly in hand. She certainly knows who's who around the house—and so do her children.

"CHRISTOPHER," she marvels, "is just fifteen, and he looks like a man. He weighs 180 pounds, and it somehow makes me feel younger to have a son bigger than I am. Chris is unsettling because he never defies me. I ask him to pick the newspapers off the floor, and he makes all the motions of doing it. Only he doesn't do it. I turn around and he's gone, papers still there. I wish he'd say 'No!' outright and then I could handle him."

Colin and John are a pair of usually reasonable, usually well-behaved twins.

"At eleven," Mrs. Kerr says, "they are sensible, middle-aged types. I wish I were as mature as they are right now."

Gilbert, eight, is what his mother describes as a "tunatic" type. He's so busy catching up with everybody else that he's runs in circles." Gregory is two.

"I don't know if I'm getting experienced at all this or if he really is the easiest baby we've ever had. My mother wonders why Gregory's so contented playing by himself. I tell her we don't care what he does with his spare time. We're no dictators."

—Mother!

*playwright, holds down at least
them boys*

Walter Kerr, father of the five, faces it all with equanimity. "Walter is the most patient man," says his wife. "He never raises his voice. I don't know how he has endured it. We eat dinner with the children—heaven knows why—and when they start duelling with asparagus spears, Walter doesn't notice. He must be in some intellectual cloud because there are the stalks flying in front of his eyes and ... well, I have to be the Heavy. I try to save my vocal cords by muttering, 'Walter, won't you do something about this?' And he says, 'About what?'"

The mystery is when Mrs. Kerr manages to write. The first thing to do, she says, is to avoid deadlines. She will work up a frenzy to get an article to an editor on the promised date. But since her time is an unknown quantity, she tries not to get pinned down. Her new play was written in

We've said it so often that there probably isn't a girl in America who doesn't know: "You can swim wearing Tampax." But we have been taken to task for not saying more often, more forcefully: "Dancing can be fun again when you wear Tampax."

Tampax gives you complete freedom of motion; in fact, you're apt to all but forget about differences in days of the month. There can be no chafing or irritation from Tampax® because it absorbs internally. Since you're not wearing added bulk, there can be no reason for excess perspiration. And odor is prevented because there's no exposure to the air.

Carrying Tampax, changing and disposing of Tampax—is never a problem. Actually, there's just no way for anyone to tell that you have any monthly difficulties.

So enjoy yourself all summer long the Tampax way. It's easier to use than you think—and far nicer than you dreamed!

Occupation—Mother!

odd hours—very odd hours, she readily admits.

Her outside career leans heavily upon a combination housekeeper-nursemaid named Mabel.

"This treasure," says Mabel's employer, "has been saving my sanity for nine years. I'd give her last name, but I'm afraid somebody will steal her."

Mabel arrives at 7:30 in the morning and takes command through early dinner. Her efforts are supplemented by a once-a-week cleaning man. It all helps, but Mrs. Kerr has yet to take up rug weaving for lack of something to do around the house.

A constant problem is rounding up baby sitters during theater season. Mabel sleeps in two nights a week, but for a solid stretch of openings the Kerrs have to fill in with sitters.

"I've got to cultivate some new sitters," she says. "My last year's supply have gone off to college."

With Mabel manning the barricades and the four older boys in school much of the day, Mrs. Kerr ought to have plenty of writing time—"if it weren't for the thirty-eight phone calls I get every afternoon." The Kerr family would do almost anything rather than answer the phone.

"Walter can pull out the plug," his wife says with admiration, "but I can't. I'm too nosy."

Typical of the call that drives her wild was a recent one from a gelatin manufacturer.

"They wanted me to endorse a crash diet," she recalls. "I'm dieting, all right. But not in public."

With it all, Mother Kerr manages to record her wit and wisdom with notable success. Known to the world as a successful author, she is nevertheless unimpressed with her fame.

"Most of the time," she admits, "I feel that I'm a plain, ordinary housewife. I'm home all day. What's more, I wouldn't take a job away from home for all the money in the world."

WHILE SHE doesn't think that her presence is vital to the children's well-being, she does feel that their presence is vital to hers. "The older they get," she says, "the harder they are to leave because they get more and more interesting."

Mrs. Kerr is not immune to occasional doubts. She reproaches herself for going to the theater as often as she does. ("I ought to be around to check the children's homework.") And she sometimes wonders if she ought to be doing more church and community work. (She is a member of the Mothers' Club of her boys' parochial school, and she hasn't missed a Parents' Day yet.) But she is sensible enough to admit that with five boys and a play and a book all spinning at the same time, something's got to give. What "lives" is organization work and a complicated social life. Her reading ("mostly trashy modern novels") is jet-propelled. Her social circle is limited to a few close friends.

One routine that never "gives" is a regular Sunday night family session when the boys recite poems and listen to poetry on records.

"Walter insisted that our children should know and understand poetry. The older kids thought it was silly at first, but you should hear them now. They choose their own selections to memorize and they love it."

"23 skidoo and a Side Car, too

Kerr addicts may remember a passage in her "Please Don't Eat The Daisies":

"We are being very careful with our children. They'll never have to pay a psychiatrist twenty-five dollars an hour to find out why we rejected them. We'll tell them why we rejected them. Because they're impossible, that's why."

This drew a challenge from another mother: "We love our children. Don't you love yours?"

But Jean Kerr's ability to see her children with humor and occasional exasperation in no way reduces her warmth and involvement as a mother.

"Kids," she says, "need to think their mothers are crazy about them and interested in them. And I guess a mother ought to show it in her own way."

FUNNY as she may be on the printed page, Mrs. Kerr is dead-serious about bringing up her boys. No exponent of the Permissive School of child raising, she believes in discipline for her brood.

"My parents were Irish, and I was brought up really strictly," she asserts. "It was good for me. I say children don't mind discipline. What they mind is being ignored."

"I think mothers today are much too self-conscious about their kids," she adds. "That's one of the things wrong with children today. I'm a Dr. Spock fan and I was delighted to see that he has a whole new edition stressing the fact that mothers should trust their instincts."

Strongly as she feels, Mrs. Kerr never preaches in writing.

"I want only to be amusing," she insists. "I'm in no position to tell other mothers what to do. We're just trying to do what's right with our own kids."

One firm measure in that direction was a recent ban on photographing the boys for publication. Jean Kerr is no celebrity to her neighbors because, as she points out, "the place is crawling with writers." But after family pictures appeared in a number of national magazines, the boys were beginning to be celebrities at school.

"It made them self-conscious," Mrs. Kerr says. "They started getting hammy. So we thought it would be better to keep them away from photographers. They are ordinary children, and we don't want them to get the idea that they are at all out of the ordinary."

If the boys all grow up into solid, respectable, well-adjusted citizens, their mother just might write a book about raising children.

"So far, they've developed no serious problems," she says, "but I can't open my mouth yet—one of them might rob a bank tomorrow."

Even if she never gets to that book, Jean Kerr already has the satisfaction of hundreds of letters from hundreds of parents who write to her:

"We're so relieved to find that other children are just like ours."

"Don't be silly, Edna. What in heaven's name would I do with a casual jacket?"

IN THIS MONTH OF MAY, 1961, old Mississippi stern-wheelers, is still there, making her way up and down the river, carrying passengers and freight at the reassuring average speed of twelve miles an hour. People who take their vacations aboard this nostalgically outfitted river boat (mint for juleps is grown in beds near the rear wheel and is watered by the turn of the wheel) recapture some of the adventure of "The Steamboat Era," which lasted, roughly, from about 1830 till about 1890. They are the people who've

New Bleu Cheese Dressings no one can buy

... fresh discoveries made with this GOOD SEASONS MIX

Good Seasons Bleu Cheese Dressing. A creamy, bright dressing full of the flavor of choice blue cheese. Mellow, yet tangy. Tastes seconds to mix. Many directions are on the Good Seasons envelope. You combine your favorite oil, vinegar and a little water with the Mix. The water, or a substitute liquid, makes the blend smoother. You can use many substitutes—see recipes below for delicious suggestions.

Bleu Cheese Dressing with Anchovy. When making your Good Seasons dressing, substitute for the water one 2 oz. can of anchovy fillets (with oil), minced. This adds a piquant touch—savory but not sharp. Excellent with any lettuce. A man's type dressing.

Bleu Cheese Pecan Dressing. Blue cheese and pecans are natural go-togethers! Add 2 rounded tablespoons of chopped pecans to the finished dressing. The nuts give a delightful, crunchy taste and texture to salads.

Bleu Cheese Dressing with Sherry. Use sherry wine instead of water in your dressing. A wonderful dressing for both fruit and green salads. Also best of all with a baked green salad to which you've added sautéed mushrooms and brown fried onions. Tastes best, not common, delicious, and the canned French fried onions or popcorn, French green.

Get the distinctive new Good Seasons Mix, with measurements printed, when you buy any of these: Good Seasons, Cream Cheese Dressing, Italian, Ranch, Thousand Island, French, Cream, and others. Good Seasons, Inc., Chicago, Ill.

steamers were floating palaces with crystal chandeliers, elegant staterooms, and plush lounges; excellent food; lovely music and entertainment; and wonderfully exciting sights to enjoy all along the way.

The Delta Queen is the last link with this part of the past. A few days—or a full two-week vacation—spent aboard her have all the adventure of a mid-nineteenth-century excursion, plus a few modern surprises, such as coming suddenly upon the Pittsburgh skyline or passing Baton Rouge at night. It's a gentle vacation; you get plenty of rest, and if you can't afford to take a cruise around the world, it satisfies your hunger for being afloat.

AMONG THE POINTS of interest viewed from that comfortable deck chair:

... the giant Hopewell Indian burial mounds, relics of a vanished and complex society that flourished here thousands of years ago.

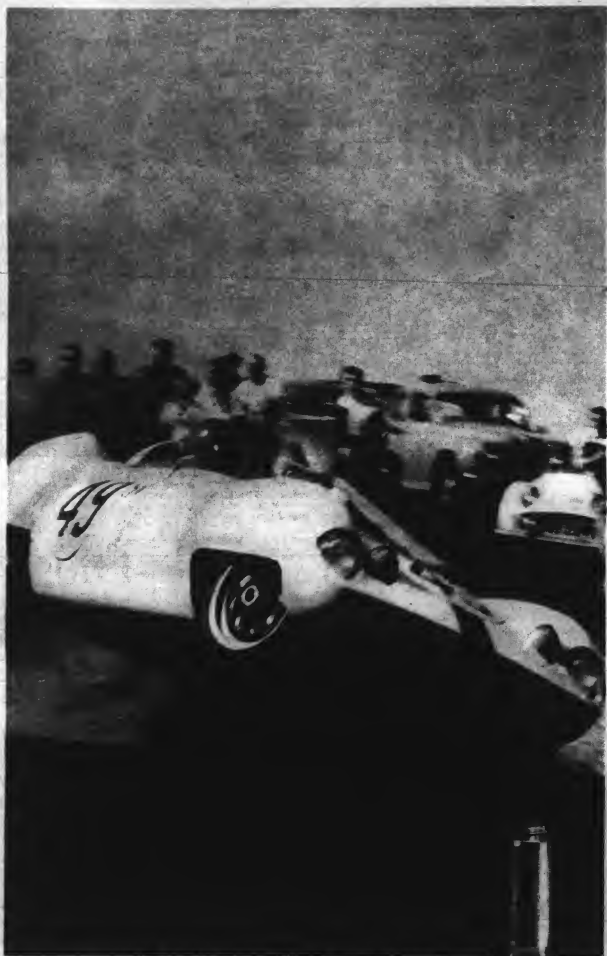

... the mammoth cave, called Cave-In-Rock, where river bandits lured unsuspecting travelers who were then robbed, killed, and thrown in the river, never to be found.

... the ghost of a lost steamboat that, they say, can still be seen and heard on rainy nights.

... Natchez-Under-The-Hill, once a center of crime and vice, home of the famous gamblers who went up and down the river fleecing innocent and naïve citizens.

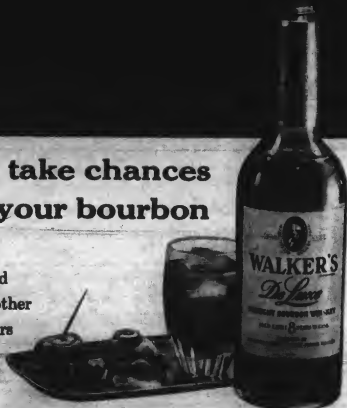

Have you ever noticed how much more of the Old South is visible from the water than from the highways? On one of her cruises the Queen stops at the beautiful Oak Alley plantation, named for the 90-foot-wide avenue of 28 oaks that sweeps from the magnificent house right down to the river. These trees were planted more than 200 years ago by an early settler, who called his plantation Bon Sejour.

Finally, the Queen pulls into New Orleans, which is like no other city in the world. All this—and much more—is there for anyone who chooses to take a vacation on the river, aboard the last great lady of the Mississippi—the Delta Queen.

Dwarf pear bears big fruit close to the trunk.

Those Amazing Dwarf Fruit Trees

Scaled down for the back-yard orchard, they still bear full-size fruit

BY FRANK J. TAYLOR

FIVE YEARS AGO Roy Bisbee and his brother, Apple growers in Hood River, Ore., spotted a most unusual tree in their orchard. It was a Red Delicious but much smaller than surrounding trees and bore its full-size apples on stubby spurs along its main limbs instead of out at the ends of its branches. Biologists call such a mutation a "sport" tree—a natural variation.

Paul Stark, Jr., vice-president of the Stark Bro's Nurseries of Louisiana, Mo., heard about this sport, inspected it, and offered to pay the Bisbees $25,000 in royalties for the right to propagate this single tree. Today, thousands of off spring are thriving in commercial and home orchards.

Dwarf fruit trees are not new; the Japanese, Chinese, and Europeans have grown them for centuries. But in recent years many horticulturists have had a hand in developing the techniques for dwarfing trees of various kinds of fruit, and a number of nurseries, Stark's among them, have pushed them commercially. Some two million are now sold each year in America to commercial orchardists and home gardeners.

These dwarfs, many no taller than a man, make home orchard husbandry a lazybones gardener's dream. Two dozen of them will thrive for years without crowding each other on a 60 by 100 foot plot. By espaliering them along fences and walls, the amateur orchardist can plant two or three dozen of these amazing horticultural midgets, of all different varieties, in a plot that would support only a dozen mature standard-size trees. Although young dwarfs cost about $1.50 more per tree, they bear sooner, are easier to spray and prune,
and can be picked without the aid of a ladder.
And they bear luscious and often oversized fruit.
In a test made by the Oregon State experimental station, golden delicious dwarf apples, planted 363 trees to the acre, produced twice the average acre yield of standard trees planted 34 to the acre.

Unlike the Bisbee Red Delicious, most dwarfs are not natural mutations. Instead, they are literally
"built" by hand on an assembly-line basis.
There are several techniques. One nurseryman, for example, grows thousands of rootstocks from cuttings of an apple rootstock known as East Malling IX. This is a standardized strain, one of 25 selected and trueed up through four decades of work at the noted horticultural experiment station at East Malling, England. It always makes small growth. When each rootstock reaches sapling size, the nurseryman inserts a varietal bud during midsummer. The bud unites with the stock but does not produce new stock until the following spring.
At that time the rootstock portion over the bud is cut off. This bud matures eventually into a dwarf tree bearing full-size fruit. Its growth is dwarfed because the root that supports it is really that of a dwarf plant.

ANOTHER nurseryman uses a technique called the "Clark System." In Washington State each summer he grows hundreds of thousands of apple seedlings from domestic or French seed sources that have a branched root system. At the end of one year these seedling plants are dug and grafted indoors to a scion of a hardy variety which will serve as the trunk. The grafted seedlings are lined out in the nursery row and grow for one year. The following year a scion of the Clark dwarfing section, a four to five inch section, and a scion of the desired variety such as Golden Delicious is first barked grafted indoors and then taken into the field and this combination graft is then grafted into the hardy trunk growing in the field. (It is the Clark dwarfing section which carries dwarfing genes in its sap that is called the dwarfing sandwich, or stempiece.) They stay in the field for one more season and then they are ready for planting.

Thus, each dwarf is an assembly of parts from four trees, all different types. And sometimes more, if the tree wizards decide to bud two or three varieties onto one tree for customers who like to pick Golden Delicious, Starkings, Winesaps or other kinds of apples all from the same midget!

This whole process was made possible by the discovery of one bonanza crabapple whose potent genes have turned millions of otherwise normal apple trees into dwarfs. The original tree was a seedling, planted by a sailor who had picked up

the seed in South America. It was spotted in a back yard in Muscatine, Iowa, by an amateur tree enthusiast, H. Walton Clark, for whom the Clark System of dwarfing apples has been named. Clark turned his find over to Prof. Tom Maney of Iowa State University, who perfected the grafting technique. Some ten million apple trees are now growing, held down to man-size by dwarfing four- to five-inch stem pieces stripped from the progeny of that one original plant.

With dwarfed apple trees a commercial success, creating miniatures of peach, nectarine, apricot, plum, and cherry trees became even more of a challenge. Nobody could find a magic "dwarfing sandwich," and Nature seemed reluctant to contribute dwarfing rootstocks in these fruits. So the tree architects had to resort to horticultural trickery. They tried grafting pear scions onto dwarfing rootstocks of such a distant cousin as quince. Nearly all of these strange marriages were astonishingly successful. The pear scions thrived particularly well on quince rootstock, and instead of shooting skyward, as pears do normally, the limbs remained stunted but bore normal-size fruit. Soon tree propagators were growing dwarf pears on quince roots by the thousands.

Unfortunately, one old favorite, the Bartlett, refused to make a union with the quince rootstock. But nurserymen now get around this barrier by grafting in a bridge of Hardy or Old Home pear, which is compatible with quince, and, then grafting the Bartlett scion on top of that.

The fruits with pits were still more difficult to dwarf. It was Professor Karl D. Brase at the Cornell Agricultural Station, Geneva, N. Y., who built the first successful dwarf peaches. Some years back, Professor Brase hit on the idea of grafting both peach and plum scions on the rootstocks of the western sand cherry, a misnamed hardy native plum from the midwestern states. These grew into sturdy dwarfs that bore excellent peaches and plums. But the rampant sand-cherry roots kept sending up suckers all around the tree trunks in an apparent struggle to get back into

The Permanent

WHY CHOOSE AN A-frame retreat? First, because it is economical, roomy, easy to maintain, and pleasing to the eye. It can be as simple as a permanent tent, or you can extend it to the limits of your budget and energy.

It serves equally well as a beach house, a woodlands cabin, a hunting or fishing camp, or a ski lodge (don't forget the fireplace and proper insulation).

Whatever the size, it's not hard to build. Basically, the A-frame house consists of a series of timbers put up in the shape of the letter A, one pair behind the other until the desired length is reached. The poles can be as tall as a two-story building and still be secure, since the buttressing is inherent in the design.

This frame is then covered in any number of materials, such as plain wood siding, tempered hardboard, exterior plywood, or thin aluminum sheets. If the house is to be at the beach or on top of a mountain, glass or plastic might be better for some of the panels, to get the most out of a beautiful view.

THESE HOUSES can be added to or modified at will and can be built in a series of separate stages. Walls are eliminated, and you get plenty of extra storage space just below the ridge line.

Perhaps best of all, the A-frame design makes it possible for the owner to do a lot of the construction work himself. A simple model can be put up by two adroit and industrious adults in less than a week.

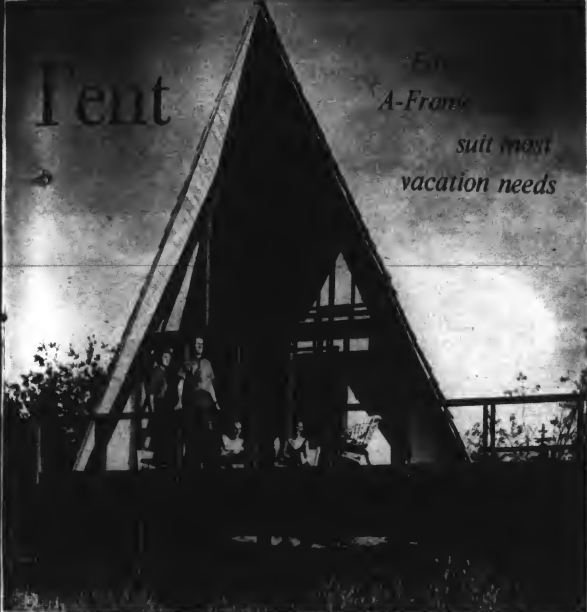

Improvements can come gradually, spreading the cost over a number of years.

In an open field the house is an addition to the landscape, but it fits in just as well snuggled on top of a mountain or settled on the sand dunes within sight of the breakers.

SATURDAY

Virginia Beach's Armed Forces Day parade Saturday will put on display more brass hats, white hats, brown hats and combat helmets than most of the citizenry has seen in a single deployment since World War II.

Under the supervision of Fire Chief "Bubba" Bayne and Lt. Cmdr. Stirling Snodgrass, USN, civilian and military parade chairs, respectively, 88 units will take their places in the line of march.

Overall direction is under the chairmanship of Frank D. Terrill of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce Armed Forces Day Committee.

Assemble At 8
Spearheaded by motorcycle policemen, the parade will fall in behind honorary marshals representing the civilian and military populations. In the first category, Thomas N. Downing will be on hand. Honorary marshals representing the armed services will be Ensign Roy Carstens, who has just earned his wings and been assigned to Oceana Naval Air Station.

Units have been called to assemble at 8 a.m. at 8th Street and Atlantic Avenue. The procession will strike out from 9th Street at 10 o'clock and move north on Atlantic Avenue, passing the reviewing stand at 30th Street and breaking up one block farther on.

Units of all the services stationed in the area will be represented with a variety of bands, drum and pipe corps, color guards and other units.

To Be Seen To Ride
The Virginia Beach Police and Navy units will take part as will the commanding officers of Ft. Story, Dam Neck and Oceana. Col. W. R. Pope, Capt. R. E. Green and Capt. C. K. Harper.

High school bands in the Tidewater area will add a colorful note and representatives of civic and fraternal organizations will be on hand again.

Also in the imposing array will be city and county officials and invited administrative authorities from neighboring communities.

Captain Harper, heading the Armed Forces Day Military Committee, and the City of Virginia Beach have issued invitations to a small list of dignitaries to be guests in the covered reviewing stand and at the cocktail party and luncheon at the Sir Walter Hotel immediately after the parade.

Majorette

Miss Becky Kellam, who will lead the Shirley Darden Brown Majorette corps in the Armed Forces Day parade here Saturday, Miss Kellam is the daughter of Mrs. Anne Kellam of Princess Anne, and the late Floyd R. Kellam.

Bible School Dates

Virginia Beach
In Year 2000!
Recognize It?

Virginia Beach, A.D. 2000, could look like this—just could, mind you—if predictions made last week after a six-day short course in urban planning become realities.

A monorail link with Norfolk. An international airport at Ft. Story.

An industrial park replacing Oceana Naval Air Station. Drinking water from the sea or from sewage reprocessed by atomic power.

A direct tourist service to Bermuda by hydrofoil craft from Rudee Inlet.

A major college at Camp Pendleton.

The final symposium saw 40 Virginia city and state officials and planning directors project Virginia's Atlantic beach resort into the future with no tongues in cheek. All these things, and many more, are practicable and feasible, according to the consensus.

Among other predictions was one that the population might reach 60,000 by the year 2000 and another that the number of summer tourists could jump from the present 70,000 to 300,000.

Also envisioned was a complex of high-rise hotels and apartments and complete commercialization from Rudee Inlet to Fort Story.

Add all these to highway development, a system of canals and a canal road into North Carolina, and, as the instructors from the urban and regional faculties of the University of Virginia and Virginia Polytechnic Institute put it, this will be quite a place for living.

The Chamber of Commerce is also mailing reply post cards to members and reservations must be made through the Chamber office.

ANNUAL CHAMBER
DINNER JUNE 9

The semi-annual dinner meeting of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce is scheduled to be held the night of June 9 at the Sir Walter Hotel, according to Rufus Kight, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Members are being notified by mail of the meeting which is set for 7 p.m. J. Glen Taylor, president of WAVY radio and television, and a resident of Virginia Beach, is to be the guest speaker.

The Chamber of Commerce is also mailing reply post cards to members and reservations must be made through the Chamber office.

N.Y. City Display

New Yorkers passing the Journal-American office have been viewing this window display extolling the virtues of Virginia Beach. Virginia Beach has been spotlighted in the street window for the past two weeks. The window display was arranged, designed and assembled by the City of Virginia Beach through its publicist, Laura Lamb.

The General Solicitation phase of the Campaign for $350,000 to assure the General Hospital of Virginia Beach will be launched this week. Over 300 citizens of the Beach area will attend a kick-off dinner tonight at the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center. This will be a concentrated effort which will be completed on Monday, May 29.

Spearheading the General Teams Division is B. M. Stanton, assisted by Ward Cole, George Phillips and Brad Bailey. At the present time these men and their sub-teams and team captains are soliciting the some 300 persons necessary to solicit residents of the Beach area.

In announcing the beginning of the General Solicitation, Chairman Stanton stated: "We hope that all residents of the Virginia Beach area to be served by the new hospital will hold themselves in readiness to give and to assist in this campaign. This community effort is one of proportions that has never challenged us before; only by 'United Support' of the entire community it is possible to assure this new General Hospital."

"Many will be called upon to work in the Campaign. This is a very big task, but if we really want this new 94-bed hospital which we need so desperately, we will all need to put our 'shoulders to the wheel' and work as well as give."

Special solicitation is the final phase of the community-wide campaign. The Master Gifts, Special Gifts and Doctors Division are at work, campaign officials said. All divisions are to make their official reports starting May 22.

Two hundred businessmen, civic officials and prominent citizens from Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County were entertained at a luncheon Wednesday, by the U.S. Fleet Anti-Air Warfare Training Center, Dam Neck, in cooperation with other military installations in the area.

The luncheon, part of Armed Forces Week celebrations, was supplemented by a guided tour and gunnery demonstration.

Co-hosting with FLTAATWTRACEN were the U.S. Naval Air Station, Oceana, and Port Story. The commanding officers of each activity addressed the group during their visit. The tour included visits to the Target Plane Activity to observe demonstration launch of a target drone, to the gunline (mounts and directors used by trainees gun crews) followed by "swivel shot" demonstration of Polaris Launch Tube at the Guided Missile School Annex, and welcome remarks by Col. W. R. Pope, U.S. Army, commanding officer, Fort Story; Capt. C. K. Harper, U.S. Navy, commanding officer, U.S. Naval Air Station, Oceana; Capt. R. E. Green, U.S. Navy, commanding officer, FLTAATWTRACEN and Cmdr. William A. Arthur, U.S. Navy, officer-in-charge, U.S. Naval Guided Missile School, Dam Neck.

Herbert Lee Green, 31, of the 1200 block Brambleton, Avenue, Norfolk, is being held in $1,500 bail as a material witness. Police say he was employed by Miller to help take the other man to a Richmond mental institution.

Attorney Edward T. Caton, III, defending Miller, described the matter as "a family dispute."

Plans are under way to acquire property in Princess Anne County as a site for buildings to house a coordinate preparatory school to be formed by the amalgamation of Country Day School for Girls of Virginia Beach and the Norfolk Academy.

Richard F. Welton is chairman of a joint committee made up of four members each from the two school boards. The committee is operating under the approval of the trustees and directors of the institutions.

Welton pointed out that the new school will not be coeducational. In a coordinate school the boys and girls meet in separate classes, although the same facilities may be used by both groups.

After consolidation, the school will be operated by one board and management.

Norfolk Academy, one of the nation's oldest private schools for boys, dates back to 1728 while Country Day School for Girls has been operating since 1957.

Trustees representing Norfolk Academy are Edward R. Baird, Harry B. Price, Jr., Frank Belton and Welton, representing Country Day School are Director R. C. Coby Moore, R. L. Miles, W. Peyton May and Julian S. Lawrence.

Special solicitation is the final phase of the community-wide campaign. The Master Gifts, Special Gifts and Doctors Division are at work, campaign officials said. All divisions are to make their official reports starting May 22.

Two hundred businessmen, civic officials and prominent citizens from Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County were entertained at a luncheon Wednesday, by the U.S. Fleet Anti-Air Warfare Training Center, Dam Neck, in cooperation with other military installations in the area.

The luncheon, part of Armed Forces Week celebrations, was supplemented by a guided tour and gunnery demonstration.

Co-hosting with FLTAATWTRACEN were the U.S. Naval Air Station, Oceana, and Port Story. The commanding officers of each activity addressed the group during their visit. The tour included visits to the Target Plane Activity to observe demonstration launch of a target drone, to the gunline (mounts and directors used by trainees gun crews) followed by "swivel shot" demonstration of Polaris Launch Tube at the Guided Missile School Annex, and welcome remarks by Col. W. R. Pope, U.S. Army, commanding officer, Fort Story; Capt. C. K. Harper, U.S. Navy, commanding officer, U.S. Naval Air Station, Oceana; Capt. R. E. Green, U.S. Navy, commanding officer, FLTAATWTRACEN and Cmdr. William A. Arthur, U.S. Navy, officer-in-charge, U.S. Naval Guided Missile School, Dam Neck.

Herbert Lee Green, 31, of the 1200 block Brambleton, Avenue, Norfolk, is being held in $1,500 bail as a material witness. Police say he was employed by Miller to help take the other man to a Richmond mental institution.

Attorney Edward T. Caton, III, defending Miller, described the matter as "a family dispute."

Plans are under way to acquire property in Princess Anne County as a site for buildings to house a coordinate preparatory school to be formed by the amalgamation of Country Day School for Girls of Virginia Beach and the Norfolk Academy.

Richard F. Welton is chairman of a joint committee made up of four members each from the two school boards. The committee is operating under the approval of the trustees and directors of the institutions.

Welton pointed out that the new school will not be coeducational. In a coordinate school the boys and girls meet in separate classes, although the same facilities may be used by both groups.

After consolidation, the school will be operated by one board and management.

Norfolk Academy, one of the nation's oldest private schools for boys, dates back to 1728 while Country Day School for Girls has been operating since 1957.

Trustees representing Norfolk Academy are Edward R. Baird, Harry B. Price, Jr., Frank Belton and Welton, representing Country Day School are Director R. C. Coby Moore, R. L. Miles, W. Peyton May and Julian S. Lawrence.

Those words will constitute the Virginia Beach Post Office cancellation stamp beginning at 4 a.m. Saturday, May 20, which—through no coincidence at all—happens to be Armed Forces Day.

By special permission of the Post Office Department this cachet will be the sole property of Virginia Beach until midnight, Aug. 31 and, located immediately beside the official postmark, will identify this city as the home of Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard, Jr., when he made his historic rocket ride as the nation's first astronaut.

The idea originated with B. F. Barco, a clerk in the Beach post office. He and his wife were in their home at 5508 Battle Avenue on May 5, eyes glued to the television broadcast of the blast-off at Cape Canaveral.

The Barcos, like other millions of Americans, were thrilled at Shepard's exploit, proud of the nation that produced Project Mercury and of the city that had made him a folk hero of the astronaut and his family.

Barco turned his enthusiasm into action. With approval of Postmaster Joseph T. Crosswhite, Jr., he fired off a "suggestion form" to Postmaster General J. Edwards Day along with a letter and a copy to Regional Operations Director Malcolm Clarke.

The suggestion was signed "The Post Office Department wanted to know who would pay for the special 'cachet'—the master stamp for the cancellation process. It might run up to $50, Crosswhite was informed.

Virginia Beach postal employees are taking care of the matter. Letter carriers, clerks and supervisors dug down their pockets.

"Whatever it costs," said Barco, "we're more than glad to pay. It's little enough to do to express our pride in having as a neighbor the nation's first space flier who is a man we have come to admire."

The report, which has been referred to the Beach Erosion Board in Washington, also recommends placing on the beach of an initial quantity of material to equal the deficiency that may exist at the commencement of the nourishment program.

Virginia Beach, on its part, must fulfill the following conditions:

a. Continued compliance by the City of Virginia Beach with all items of local cooperation embodied in the project document, except that the City shall be relieved of one-third of the cost of periodic beach nourishment.

b. Accomplishment by the City of Virginia Beach of adequate annual surveys of the beach.

c. Payment by the City of Virginia Beach of all costs in connection with the transfer of historical material across and from Rudee Inlet since such material is considered part of the natural littoral supply which would normally reach the problem area and would, therefore, not be subject to a Federal contribution.

d. Maintenance by the City of Virginia Beach of such accounts and records as will permit a clear and definite accounting determination of the total costs to be shared by the federal government in the performance of this work.

Further congressional action is required and the timing of the legislative progress is an unpredictable matter.

Inspector Atwater says that thermal couplings are being sought to demonstrate and register the degree of heat that develops in burning buildings. A home alarm system will be installed and a test board, set up outside, will keep the watchers informed of the goings-on.

The volunteers will be backed up by the professional firemen. Since this is an effort to acquaint the public with fire-fighting procedure, the demonstration will be staged on Tuesday at 7 p.m., the weather precludes the Sunday show.

The regular meeting of the Princess Anne-Virginia Beach Young Democratic Club is scheduled to be held next Tuesday night in the Cape Henry Club at the Sir Walter Hotel. It has been announced. The meeting is set to begin at 8:00 p.m.

Guest speaker for the meeting is to be the Honorable G. M. V. Pendleton, Treasurer of the Commonwealth of Virginia. A social hour will follow the meeting.

Highlites Of Ten Pin Bowling

Church & Military League
Monday will be the first night of scheduled bowling for this league, and they will be holding their awards banquet May 22, at the American League Club.

Looks as though the Free Lancers will win first place. Their team has stayed out in front all the way. Tonight Ken Jakes had high game for league with a 200 and also high set with 350.

Piremen & Policemen League
C. F. Kadas Co. was high for evening winning four points over

Court House Service Center, with a 2543 team total. Rolling on this team, Warren Hiltshew had the high game 190, while Gene Vastle had 577 for high set.

Pleaser Mixed
Joe Riccio rolling for Tomac Const. team really gave the ladies a fit tonight. Joe, rolled 246 for high game, and 577 for high set. Nice going, Joe. Marie Smith rolling for the Lucky Strikes came up with another 522, there's some good bowling for our ladies. Marie had 161-178-180, for this high set. Marie is really doing some fine bowling and what is most important is that she is getting these high scores consistently.

Thunderbird Major
Tonight George Baler came back strong, course anyone who has seen George bowl knows what I mean he came up with another 600 set. Rolling for the Isle of Capri team George turned in 3 pretty games for a 618 set. His set consisted of 203, 204, 211. Lee Amundson had the high game with a 245, and I'm going to be real nice and not mention Lee's other games. Chuck Kadas rolled a nice 231 game. Dick Snyder just missed the 900 mark with a 500 set, and not far behind him was Roy Taylor with a 582 series, and Bob Vogt with a 564.

Pinfall League
High for this evening was Jerry

Lewis with a 229 game and a 574 set. Roy Bales had the high game with 208. Ben Zacher had the 210 game for the Golden Dragon team, and Charlie Bollen rolling for Stier Masorony team hit the napsies for a 201 game and a 563 set.

Princess Anne Ladies
For the second week in a row Shirley Mesimer has turned in a pretty high set. This week Shirley rolled a 508. Hope Shirley can hit the 500 mark again this coming week, to make it three in a row. Roughly, I've mentioned before what the 500 game is, well, it's close to the popular 500 with 190 game and 462 set. Nice going to all the girls this week, special to Rose Vina for her high 197 game.

Town & County Ladies League
Dot Iales rolling on Beach Travel Service was the top bowler tonight. I've mentioned before what a nice bowler Dot was and tonight's bowling just adds more to my admiration. Dot rolled 153-186-179 for a 518 set. And another nice bowler was right behind her with a 515. This was Doris Salmons rolling for D. E. Donney team. Doris had 144-178-195 to reach her high 515 set. This is sure a funny game, cause two weeks ago I rolled against Doris and she was having all sorts of trouble, and then turns around two weeks later and bowls like this. Maybe this is why we never give up, but just keep trying.

Clay Wilson was high for her team again with a 460 set. She keeps improving every week, nice going Clay, but must you bowl like this against my team?
Will you look at Betty Mauch, coming up with a big 489 set, after a bout of illness too. Betty has changed to a hook ball that is really working for her. Next season she should be on top.

Thursday Night Ladies
Final evening of bowling for these girls. I'll miss writing about them. Think I enjoyed them most because they have a small league, but have seemed to enjoy themselves so much. Now that their season is complete, think it's safe to say I was most intrigued with the name of the one team, they called themselves the Gutzlers? Is that for real?

Talked to Shirley Scheffer who won high average for this league and was so pleased as she has every right to be. I'll be happy to see the other top winners in this league as soon as we receive them.

Princess Anne Suburban League
Star of this league tonight was Roy Pallette. Roy rolled a 582 game, Brooks Builders, and really had a big one tonight. Roy rolled a 160-202-232 for his 600 set. Nice going Roy, hope this is one of many to come.

Ball and Chain Mixed Doubles
Last evening of bowling for these couples, and Ralph Johnson rolled himself right into a trophy. Ralph rolled 182-202-220 for a 614 set. They will win a trophy for the men's high set for this league. They will hold their awards banquet May 20th, 7 p.m. at Ft. Story. High men's individual average goes to Lee Amundson, ladies high average to Lorraine Amundson. How's that for team work, togetherness if I ever heard it. Ralph Johnson won high men's series, Neil Santivaci high series for the ladies. High single game for the men was rolled by Jim Burgay, and for the ladies high single goes to Sonja Longmeyer. The first place team in this league was Neil and Danny Santivaci. Congratulations to all the winners, and to the whole league I say we'll miss "you all".

Pinbusters Ladies League
Last evening, wish you all could hear these girls. They are so pleased with the high scores their teams are racking up. Seems as though it has picked up momentum. Every week another of these girls breaks the 200 mark. This week it was Anne Odum. Anne rolled her first 200 game with a big 211. Hope this is the first of

Junior Golfers Tee Off June 12

The Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce Local Junior Golf Tournament will be held June 12-13 at the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club.

The 36-hole medal play will be open to all boys who haven't reached their 15th birthday by August 15. Trophies will be awarded to the winner and runner-up and to the winner and to the winner after runner-up in the age 12 and under group.

Entry blanks are available at local golf pro shops. There is no entry fee.
The top four golfers in the local tournament will qualify for the Virginia State Junior Chamber of Commerce Junior Golf Tournament to be held at the Cavalier links on June 26-27.

Local and state Jaycee Golf chairman is James Griffiths.

Weather Hits Little League

The Princess Anne Little League has been plagued by the weather almost since opening day. Jeff Bratten, pitching May 10 for WAVY, pitched nine acey Duceys, and let them down with three hits to win 3 to 6.
Rained out Thursday, Friday & Monday, the league got back into operation Tuesday with Rosewood leading Hayes by 5 to 4 and Acey Ducey converting a first inning deficit of four runs to defeat Southern by 10 to 8.

Scores by Innings:
WAVY 01 010 0-3 5 0
Acey Ducey 000 000 0-0 3 1

HIGHLAND C. C. PRO TO SPEAK TO SPORTS CLUB
Cliff Williams, pro at the revolutionary new Highland Links Country Club, will tell about the new three fairway, six green, nine hole golf course that will open in June. This type course is something very new and different to this part of the country and the 16 holes can be played by a three-some in 35 minutes.

Barbara Anthony has the high set again this week with a 574. She's promising to make a 500 set. Now I have my heart set on it, so come Sue, it's this week or never, since this league finishes up this coming week.

Friday Night Mixed League
George Vina was high for the evening with a nice 586 set. George led his Mobile team by rolling 182-198-206, right behind him was his teammate Ed Schoon with a 574 set. Irene Neal was high for the ladies with a 476 set. Doris Mesimer had a 474, and Ruth Henke a 464. June Beck had the high game for the ladies with a 183.

In last week's action the Gutter Cutters surprised the Pin Punks with a three-point victory as Elsie Moore shot a 380 and Nancy Parkison 382 for the Cutters. Anne Faber 413 and Joan McKean 345 were the best for The Punks. Behind Charan Enroughty 370 the Bowlerettes took 3 from the Punks. Anne Faber was high again with 384. The Alley Cats were kept this week as they dropped 4 points to the Pimpals. Pat Mahoney led the charge with a nice 360. Kay Bazemore was best for one Cat. The other sheet was incomplete.

Our Gang Mixed
Shore Drive In Theatre eked out a 3-pt. victory over The Woodchoppers as Ed Outland had a nice 463 and was helped by Peggy Outland with 391. Dale Wheelock and 410 was tops for the Choppers. Behind a fine 170-441 by Jackie Recca the Jokers topped Duncan Gifford Realty in two games. Joan Robertson came through with 438 as well. Gifford's best was 443 by Ray Glavin.

Flamingo Restaurant was swamped again dropping all four pts. to Sunset Rest. Behind a sparkling 586 by Betty Willis and a 539 by Claude Dickens, Fran Lumpkin had a 480 for the Flamingo five. In the final match the Hot Shots rolled Auto Brake for four losses as Bob Hayes had a nice 488. Bob Smith and 415 was best for the auto gang.

OVER THE FENCE

By NELMA P. MATTHEWS
Bells were ringing late Saturday afternoon and there was joy in 23 Virginia Beach homes. The chosen few who made major league teams are:

The Cubs—Ted Bruce, Fred Jordan, Robs and Tracy, Stephen Thomas, Bobby Burxon, and Mark Bernheim.

The Tigers—Ken Miller, Matthew Terry, David Smyser, and Stanley Johnson.

The Rotarians—Whiz McNeil, Johnny Hemby, Randy Jones, Henry Richardson, Craig Stencil, and Chris Fanney.

The Sports—Gordon Sofield, Bobby Thomas, Greg Baker, David Hill, Gary Baker, Raymond McGrath, and Dickie Rapp.

Way to go, boys! Come Friday, May 26, the opening games will give you a chance to see just what you've got. Our wish for you—may you play well, but more than that, give the game your BEST!

To the 76 or so players who were not picked for the majors, we say, "Stick with the farm system." Bill Fanney has some good, workable plans for you to play organized ball. Bill Kuta, Bob Currie, and George Kerns will help Bill to organize four minor league teams with regularly scheduled games to be played on Saturdays throughout the season. These boys will have uniforms and certificates of achievement will be awarded at the end of year banquet. Also, from these teams replacements in the majors will come during the season. Our aples have told us of a couple of players who will be leaving, so you might be picked up.

The 12-year-olds who didn't make teams would be wise to continue playing with Mr. Fanney's boys. You'll not only be playing ball, but will be getting valuable experience for the future. Little League Baseball is experimenting this year in several sections of the country with a Senior Little League for boys 13, 14, and 15 years of age. If this experimentation is successful, we're certainly going to do our best to have a Senior League here on the Beach by next year. All we'll need will be land, money, and a lot of help from parents who love boys and baseball!

Speaking of parents... If you can't lick 'em, join 'em! That goes for transportation problems to practices and games, early, late, or no dinners and all the other grown-up gripes that accompany Little League. We've had our youth, give the kids a break and at the same time enjoy their development. The more we understand about any game or recreation, the better we like it. Come out, all the way out to the park with your son and have some fun for a change!

For those of you who are new to Little League, the American League plays two evenings a week for approximately nine weeks. Two games are played on Tuesday and Fridays, the first game at 5:30 p.m. and the second following at 7:30 p.m. This schedule won't be maintained until school is out, but we will have our opening games Friday, May 26. Some of us eat hot dogs from the concession stand, some eat before the games, some bring our own picnic supply. Take your choice! Two nights a week of this may sound bleak, but we wouldn't trade it for dinner at Antoine's!

On Feb. 22, 1900, President Theodore Roosevelt reviewed the Great White Fleet at Hampton Roads, Va., upon its return from a world cruise.

Golden Years Club To Picnic May 25

The Golden Years Club of Virginia Beach is planning an outing for the next meeting to be held Thursday, May 25.

The schedule calls for the members to gather at the First Presbyterian Church at 10 a.m. where transportation will be provided to take them to Knott's Island, and the cottage of the B. H. Murdena. The local Home demonstration Club will arrange an old-fashioned taffy pull.

At the last meeting on May 11 a picnic had been planned at the Azalea Gardens but rain caused the session to be moved indoors.

On April 2, 1927 the cornerstone of the first U.S. Naval Hospital was laid at Portsmouth, Va.

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

Mr. Harrison and Tourist Trade

Gubernatorial Candidate Albert S. Harrison, Jr. spoke out loud and clear the past Monday at Cape Charles in his view of the tourist industry in the State of Virginia. His remarks should be enthusiastically received by residents of this area.

Mr. Harrison was speaking to a Cape Charles audience at a 75th anniversary celebration in that city. He was warmly applauded as he outlined a five-point program he said he would follow if he is elected Governor of Virginia.

Mr. Harrison stated that "if we have confidence in our assets and our ability to develop them, there is no ceiling on the future of our Virginia Industry of Tourism." This is a very sound statement and we believe a fair appraisal of this industry.

Here are Mr. Harrison's five-points on the tourist industry:

1. Showing its importance to the state's over-all economy, and thereby marshalling public opinion in support of the Industry.

2. Recommending to the General Assembly of Virginia that the next budget of the Commonwealth includes a sum that is entirely adequate for the promotion of travel in Virginia; and that there be no diversion of the fund to other objectives.

3. Working with the industry to devise and to implement a good method (in addition to advertising) of informing every out-of-town traveler, at the Virginia state line, or prior to the start of his journey, of the attractions which Virginia has to offer.

4. Placing our state government on record as supporting the development of a strong Industry of Tourism—and encouraging, assisting and cooperating with the Travel industry in the efforts it makes in its own behalf.

5. Inviting Virginia's Commission on Constitutional Government to consider how its objectives might be furthered by a closer cooperation with the Industry of Tourism.

Poppy Day Saturday

"Wear a Poppy", an annual appeal from the American Legion Auxiliary, will be heard in Virginia Beach this coming Saturday, May 20th.

For more than 40 years Poppy Day has offered citizens of this country the opportunity to remember both the nation's war dead and its disabled veterans. The poppy became immortalized in a poem by a Canadian soldier, Lt. Col. John McCrae, entitled, "In Flanders Fields." Practically everyone is familiar with its opening lines: "In Flanders Fields the poppies blow between the crosses row on row."

The poppy as a memorial to our servicemen's sacrifices for the cause of freedom dates back to the years following the first World War. The American soldiers returning home in 1918 were familiar with the wild European poppies which bloomed on the battlefields of Europe.

All of the red crepe paper memorial flowers offered to the public each year by volunteer workers are made by veterans in hospitals and recuperation centers throughout the nation. Poppies offered to the public in this area are made at the Keoughan Hospital.

Since the years following World War I the flower has become symbolic of the sacrifices all American servicemen have made in the nation's defense. Wearing a poppy on Saturday, May 20th will be your opportunity to remember them.

Petunia Project Underway

Once again a wonderful project sponsored by the Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County designed to further beautify our area is underway. It is the annual "Project Petunia."

This is the third year that the Council has sponsored this fine project and each year the success of the project becomes a little more evident. The project first began with the Council urging hotels, motels, restaurants and other business places to plant red and white petunias along Atlantic avenue.

Last year, in addition to urging the Atlantic avenue planting it was suggested that more attention be given to the beautification of Pacific avenue. Some planting was started last year on this popular street and it is hoped that both Atlantic and Pacific avenues will find more planting of petunias this year.

Planting petunias is an excellent idea, we believe, since it is a flower that produces throughout the summer months and the red and white variety, as proposed by the Council of Garden Clubs, results in a colorful display that must be pleasing to the visitor as well as to the homeowners.

Each year as more places enter into the spirit of this very worthwhile project our city and area becomes more beautiful. We urge all businesses to seriously consider planting petunias this year around their buildings. There are many places yet to plant petunias. Let's all get behind "Project Petunia" this year.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

University of South Florida
Tampa, Fla.
May 13, 1961

Editor, Sun-News:
Received your papers today in fine shape. I wanted you to know I appreciate your sending them. I know in not too many years my children will enjoy reading about Cndr. Shepard in the Virginia Beach Sun-News as I have.

Editor, Sun-News:
Just a line to thank you again for sending me The Virginia Beach Sun-News. The issue of May 11th was particularly interesting. "Countdown Log of Shepard's Space Flight" makes me reading. I've read it for the third time to day and get the same feeling of being there and suspense that held me on first reading.

Mighty glad you three gentlemen were able to attend this historic event.

Respectfully,
CHARLIE O. HAINES,
Director of Public Works
Norfolk.

Tables Turned On 'Witness' in Aragona Theft

An Accredile man who reported that he saw a man fleeing with a bank deposit bag from a former employer's store was himself arrested Monday and charged with grand larceny by Princess Anne County police.

Howard Sanford, 47, of the 406 Block Burlington Road was held after a day-long investigation for stealing $1,322.14 in cash and checks from the Bourne and Son Hardware firm in Aragona Village.

Police quoted Russell A. Bourne, owner of the business, as saying that Sanford came through the rear door and reported seeing a man ransacking a desk in the office and making off with the bag in hand. Sanford said he chased the man but that he escaped with another man in an automobile.

Sanford, a brush salesman, once worked for Bourne. Police recovered the cash, which amounted to $400, and are looking for the checks.

Trial date is set for Monday.

Busy Sergeant Has Shepard's Phone Number

Two telephones in the Virginia Beach area that have been ringing quite steadily in the past few days belong to Commander Alan B. Shepard and Sergeant Billy J. Moore.

Sgt. Moore, who is assigned to the officer's club, don't associate with any way with the famous astronaut, or a flight into space. His only claim to fame is that his telephone number previously belonged to Commander Shepard and is listed under the astronaut's name in the phone book.

The Sergeant's phone will probably ring a great deal until June, when the new Telephone Directory will be published.

Patricia Johnson Funeral Service At Oceana Chapel

Miss Patricia Anne Johnson, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Johnson, was buried Saturday in Rosewood Memorial Park, Bay side, after funeral services in the Chapel of the Good Shepherd at Oceana Naval Air Station.

A lifelong resident of Oceana, she was a past honor queen of the International Order of Job's Daughters, Bethel 17, Va. Beach. She also was a member of Long Bridge Baptist Church, Alpha Iota Sorority. She graduated from Princess Anne High School in 1938 and attended Norfolk College.

Miss Johnson was engaged to Lt. Gerry Lyle Stark, USN, of Seattle, Wash., and was to have been married June 17.

Besides her parents, surviving are her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Bertha Moore Sperry of London, and her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Ella Land Johnson of Oceana.

President's Proclamation

WHEREAS the survival of our cherished freedoms is dependent in large measure upon the capabilities of our Armed Forces to discourage totalitarian aggression; and

WHEREAS the Armed Forces of the United States serve as a unified team, at home and across the seas, in the pursuit of a durable peace; and

WHEREAS the strength of our Armed Forces rests not alone upon their active and reserve members, our industrial productivity, and our human resources, but also upon the understanding and support of an informed American people; and

WHEREAS we seek to acknowledge and to manifest our appreciation for the dedication and self-sacrifice of the members of our Armed Forces and their families;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, JOHN F. KENNEDY, President of the United States of America and Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces of the United States, do hereby proclaim the third Saturday of May 1961 and the third Saturday of May in each succeeding year as Armed Forces Day.

I direct the Secretary of Defense on behalf of the Army, the Navy, the Air Force, and the Marine Corps, and the Secretary of the Treasury on behalf of the Coast Guard, to designate that day each year for appropriate ceremonies, demonstrations, and displays both at Armed Forces installations and in civilian communities at the invitation of civil authorities. The Secretary of Defense, as my personal representative, shall assume responsibility for initiating, formulating, and supervising the program contemplated by this proclamation and for soliciting the participation and cooperation in such program by civil authorities and distinguished private citizens.

I invite the Governors of the States, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and other areas subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, and the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to provide for the observance of Armed Forces Day within their jurisdictions each year in an appropriate manner designed to enhance public understanding and appreciation of the Armed Forces of the United States as defenders of freedom at home and abroad.

I also ask my fellow Americans, as an expression of support for their armed forces and as a symbol of their unity in devotion to the preservation of our country, to display prominently the flag of the United States on Armed Forces Day.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington this eighteenth day of March in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and sixty-one, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and eighty-fifth.

JOHN F. KENNEDY
President of the United States

Jaycees Name New President

George Darden will be installed as president of the Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce at a banquet June 2 at the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club.

Darden, 28-year-old attorney of the 300 block of 48th Street, North Virginia Beach, succeeds Gene A. Joyner, as president of the local group.

Other officers recently elected were:

Bob Evans and Sunny Forbes, vice presidents; Richard Evans, secretary; Warren Haynie, treasurer; and Dave Jackson, William Gaspar and Leslie Beisha, directors. Dale Beasley has been nominated as state director.

Hospital Group Hears Address On Medical Aid

The Tidewater Hospitals Council met at the Alan Shepard Center Monday with Miss Harriet Ault, president, presiding.

The Council is composed of hospital administrators in the Tidewater area.

The group was greeted by the city manager, W. Russell Hatchett, and the Virginia Department of Welfare and Institutions discussed the State program of medical assistance to the aged and medically indigent in effect at present in our state.

The hospital administrators are vitally concerned with the public assistance program and implementation of the Kerr-Willis Act passed by Congress in the last session.

Other major concerns to the members are improved public relations, methods-improvement, in-service training programs and hospital-blue cross partnership participation.

Old Coast Artillery Station Specializes In Newer Warfare

ate command of the U.S. Army Transportation Training Command, Fort Eustis, Virginia. It is situated at the tip of Cape Henry, 18 miles east of Norfolk and 8 miles north of Virginia Beach. It covers 1,304 acres, an area fronting on 31 miles of beach. This makes it ideal for amphibious training.

The post was named for Maj. Gen. John P. Pope, Chief of the Artillery School at Fort Monroe for many years, who contributed to many developments in range-finding equipment and in the science of gunnery.

Col. Pope

The reservation was acquired by the U.S. Government in 1914 and was established in February 1917 as a Coast Artillery fort guarding the southern entrance to Chesapeake Bay.

For this mission Fort Story boasted the heaviest armament of any Atlantic coast fort. Its 16" rifles and howitzers, plus three batteries of 6" guns, all have been dismantled today. However, because of its strategic location it continues to maintain its status as an important link in our anti-aircraft defense network.

Toward the close of World War II, Fort Story was the site of a convalescent hospital opened in September 1944. It accommodated over 13,000 patients up to the time of its closing in March 1946.

The same year marked the arrival of the first DUKW company on the post, although Fort Story did not officially become a Transportation Corps installation until July 1948. Since that time, it has trained amphibious truck units, Terminal Service Battalions, Terminal Services Companies and BARC Platoons for service in Europe, the Far East, and the Arctic. It is presently the home of the 4th Transportation Terminal Command.

The giant 64-ton BARC, developed by the Transportation Research and Development Command, underwent extensive land and water tests at Fort Story with its four experimental models before joining the small but sturdy DUKW as a land and water carrier proven in performance. During June, July, August, and September 1968 the BARC again proved itself in a resupply operation at Thule, Greenland.

In addition to AAA Units, non-TC activities at Fort Story include the U.S. Navy's Harbor Entrance Control Base, a U.S. Government weather station, and the lofty Cape Henry Light which is operated by the U.S. Treasury Department.

Historically, the reservation is rich in interest, for the rolling grassy dunes, close by the present Post Exchange, mark the site of the first landing of the Jamestown settlers on April 26, 1607, after a storm-tossed voyage from England in three small ships. The Cape Henry Memorial, a handsome granite cross erected by the Daughters of the American Colonists in 1905, is one of Fort Story's landmarks.

A second is the old Cape Henry Light, dating from 1791, the first lighthouse to be built by the U.S. Government. Now owned by the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, it took a severe beating from Hurricane "Barbara" in August 1933 and lost its copper canopy which has since been replaced.

Across from the older beacon, the Cape Henry Light, dating from 1881, is an all-bronze structure 165 feet high from its base to the focal plane of its lens. It has a beacon visible at 10 miles and is audible at 15 miles—and, in thick weather, more than merely audible at Fort Story.

Each spring thousands of visitors to the Tidewater area flock to the post for two ceremonies held at the Cape Henry Pig Parade when notable public figures pay tribute to the fortitude of the first permanent English settlers. From these and other events the year-round, it will be seen that Fort Story plays a vital role in the cultural life of the civilian community. It also is an important factor in the economic health of Virginia Beach, best known as a summer resort. Fort Story soldiers are popular with local residents because they observe the traditions of courtesy and good neighborliness that have marked relations between the city and the post for decades.

Finest Interceptors Groom for Carrier Service With Fleet

NAS Oceana, one of two Master Jet Bases on the East Coast, is the home for over 200 aircraft which operate at sea from carriers. Here, the Navy's fighter and attack planes are maintained in a state of readiness.

Oceana's initial construction was completed prior to the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, and during World War II, operating under the title Auxiliary Air Station. Oceana was used to train a large number of pilots who flew to achieve U.S. victory during this vital period.

At the end of the war the introduction of high-speed jet aircraft into the Naval Air Arm necessitated Oceana's rapid development and expansion. In 1950 funds were appropriated to convert the Auxiliary Field at Oceana into a Master Jet Base.

By April 1962, construction had reached the point that Oceana's classification should be changed to a Naval Air Station. The arrival of supersonic aircraft, had made longer runways and additional facilities necessary. NAS Oceana now has four modern runways, one 12,000 feet long and three 8,000 feet. These runways permit simultaneous take-off and landings.

To date approximately 75 million dollars have been invested in facilities for NAS Oceana, which is comprised of 5,900 acres with an outside perimeter of about 30 miles.

Naval Air Station Oceana's primary mission is to support the Fleet Squadrons which are based here. The personnel attached to the Station are the housekeeping staff and provide the Fleet Squadrons with the maintenance and supply backup that allows the squadrons to operate more effectively. NAS Oceana provides an efficient system for landing aircraft under all weather conditions; hanger and office spaces, barracks, mess halls, recreational facilities, and maintenance services and facilities. With the Air Station in support, the squadrons are free to devote the maximum amount of time to war, the training required of a battle-ready air group.

Many Are Trained In Missile School For Coast Defense

FLTAAWTRACEN is a modern development of the Anti Aircraft Training and Test Center that was established at Dam Neck in November, 1941.

Facilities at the range were quite limited during the early years but the demand for this type of training provided the necessary impetus and today an up-to-date gun line with guns from 40 millimeter to 5"/54 caliber plus associated gunfire control systems graduate a continuous stream of qualified crews.

Capt. Green

Between the years 1947 and 1949 radar training was initiated into the center's program on a very modest scale. Today there is an Operations Building with synthetic radar target generators, fire control and CIC mock-ups, Air Control Center and various shipboard radars for use in training both anti-air warfare teams and individuals.

The Guided Missiles School is operated by the Bureau of Naval Personnel, which has its own classrooms, office spaces, missile laboratories and hangers.

Target Plane Activity, a detachment of Utility Squadron Six, operates target drones for gunnery firing and for training of drone controllers.

The Rifle and Pistol Range is supervised and staffed by Marine instructors from the Marine Barracks of the Norfolk Naval Base.

Missile Weapons Systems Training Unit (MWSTU), mobile training units during periods of pre-commissioning, underway training and indoctrination in newly installed missile systems.

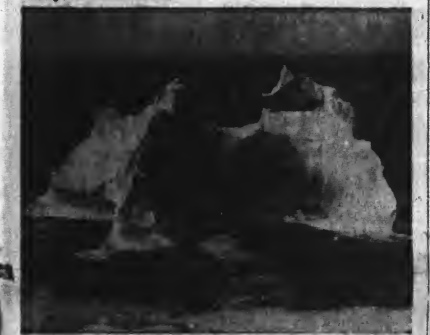

FLTAAWTRACEN will be the home of the U. S. Fleet Computer Programming Center when commissioned next year.

Cancer Drive Nets Total of $12,028.94

Collections and pledges totaling $12,028.94 were announced Wednesday in the 1961 Princess Anne County Unit, American Cancer Society, drive for $17,000.

This year's budget is $2,000 more than last year's and Unit President William H. Phillips pointed out that the figure he released does not include almost $3,000 expected from the armed services units in the area.

Phillips was high in his praise of the Residential Crusade results. Scores of women, under the chairmanship of Mrs. James H. Midgett, collected well over $7,000 in a house-to-house canvass which brought returns much in excess of the sum brought in during the 1960 campaign.

The unit leader said he was disappointed that the special gifts division was still about $1,500 short of its $6,000 goal but said that solicitors in this bracket had by no means completed their assignment.

Commenting on the fact that the goal of $16,000, announced prior to the campaign, had been raised to $17,000 at the last minute at the request of the Virginia parent society, Phillips said that this, coupled with the uncertain economic conditions prevailing up to a few weeks ago, had put an additional strain on the chances for an over-the-top success.

"It's a little tougher this year," Phillips said, "but we are confident that when all the returns are counted Princess Anne County will again have upheld its reputation for generous support of worthy causes. We're so close now that a little extra push will put us out in front."

450 Elementary School Athletes Compete Today at Cox Stadium

The cream of the crop of Princess Anne County elementary school athletes—450 strong, both boys and girls—will gather with their rooters this morning at 10 o'clock in Cox Stadium for their annual physical fitness meet.

Representing the 4th through 7th grades of 13 county schools, the kids and ladies have had their physical education programs aimed at this Little Olympiad since classes began last September.

Under direction of Harold S. Whitehurst, physical education coordinator for the Princess Anne school system, youngsters will be competing for physical fitness shields.

Award Is Won By Fuel, Feed

Fuel, Feed and Bldg. Supply Corp. of 19th St. and Pacific ave., has won the "Mr. Hardware of 1961" Award for outstanding service and good will toward the community.

The award, presented by the Bunting System of North Chicago, Ill., nationwide sales promotion specialists, is based on fair trade, community spirit, sound business relations and effective advertising.

The hardware dealer competed with 35,000 throughout the nation, with only 115 awards being made this year.

The Bunting System has been a pioneer in the publishing and advertising field for the hardware trade and has contributed wholesomely to the theory and practice of "dealer-customer" advertising good will.

Importing Shop To Open Today

An entirely new conception of merchandising for this area goes into operation today with the opening at Norfolk Avenue and Cypress Street of Capt. Jim's Imports, a division of J. P. Sadler Enterprises.

Located in a corner of the building just taken over by the hardware and supply house bearing the owner's name, Capt. Jim's Imports will handle no domestic products and has ready for today's opening ceremonies articles from 36 countries.

To be operated by Mrs. (Susan) Sadler, with the help of Mrs. Ernest K. H. Ing, the shop will feature unusual and exotic foreign handicraft, jewelry and fashions from "the four corners of the world."

The formal opening festivities will continue Friday and Saturday.

George Darden To Be Installed By Jaycee Unit

George Darden will be installed as president of the Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce at a banquet June 2 at the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club.

Darden, 32-year-old attorney of the 300 block of 49th Street, North Virginia Beach, succeeds Gene A. Joyner, as president of the local group.

Other officers recently elected were:

Bob Evans and Sonny Forbes, vice presidents; Richard Evans, secretary; Warren Haynie, treasurer and Dave Jackson, William Gaspar and Leslie Belsha, directors. Dale Beasley has been nominated as state director.

The president-elect and his wife, Gail, have two children, Mary Gail, 3, and Paul 1 1/2. A member of the Virginia Beach Exchange Club, Darden is also secretary of the local Toastmaster's Club and is one of the discussion leaders in the Virginia Beach Great Books Club.

A graduate of Princeton University with a major in architecture, Darden was also graduated from the University of Virginia School of Law.

Darden served last year as a Jaycee director, legal advisor and parliamentarian, as well as chairman of the First Citizen committee, Virginia Beach Hospital committee and Jaycee State Junior Tennis Tournament committee.

He is a member of the Princess Anne-Virginia Beach Bar Association, the Virginia Bar Association, and the American Bar Association.

Interested in flying and golf, his first contact with the Jaycees was in 1946 when he was entered in the Jaycee-sponsored State Junior Golf Tournament in Richmond.

Suffolk District Highway Tour Listed May 23 Over 200 Miles in Tidewater

Picture Is Reminder of Highway Week

The biggest road building program in state history will be spotlighted in the next two weeks as the State Highway Department displays some of its new construction and proposed project sites.

The special Highway Week tours get underway for radio and television this week in the Salem, Suffolk, Richmond and northern Virginia areas. Other inspection tours are being planned during Highway Week (May 21-27) in the Fredericksburg, Bristol, Lynchburg and Staunton Districts.

Governor J. Lindsay Almond, Jr., became the first governor in the country to set aside a state Highway Week observance. President Kennedy has proclaimed National Highway Week and in so doing has asked that all Americans be "encouraged to judge the value of highway transportation to their own activities and to our National welfare."

Plea to Public
Highway Commissioner H. H. Harris said it is hoped the tours and other programs in the local communities will further "public understanding of the scope and problems encountered in our expanding highway improvement program."

The commissioner noted that a new tabulation shows the Department now has more than 150 million dollars in construction work underway.

The work is broken down as follows: Interstate, $106,187,691; primary $25,003,598; urban, $8,324,000 and secondary, $9,300,588.

For the districts the construction work was divided as follows: Bristol, $23,817,588; Salem, $15,464,139; Lynchburg, $7,317,530; Richmond, $21,602,832; Suffolk, $7,862,205; Fredericksburg, $6,330,800; Culpeper, $62,600,987 and Staunton, $4,399,800.

Tour by Bus
The tours, to be conducted by bus from the various district headquarters, will be the highlight of two weeks of activity being planned by the Department and the road building industry. A number of other tours on the residency office level for the benefit of the press and boards of supervisors are planned during the same period.

The two-week activity will be climaxed by the public hearings for 1961-62 highway fund allocation hearings at Roanoke May 25 and at Richmond May 26, and a Highway Week luncheon in Richmond May 26. Ellis Armstrong, Commissioner of Public Roads in the Eisenhower administration, will address the luncheon, at which members of the Virginia Highway Commission will be invited as special guests.

their staff, officials of the Virginia Road Builders Association and contractors' representatives will either direct the tour or be available at tour points to guide newsmen at the project and to conduct briefings.

Some 200 miles of Tidewater highway will be traveled in a Suffolk District tour on Tuesday. Completed interstate roads and mileage under construction will be inspected.

Teen-age Job Rulings Issued By Labor Unit

Regional Director Pat Melon of the U.S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions today reminded employers, teen-agers and their parents that the Fair Labor Standards Act restricts certain jobs for youngsters under 18.

"With the increase in the country's teen-age population," he said, "more youngsters than ever before will be competing for summer-time employment in a tight job market. It is important that they understand the provisions of the Federal child-labor law."

The Act sets a 16-year minimum age for general employment and an 18-year minimum for jobs which have been declared hazardous by the Secretary of Labor. It applies to employment in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce. Melon said that the best way for employers to protect themselves against unintentionally hiring an underage child is to require an age certificate showing that the young worker is old enough for the job. It will serve as proof of age for purposes of the law. "Each State also has its own child-labor laws," Melon added, "and if the State and Federal laws differ, the higher standards should prevail."

What's your telephone worth as a family time-saver?

How about your family—are there any clock-watches in it? Chances are that you all cut corners, saving whatever time you can from one task to give to another—or just to enjoy in recreation.

Among the many time-savers in your household, you probably find your telephone the greatest help of all. So great you couldn't possibly put a price tag on it! For the calls you make to save shopping trips, your husband's calls about business, even your children's calls to check on school homework add up to hours of extra time for other purposes.

Yet no matter how many time-saving phone calls you make, there's never an extra charge for this local service.

So depend on your phone more often. Each time you dial a number, remember... you're buying time at a bargain!

Brownie Troop Studies Civics

Brownie Troop 438 in Virginia Beach has completed a six-week study of civic and community functions. During the course of study they visited the Village Pastery Shop at Aragona Village; The Bayville Dairy Farms, Inc., at Bayville; the telephone switchboard office at Little Creek Amphibious Base; and the Fire Station at Virginia Beach.

In observance of National Hospital week they toured the Virginia Beach Hospital. In conclusion they visited the WTAR-TV studio and appeared on the "Bozo, the Clown" show.

On May 13th members entertained their mothers at a Mother's Day Tea. They presented the skit "Gifts with a Gimmick" and gave each mother a pair of ear rings, which they made at a previous meeting and a corsage.

Refreshments were served at a tea at the residence of Mrs. D. R. Greenwald, troop leader. Mrs. Paul Wheeland, co-leader, and Mrs. Pete Zorich and Mrs. Ralph Dempsey, committee members, assisted. Mrs. M. F. Duckworth, neighborhood chairman, was a special guest.

On April 6, 1960 Commander Robert W. Peary honored the Stars and Stripes at the North Pole and took possession of the region in the name of the President of the United States.

Colonial Brand Names Award Winner

Officers Feted By Chesapeake Garden Group

The Oceana Officer's Club was the setting for the Chesapeake Colony Garden Club's luncheon May 11. Twenty-five members and four guests were present to say farewell to the retiring president, Mrs. H. T. Denyes, and her officers and to greet Mrs. R. M. Whitfield, president-elect and her officers for the 1961-62 year.

During the luncheon, Mrs. H. M. McNeill, exhibit chairman, presented the awards for the year. Arrangements, 1st place—Mrs. F. C. B. McCune; 2nd—Mrs. R. L. Jones; 3rd—Mrs. H. T. Denyes. Horticulture, 1st place—Mrs. A. Laramie; 2nd—Mrs. R. M. Whitfield; 3rd—Mrs. Thelma Braum. Program Chairman Mrs. L. W. Hay presented Mrs. H. T. Denyes a gift for a job well done.

Miss Melinda Harger and Miss Patti Cox from the Chesapeake Colony Junior Garden Club were guests and gave a report of their work for the year. They were presented an award for first place in their club.

Mrs. John Field of the Birdneck Point Garden Club installed the following officers:

Mrs. R. M. Whitfield, president; Mrs. C. B. Dowe, first vice president; Mrs. J. D. Hurt, second vice president; Mrs. E. F. Hansen, corresponding secretary; Mrs. F. D. Michael, recording secretary; Mrs. C. L. Meyer, treasurer; Mrs. H. C. Brown, parliamentarian; and Mrs. L. W. Hay, Chaplain.

Merchants Association Names Welton One of Six Top Retailers

Six retailers have been selected to receive recognition awards for their achievements as part of the "Retailer of the Year" award program, the Virginia Retail Merchants Association, sponsor of the award, announced. The "Retailer of the Year" will be named from one of the six.

Receiving the awards at the state association's 50th annual convention May 21 at Roanoke will be Robert L. Lynn, of S. H. Heirichs Co., Roanoke; Miss Carolyn Nettleton of C. B. Nettleton, Inc., Covington; A. Glenn Pless of Pless Electric and Furniture Co., Galax; Alfred C. Thompson of Miller & Rhoads, Inc., Richmond; Richard F. Welton, III, of Smith and Welton, Inc., Virginia Beach and Norfolk; and James R. Wilkins of ShoeCenter, Inc., Winchester.

M. W. Armistead, III, publisher of Roanoke Newspapers, Inc., will conduct the award ceremonies and announce the "Retailer of the Year" from among the six. The winner will receive the "Retailer's Bowl," a massive Reverse bowl, and a miniature for permanent retention.

The six retailers were chosen from over 40 nominees submitted by civic and business organizations, retailers, wholesalers, and chambers of commerce.

The state's outstanding retailer is judged on leadership in his community and industry, his development of and preserving good industry-wide relations, his accomplishments in raising the standards of retailing and his merchandising methods. The award is "symbolic of the highest qualifications and ideals in the retail industry of Virginia," the state retail association said.

Selections were made by a five-man board of judges composed of Clem D. Johnston, industrialist-farmer and president of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. J. York Welborn, president of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs; William J. Missett, president of the Virginia Press Association and publisher of the Suffolk News-Herald; Robert C. Walker, president of the Virginia Association of Broadcasters and executive vice-president and general manager of Charlottesville radio station WCHV, and Robert C. De Rossett, president of the Virginia Bankers Association and chairman of the board for Lynchburg's First National Bank and Trust Company.

An organizer of Norfolk's Better Business Bureau, Welton has served on the Governor's Advisory Council for the study of state revenues. He is a director of Norfolk Academy, past president of the Norfolk Retail Merchants Association and director of the city's chamber of commerce. He is also a past president of the Downtown Norfolk Association and led the United Community Fund campaign for his area. He is president of Smith & Welton.

On Feb. 27, 1964, the first steam catapult ever installed on a Navy ship was tested aboard the aircraft carrier USS Hancock at the Puget Sound Naval Shipyard, Bremerton, Wash.

On March 17, 1880 the USS Constellation left New York with a cargo of food for famine sufferers in Ireland.

Machines 'Talk' On Data-Phone Service System

It may not seem possible that within the next decade the amount of communication between electronic business machines in different cities will be as large as telephone communications between people.

The new telephone service for this electronic business machine era is called Data-Phone. This service enables many types of machines, including punch card and tape equipment, to "talk" to each other over regular telephone lines.

Where plants, warehouses, branches or offices are located in different cities and states, there is increasing need for a quick, economical way to transmit payroll, inventory, billing and other data from place to place.

In serving this communication need, the Bell System has come up with this new and extremely flexible Data-Phone service.

At the present time, there are seven business firms in Virginia using Data-Phone, some connected on a nationwide basis while others are on a local basis.

According to L. S. Patrick, Manager of the local C&P office, the great advantage of Data-Phone is that business data goes the same telephone lines that are used for telephone conversation.

The Data-Phone sets link customer's business machines—handling paper tape, magnetic tape, or punch cards—to regulate telephone lines at speeds up to 1600 words a minute.

Patrick said that customers are charged according to the time of call at the same rate as charged for a voice conversation.

Machines "talking" or even "writing" to each other is growing rapidly. It is expected by the end of this year, that Data-Phone installations throughout the country will be close to 10,000. By 1965, the Bell System estimates up to 200,000 Data-Phone sets will be aiding business customers.

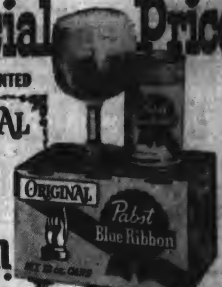

"Data-Phone services, because of use of regular phone facilities, offer the possibility of greatly expanding the entire field of data processing," said Patrick. "It will bring about drastic reductions in the mountainous array of paper work now plaguing business."

The first salute to the Stars and Stripes by a foreign power was rendered on Feb. 14, 1778, by the French Fleet when the USS Ranger commanded by John Paul Jones anchored at Brest, France. The Marines under Captain Matthew Parke rendered honors during the ceremony.

The MIXING BOWL...

IT'S Fun TO COOK

It's Strawberry Time

Here's a new version of Strawberry Shortcake that is both delectable and different! It's a fine way to use left-over cake, too. Sliced berries are folded into whipped strawberry chiffon mix, and molded in a tube pan with pieces of sponge cake until the pan is filled. When chilled, turn out and decorate.

Chiffon Strawberry Shortcake is a real party dessert—an easy and inexpensive way to please those who love strawberries.

Chiffon Strawberry Shortcake

1 pint washed, hulled, fresh strawberries
1 tablespoon sugar
1 package strawberry chiffon pie filling mix
Set aside 10 or 12 whole strawberries for garnish. Cut remaining strawberries in thick slices. Sprinkle with sugar.
Prepare filling as directed on package—takes about 4 minutes. Fold in sliced strawberries. Spoon a third of the mixture into a 9-inch tube pan. Cover with one-half the sponge cake pieces. Repeat layers, using another third of the filling and remaining cake pieces. Cover with remaining filling. Chill until set—about 2 or 3 hours. Loosen cake from sides of pan with knife or spatula and unmold. Garnish with whipped cream and remaining strawberries, cut in half. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Enjoy delicious fresh strawberries often while they are in season. This delightful whipped dessert stars fresh strawberries and cream in whipped strawberry-flavored gelatin. It's easy to prepare and attractive as well.

Strawberry Tulp Dessert

1 package strawberry-flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 cup cold water
1/2 cup sugar
Dissolve strawberry-flavored gelatin in hot water. Add cold water. Chill until slightly thickened. Combine strawberries and sugar and let stand 10 minutes.
Place slightly thickened gelatin in bowl of ice and water and whip with egg beater until fluffy and thick. Fold in strawberries, marshmallows, and whipped cream. Spoon into loaf pan. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve in slices. Makes 12 servings.
To garnish: Whip 1/2 cup cream. Spoon over top of loaf, making two rows of small puffs. Top each puff with a strawberry slice. Split 4 marshmallows to make 8 circular halves. Using small sharp knife, cut each marshmallow half into the shape of a tulip. Mount four "tulips" on each side of loaf at base, and garnish with mint leaves.

Everyone loves the extra bonus of homemade strawberry jam and strawberry jelly served at meal-time. Basic, easy-to-follow recipes for sweet spreads such as these are available in a package of powdered fruit pectin. And for a different variation on the strawberry jelly theme, this minted version is sure to please.

Minted Strawberry Jelly

Yield: about 8 medium glasses (4 lbs. jelly)
3 1/2 cups juice (about 2 1/2 qts. ripe strawberries)
5 cups (2 1/2 lbs) sugar
First, prepare the juice. Crush thoroughly about 2 1/2 quarts ripe strawberries. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Measure 3 1/2 cups into a very large saucepan.
Then make the jelly. Measure sugar and set aside. Add powdered fruit pectin to juice in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 4 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add spearmint extract. Skim off foam with metal spoon, and pour quickly into glasses. Cover jelly at once with 1-inch hot paraffin.

Linkhorn Park P-TA Sponsors Gala Saturday

The festive spirit of Saturday's Armed Forces Day Parade will prevail throughout the afternoon with a carnival at Linkhorn Park School scheduled to get underway immediately following the downtown activities.

Sponsored by the P-TA, the gala affair will be open from noon to 8 p.m.

Rides for the kiddies will include pony and jeep rides and three midway amusements. The booths, under the direction of room mothers from each grade, will include dart games, fishing pond, penny pitch, battle throw, matching cards, balloon game and bowling.

There will also be refreshment stands, a country store and bake sale. Free acts will be presented periodically during the afternoon. Hall Spellings and Mrs. Charles Gilliam are co-chairmen of the event and Mrs. C. Edgar Kootz is in charge of the rides.

Kings Grant P-TA To Hear Choruses

The Kings Grant 6th and 7th Grade Choruses will present their spring music program for the P-TA on Tuesday evening, May 23, at 8:00 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

The program, consisting of music to be sung at the singing bee which will be held later at Princess Anne High School, will include the following selections: "The Orchestra Song," "Do-Re-Mi," from the Sound of Music, "The Synagogue Clock," by Leroy Anderson, "America the Beautiful" with a descant sung by Vicki Dey, Kathy Strange, Patsy Huerfano, and Sharon Grey, and "O Lord Most Holy," by Frank.

Prior to the music program, Mrs. Harvey Williams, president of the P-TA, will conduct the final business meeting of the school year. Refreshments will be served following the program.

The attack aircraft carrier USS Franklin D. Roosevelt has three steam catapults which permit it to launch six planes each minute.

Meeting Is Held By Chesapeake Woman's Club

The Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach held their regular monthly meeting, Tuesday, May 9, at the Christian Church in Bay-side.

Mrs. D. C. Claypool presented the report of the revisions committee, and the changes were accepted by the membership.

Mrs. Thomas B. Petty brought a report to the club on the activities and accomplishments of the State Convention of Federated Women's Club, to which Mrs. Petty and Mrs. Frederick Rieder, club president, were delegates from the Chesapeake Club.

Mrs. Harry W. Fulford gave an informative insight on the accomplishment for the past year. "Not only," said Mrs. Fulford, "has the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach remained faithful to commitments begun many years ago such as constant sponsoring of the Red Cross Bloodmobile program, the polo campaign and United Fund Drive, but they have added a new project this year."

The club has established a scholarship fund for a Bay-side student which will be awarded this year. The winning student may apply throughout her college career for this scholarship, and will receive it provided her grades merit it. Mrs. Fulford reported that six students had applied for the grant.

Following the business meeting, the club members enjoyed a "crazy hat" show, featuring all the new members of the club and several others. Mrs. Colon Powers was commentator and first prize was awarded to Mrs. D. C. Claypool. A slide program was shown the club members by Kathryn Sever on the "Natural Beauty of Seashore State Park."

A tea followed the program with Mrs. J. W. Grandy, IH, and Mrs. Ernest S. Moorer in charge.

Teacher Learns a Lesson

Fussy Goodwin may hold a half-dozen important positions around town—chairman of the school board included—but he's still the same modest fellow that I grew up with.

At the last PTA meeting, Fussy made a point of getting together with some new teachers. One of them, a lady with some strong ideas about education claimed that none of the others had gone to the right college—here.

"Well, Miss, that isn't so bad," Fussy told her. "One of our board members didn't even go to high school, let alone college. "Not who?" she said. "Me," he said.

From where I sit, some of us want people to be carbon copies of ourselves. But that just isn't the American way. Our heritage of freedom implies the right to be different, even in little things—like your choice of tea or coffee and my preference of a glass of beer. I say "be yourself" and no "studying up" to be like each other.

Needlework Guild of America Renews Virginia Beach Branch

The Virginia Beach branch of the Needlework Guild of America has been reactivated with Mrs. Willard Ashburn as president, Mrs. William J. Vaughan, vice president for juniors, Mrs. J. E. Pilley, Jr., recording secretary, Mrs. R. Grant Thomas, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Helen Grandy, treasurer.

Members of the board of directors, in addition to the officers, are Mrs. Louise Skinner, Mrs. T. W. Thompson, Mrs. J. D. Stauffer, Mrs. Fleiding Jeter and Mrs. L. W. Meachum.

Mrs. V. H. Nussbaum of Norfolk, Virginia state chairman of extension, and Mrs. E. B. Smith, extension co-chairman and chairman of the Norfolk Junior Needlework Guild, handled the negotiations which led to renewal of the work here.

Mrs. Nussbaum pointed out that the Needlework Guild, one of the oldest, charitable organizations in the nation, is a "charity which gives to other charitable agencies."

Founded in 1885 as an offshoot of the parent British Guild, headed always by that nation's reigning lady, the United States organization celebrated its 75th birthday last week with a convention at Valley Forge, Pa., which Mrs. Nussbaum estimated was attended by some 700 representatives of the more than 400 branches located in cities from coast to coast.

Membership is based solely on the gift of at least two new articles of clothing or linen a year.

The Needlework Guild collects these articles from members and distributes them to such organizations as the Red Cross, school nursing corps, the anti-tuberculosis group and the like.

In spite of its widespread appeal and thousands of members, volunteer officials are proud of the fact that the national organization has only three paid staff workers.

Letters must be limited to 100 words. Address all entries to: Contest, Sandpiper Playhouse, Box 923, Virginia Beach, Va.

The contest will close Wednesday of each week and the winner will be announced the following week. The contest will close June 23 and you may submit as many entries as you wish.

The best letter from the five winners will also receive a pair of tickets to the grand premier of the Sandpiper Playhouse to be held June 30.

Letters must be limited to 100 words. Address all entries to: Contest, Sandpiper Playhouse, Box 923, Virginia Beach, Va.

Mrs. Watson Hostess for Garden Club

The May meeting of the Cape Henry-by-the-Sea Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. Joe Watson, at White Duck, Bayside, on Thursday, May 11, at 11:30 a.m. with members serving as hostesses with Mrs. Watson.

The meeting was opened with the club's prayer, by Mrs. Watson.

The members voted to send Mrs. Delmar J. Dee, Sr., president, as a delegate to the convention at the John Marshall Hotel, Richmond, May 22, 23 and 24 of the Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs.

The members also voted to give to Mrs. Dee a Life Membership in the Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs.

Mrs. Watson, 2nd vice president and ways and means chairman, outlined the panay project for October. She instructed all members to start taking orders for panies to be delivered in October.

It was voted that the proceeds from the sale of panies be used to buy more garden tools for the patients at Eastern State Hospital, Williamsburg and to send two children to Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs Nature Camp.

After the business meeting, a delicious luncheon was served by the members.

Guests present were Mrs. Frank C. Tonkin, Tidewater president of Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs, Mrs. Rosalyn J. Whitely, Mrs. Gustav Schneider and Mrs. Jerry J. Bunch.

After the luncheon, a tour of Mrs. Watson's gardens was enjoyed by all.

100 Years Ago This Week...in THE CIVIL WAR

(Events exactly 100 years ago this week in the Civil War—told in the language and style of today.)

Devastation

NORFOLK, Va.—May 21—Damage to the Union Navy yard here, destroyed by Union defenders April 20 in the face of a Confederate onslaught, has been officially estimated at $30,000,000. Shown above is today's scene of the once-mighty, once-Union facility.

Johnston Takes Over At Harpers Ferry

HARPERS FERRY, Va.—May 23—Brig. Gen. Joseph E. Johnston today assumed command of the 8,000 Confederate troops here.

He relieved Col. Thomas J. Jackson and immediately assigned Jackson to command of all troops on the scene from Virginia.

Jackson arrived here recently to shape up units that assembled after the South's victory a month ago in capturing the Union arsenal at Harpers Ferry.

Jackson, a native of Clarksville, Va., was graduated from West Point in 1829 as Joseph Eggleston Johnston—and served with the Union army for eight years before resigning to become a civil engineer.

He rejoined the army to fight in the Mexican war, and only a year ago held the key post of quartermaster general in the Union force.

STORM of LIFE

"If only I could get out from under, get away from it all, find some island of peace..."

Like everybody else, we want to escape our problems and pressures. We are seeking calm away from the storm of life.

But we can't escape from life. We can't run away from the storm but we can find calm in the storm. When a hurricane sweeps across the countryside, its circling winds lashing out in destruction, there is always in the center, an area of quiet. In the eye of the storm there is calm.

Faith is not an escape, a running away into religion. It is finding the presence and adequacy of God to face life triumphantly. It is finding an inner center of peace while the winds blow outside.

The Church points the way to peace. It helps us to find the inner experience of faith.

"I have found my island... an island of peace in my heart. I have found calm... the calm of God in the storm of life..."

Help for Radio Free Europe Asked in Drive

Because of the current international crisis, Virginia was urged today to increase their support of Radio Free Europe.

Edwin Hyde of Richmond, co-chairman of the Virginia Radio Free Europe Committee and president of Miller and Rhoads, asked Virginia businessmen and individuals to contribute generously "at this crucial time to continue and step up the truth broadcasts to the people in Communist-dominated Europe."

He said that "the Communist thrust all over the world make it more urgent than ever that we retain support for the West among the 80 million people of Eastern Europe. This is the pivotal area that may mean the difference between victory and defeat."

Radio Free Europe broadcasts messages behind the Iron Curtain—keeping the people informed of the truth of the outside world.

"We know that the broadcasts are getting through," Mr. Hyde said. "For instance, Mr. Nixon visited Warsaw last year, the Communists suppressed information of his arrival. Yet when he came, he was greeted by a cheering crowd of over 100,000 at the airport, and the route into the city. How did they know? Radio Free Europe broadcast the news to the people. There was no other way of their learning the news."

Mr. Hyde and Dr. Huston St. Clair, of Tazewell, president of the Jewell Ridge Coal Company, are heading up the Virginia committee that is seeking contributions for the private, non-government broadcasts. Appeals are being made to thousands of Virginia businessmen to support RFE as a means to protect free enterprise and freedom.

Newspaper Help
Campaigns are being conducted in Richmond, Norfolk, Newport News, Roanoke, Lynchburg, Danville, Arlington, Alexandria and Harrisonburg. In addition, the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs is distributing envelopes through its 425 units throughout the State.

Another RFE campaign is being conducted by the Newport News Daily Press and Times-Herald newspapers. The boys are going to Europe to see the RFE campaign for the fund.

"I feel that Virginia, the birthplace of freedom, has a special obligation in this struggle," Mr. Hyde said.

Anyone wishing to contribute may send a check to Radio Free Europe, Fund, State Treasurer, P.O. Box 100, Exchange Bank, Roanoke.

In March, 1960, the first U.S. Marines were assigned in Washington for the purpose of guarding the construction of the Navy Yard there. Two years later, the yard was established as the U.S. Marine Corps Headquarters.

Virginia's Art By Leslie Cheek, Jr.

Director, Virginia Museum of Fine Arts

The nationally known director of the State Museum describes the great masterpiece of art in the Museum's collection—the cultural heritage of all Virginians. This is one of a series of articles appearing each week during the Virginia Museum's 25th Birthday year.

The Four Seasons of Antioch

Antioch was an ambivalent city, for it gained a reputation for luxury and licentiousness at the same time that it was a strong religious center in the early centuries of Christianity. Founded about 300 B.C. by Seleucus Nicator, a Greek, it occupied an ideal site from the point of view of the Western powers since it lay astride the trade routes from Asia Minor to Europe.

From the very beginning its importance was realized for it was carefully laid out by the architect Xenarchus in imitation of the gridiron plan of Alexandria. It was soon a city some four miles in diameter adorned with colonnaded streets and many gardens.

It came under the rule of the Romans by its own wish, and as a free city in 64 B.C. Caesar visited it in 47 B.C. Tiberius built new colonnades there, Agrippa enlarged its theatre and Antoninus paved its streets with granite. It was evangelized by Peter, James and Paul and their converts were the first to be given the name of Christian. It was also the site of many of the early church assemblies.

Julian, the Apostate, met very strong resistance when he tried to suppress the Christians of Antioch, but their churches were reopened and restored by his successor Valens.

The conquest by the Arabs in 638 A.D. and a succession of earthquakes led to its downfall. But the series of mosaics of the Four Seasons in the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts remains as testimony of its splendor.

Dated from 193-235 A.D., these mosaics were produced, of course, during the Roman occupation of Antioch, and they reflect the pagan rather than the Christian influence on the arts of the city. They were found in the pavement of a corridor of a private house, and the winged figures of children symbolizing the seasons are charmingly drawn.

In technique they are free from the provincialism which might be expected in a city so far from Rome, but in spirit they exhibit a delicious gaiety and a luxury not too frequently met with in Rome itself.

Antioch was an ambivalent city, for it gained a reputation for luxury and licentiousness at the same time that it was a strong religious center in the early centuries of Christianity. Founded about 300 B.C. by Seleucus Nicator, a Greek, it occupied an ideal site from the point of view of the Western powers since it lay astride the trade routes from Asia Minor to Europe.

From the very beginning its importance was realized for it was carefully laid out by the architect Xenarchus in imitation of the gridiron plan of Alexandria. It was soon a city some four miles in diameter adorned with colonnaded streets and many gardens.

It came under the rule of the Romans by its own wish, and as a free city in 64 B.C. Caesar visited it in 47 B.C. Tiberius built new colonnades there, Agrippa enlarged its theatre and Antoninus paved its streets with granite. It was evangelized by Peter, James and Paul and their converts were the first to be given the name of Christian. It was also the site of many of the early church assemblies.

Many Specialized Jobs Filled By National Executive Service

The recent and expanding development of the Nationwide Executive Survey is a product of the fast-moving times in which we are now living. The demand for specific and specialized services in many fields presented a challenge to find the qualified personnel needed for definitely meeting the requirements that the now highly specialized field in the major industries demands.

The Nationwide Executive Survey is a separate organization that is the outgrowth of the Employment Placement Bureau. George T. Morecock, founder, now devotes his entire time to preparing personalized resumes for executive personnel who are seeking new fields of endeavor or for service personnel who have completed their tour of duty and have attained retirement status. Particular stress is placed upon assisting service personnel in private business.

The resume prepared by the NES stresses the important duties that have been performed by the retiring officer in order to spot the best advantage in private industry. These completed resumes are then forwarded to prospective employers who might be interested in interviewing applicants with their backgrounds.

A number of personnel managers and employment supervisors are known personally by the agency through years of contacts. The firm maintains close contacts with important industries and employment agencies in all of the Fifth Federal Reserve District. These near-at-home employers constantly are looking for satisfactory replacements and new help. Additional liaison with employers throughout the country is provided by their affiliation with outstanding personnel agencies in all of the states.

The success in placing so many persons in suitable career jobs and often in more worthwhile and lucrative connections lies to a very great extent in the building of "experience resumes". Morecock also lays stress on three important steps in ultimate success for the applicant—1. The know-what to seek. 2. The know-how to seek. 3. The know-when to seek.

The plan provides a service at a moderate cost that easily fits into virtually any budget. The firm has offices in the Flatiron Building in Norfolk, on the second floor. The parent firm, Employment Placement Bureau, occupies offices in the same group with a capable staff for handling local employment services for both employer and employee.

The resume prepared by the NES stresses the important duties that have been performed by the retiring officer in order to spot the best advantage in private industry. These completed resumes are then forwarded to prospective employers who might be interested in interviewing applicants with their backgrounds.

Fireworks Display Is Shaded Saturday

A fireworks display Saturday night will mark the celebration of Independence Day at Seaside Park, Virginia Beach's modern amusement park and bathing beach.

The park bathhouse will be open on Saturday and Sunday, and will remain open every weekend until the park gets into its full scale all-day, every-day schedule for the summer on May 29.

There are now three bands playing live music during the summer season. The Blue Angels are heard on Friday nights, The Saints on Saturday nights, and the Equinox play for the jam sessions on Saturday and Sunday from 2:00 to 6:00 P.M.

If the action is still strong as quiting time approaches Sunday afternoon, the Equinox will keep right on going into a nighttime session. All three bands feature rock and roll.

Admission to Seaside Park is free, and all entertainment concessions—the rides, games and refreshment and novelty stores—are in operation every weekend.

PRINCESS ANNE 4-Hers
The Princess Anne 4-H Sol Judging Team won first place Saturday in the Southeastern District Contest.

The Princess Anne team, in competition with five teams from the District won first place over second place Prince George County team by thirty-one points.
The team was led by Dan Humphries, of Kennebec, who was high individual scorer. He received a $15.00 Scholarship to attend the 4-H Club Short Course at VPI, Tommy Chism, of Salem Road, was third high individual scorer in the total contest. Bill Cannon, of London Bridge, was fourth high scorer, and Joe Peckek was the 6th high scorer. When it was all added up, these four individuals would not be denied their honors of first place team.

The Princess Anne team will compete for State honors at the 4-H Club Short Course to be held at VPI in June.
4-H ACHIEVEMENT
The Courthouse Elementary 4-H Club received the outstanding Junior 4-H Club trophy and plaque for 1960-61. This outstanding Junior Club received this award Thursday night, May 11, at the annual 4-H Achievement Program, held at Thalia Elementary School.

During the year, this Club took three trips to historical places in Virginia. They conducted many welfare activities. They assisted with school activities. Sixteen of their members were in the County Share-the-Fun Program, and two were in the County Public-Speaking Contest.
The Bayside Community Club received the trophy and plaque for being the outstanding Senior Club of the year. The club sent six members to District Camp, five members to Senior 4-H Camp, and four members to the 4-H Short Course at VPI. They wrote ten News articles during the year, and conducted many welfare activities. The Club enjoyed one trip. Eight members participated in County Contests, three members in District Contests, and one member in the State Contest.

Winners of High Awards
The H. W. Ozlin trophies are awarded annually to the four most outstanding 4-H Club persons in Princess Anne County. The nominees for this award come from the 4-H Club members themselves. Each club nominates a boy and girls for this honored award.

The H. W. Ozlin award is given in honor of Mr. H. W. Ozlin, the first County agent in Princess Anne County, and the father of 4-H Club work in this county. He was County Agent for thirty-five years, and during these years, the great belief was in the 4-H Club movement. Down through the years Mr. Ozlin will be remembered through these awards for his outstanding contributions to the youth of this county.

The most outstanding Junior girl of 1961 was Patti Grissom. Patti is president of her 4-H Club this year, and has served on several programs and project committees in past years. She participated in Public Speaking Contest and the Share-the-Fun Program on both club and county level. These are but a few of the highlights in Patti's outstanding 4-H career.

The most outstanding Junior 4-H Club boy is John Moulton. He is a young boy having completed two years in 4-H Club work. However, he has a very impressive record. He has served as vice-president of his club and as president. He has willingly participated in all his club's activities, and has led his club in these activities in the manner which is highly commendable. He has participated in the public speaking contest and also the Share-the-Fun Contest. One of the highlights of this boy's career was showing the Grand Champion Angus Heifer at the 1961 District Heifer Show in Portsmouth.

The most outstanding Senior Girl is Anne Connell. Anne has worked diligently in six different project fields. She has attended the 4-H Club Short Course at VPI, participated in several tours of the State Fair, participated in Contests on the county and district level. In 1961, she received a blue award in the Dress Reveal contest.

The most outstanding 4-H Club boy is Tommy Chism. Tommy has been in 4-H Club work for six years and has been extremely active in project and other activity fields. His best project has been the Junior Steer Project, which he had the honor of receiving the first place ribbon and trophy. He has been a member of the Solis Judging team of Princess Anne County, and was one of the members representing Princess Anne in the Solis Judging team this year. He has participated in the Share-the-Fun Program, has appeared on various radio programs, and has held the position of Program Chairman, reporter, and president of his club.

Achievement Awards
Each 4-H Club was invited to display an exhibit at the 4-H Achievement Program. Those on display were of excellent quality. The exhibits were judged on the Danish system. The Thalia Community, the Bayside 7th and 8th, and the Courthouse Elementary received the Blue Award. The Salem Road Club, the Bayside Community and the Courthouse Community club received the red award. The Thoroughgood 4-H Club and Woodstock Club received the White Award.

The Bayside Community Club won the Blue award for the best Scrap Book exhibited.
In the Garden Contest, Betty Ann Lee won first place with blue award, and received an $8.00 Scholarship to attend either 4-H Club Camp, or short course.

Ronnie Lee Malbon was second, Bobby Ferguson, third and Jimmy Brown was fourth.
In the Sears Pig Chain Program, Willie Padon was first with a $8.00 Scholarship, Joe Moulton was second, Darrell Land was third, and Clyde Freeman was fourth.

In the Meat Animal Award, Jimmy Johnson was first, and also John Moulton was first. Jerry Moulton was second, and Lee Parker-third, and Bobby Vaughan third.

In the Field Crop program, Mr. Robert C. Stoddard, state educational manager of Chiles Vitrate, presented a nineteen Jewel Watch to Bobby Vaughan, who was the District winner in the Field Crops Contest. Eddy Vaughan received a $50.00 Savings Bond from the Virginia-North Carolina Plant Food Institute for his placing in the District. Second place and third place in the county respectively were Ward Flora and Joe Moulton.

In the Land Appreciation Program, Dr. S. P. Thornton, Agronomist for F. S. Royer Gunno Co., presented Eddy Vaughan a $50.00 Savings Bond for making the State Land Appreciation 4-H Club Team. He also presented the first place ribbons and a $50.00 Scholarship to the Land Appreciation Team, consisting of Bill Cannon, Tommy Chism, Dan Humphries, and Joe Peckek.

In Livestock Judging, first place awards and a $50.00 Scholarship were presented to the 4-H Club members on the team who will be competing on a District Level on Saturday, May 20th. These team members are Bobby Vaughan, Johnny Joyce, Joe Moulton, and Al Bannight.

In Entomology, Woody Turner and George Lee were first and second respectively, receiving an $8.00 and $5.00 Scholarship to Camp Short Course.
Home Grounds Beautification awards were received by George Lee, Ward Flora, and Leo Ger-land. These boys will receive assistance provided by the Norfolk Assailed Gardens.

Song & Game Birds awards were won by Woody Turner and Ward Flora.

The poultry placings were first, David White; second, Diane Dailey; and third John Moulton.

The Dairy awards were received by Barbara Pyle, Diane Bellamy, and Virginia Anne Askew; and David Newsum.

Deanna Murphy won first place in the Forestry contest. Diane Dallet was second David Whitaker was third, and Mike Schroeder was fourth.

Bobby and Eddie Vaughan received recognition for outstanding assistance rendered the 4-H Club Program for the year 1961.

4-H All-around Awards
Mr. and Mrs. Stanley E. Oliver, of Bayside, Virginia, received plaques for their outstanding contribution to the 4-H Club Program, the community in which they live, and the County. Both of these people have given much for the furtherance of 4-H work in the County. They are to be commended for their tremendous efforts through the years. With these two awards make a total of three 4-H All-around awards presented in Princess Anne County.

TOP PRODUCTION NEEDED TO BEAT FARM SQUEEZE
Dairymen today must get higher forage yields per acre to stay in business, says W. S. Griffith, dairy specialist at VPI.

He says increasing land prices are forcing dairymen to squeeze all the production possible out of every acre on his farm.
Griffith cites Illinois research which shows that cows fed green chopped forage or silage in a dry lot make as much milk as cows on excellent pasture. As long as the forage is of good quality and there is plenty of it, the source makes little difference to the cows.

Illinois silage herds have studied. In 24 herds, cows were fed hay and/or silage the year around. Production in these herds was about the same, says Griffith, as in herds grazing summer pasture or eating green chop. All were fed grain at the same rate.
Production in the herds fed stored feed was much more uniform than in herds grazing. This was a result, says the specialist, of the uniform quality of the forage.

The 24 dairymen using stored feeding either owned or planned to buy automatic unloaders and feeders. Without automation the labor requirement on heavy silage feeding is almost prohibitive, according to the researchers.

Are higher costs justified? Griffith says this question must be answered by each individual dairyman. He believes they are justified if the forage crops yields in a stored feeding program are high enough to more than pay for the cost of the extra equipment and labor.

When less land is needed for pasture for the herd, more land will be available to grow high yielding crops such as corn silage. There are two reasons why fewer acres are needed to grow roughage for cows under the stored feeding plan for grazing or green chop. First, a higher percentage of corn silage is fed, and secondly, the grass-legume forage is harvested at a more desirable stage of development for maximum food value yield.

Illinois farms that were using stored feeding fed twice as much corn silage as the other farms. Stored feeding herds needed 6/10ths acres less per cow to produce forage than did the grazing herds. In a herd of 49 cows, about 28 more acres would be required to provide forage under continuous grazing than under stored feeding.

Says Griffith, "Virginia dairymen are thinking more about stored feeding because new silage handling equipment reduces labor, cows are nearby at all times, each crop can be harvested and stored at peak of quality, and corn silage use can be increased."

He also notes that with stored feeding blood-danger is reduced, less fencing is needed, cattle are always close to the water supply, harvesting equipment and labor are used only a few days each year, and the quality if the forage fed is more uniform throughout the year.

WOMEN ORGANIZED FOR $950,000 HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN

LEADERS SELECTED, SOLICITATION BEGINS

Some 100 women met last night at the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center to receive instructions and materials for participation in the campaign for the General Hospital of Virginia Beach. These ladies, who have been organized into sections and teams in the General Teams Division, will work with some 300 men already soliciting for this Division.

B. M. Stanton, chairman of the General Teams Division, and George Brooke, president of the Hospital Board, welcomed this new ladies section and stated that they would be of immeasurable assistance in helping the solicitation of every family in the Virginia Beach area.

Each section leader will have five captains and each captain will have five team members. Prospect cards were selected and solicitation by the women's section will begin immediately. Their first report meeting is scheduled for Monday, May 28, 7:00 p.m. at the Shepard Convention Center.

FIRST LEADERS NAMED

Names available at this time of women working in this section are: Section chairman, Mrs. Harry L. Hall. Team captains: Mrs. John Crawford, Mrs. D. M. Verney, Mrs. B. J. Boushore, Mrs. E. Major, Mrs. J. A. Horton. Section chairman, Mrs. P. A. Van Buren. Team captains: Mrs. D. J. Doolittle, Mrs. W. P. Keilman, Mrs. P. J. P. Keilman, Mrs. J. E. Grandy, Mrs. J. W. Mueck. Section chairman, Mrs. David H. Batcher. Team captains: Mrs. L. W. LeCompte, Mrs. T. E. Skeppert, Mrs. A. Q. Jarrett, Mrs. Monroe Nash, Mrs. John Doyle.

OFFICERS LISTED

Section chairman, Mrs. E. A. Barco. Team captains: Mrs. Stanley Howard, Mrs. W. P. Washburn, Mrs. Jack Meredith, Mrs. A. Holloman. Section co-chairmen, Mrs. W. G. Thompson, Mrs. P. H. Allen. Team captains: Mrs. W. J. Vaughan, Mrs. James W. Haisler, Mrs. Edward A. Hoffmeister, Mrs. Larry Barker. Meanwhile, a total of $300,897 had been subscribed up to the last meeting held Monday. The top team under T. Broyles raised $2,450. The top subsection, made up of teams and headed by W. Anderson, raised $2,913. The top section, headed by W. Cole, brought in $14,668. Additional reports will be made Thursday night.

Educators Visit Friends School

Levinus Painter, Collins, N.Y., and Laura Yingling from Ridgewood, N.J., visited the Friends Meeting and School last week. They were enroute to Greensboro, N.C., to attend a meeting on Indian affairs. Levinus Painter has helped to set up many of the 400 Quaker schools in Africa. Goodwin Peterson, Director of the Organic School in Fairhope, Ala., and Ruth Wendt, Spanish and French teacher at the school, visited the Friends School earlier this week. With them were nine of the senior class boys and girls who will dance in the National Folk Festival in Washington, D.C.

Old Figurehead May Be Replaced To Mark Site of 1861 Ship Sinking

A temporarily discarded, but once famous Virginia Beach landmark may be replaced to its original setting at 16th Street and the Waterfront, according to information just received by City Council. The wooden figurehead from the Norwegian ship "Detektor" which sank off that spot on March 27, 1861, was a marker familiar to two generations of residents and visitors. Each year until near the turn of the century, the ill-fated bark's captain, J. M. Jorgensen, visited the spot on the anniversary of

County Hospital Campaign Adds New Committee

The Princess Anne County Memorial Hospital Commission has named a four-man management committee to aid its current drive for funds. An estimated $300,000 to $350,000 in land, money and pledges has been raised for the medical facility to be located at Princess Anne Plaza.

Commission Chairman Dr. Ira B. Hancock, in announcing the committee names, said: "The commission hopes that the various commercial establishments which have so admirably lent their efforts in behalf of the Virginia Beach Hospital will also do so in behalf of the 90,000 residents of Princess Anne County and their hospital."

The committee members are: James P. Sadler, R. F. Trant Jr., Oscar B. Ferebee Jr., and L. Charles Burlage.

Almonds Head Fall Cruise To South America

Governor and Mrs. J. Lindsay Almond, Jr. will head this Fall's Virginia Cruise to South America, which is scheduled to depart Norfolk on November 6. The 30-day cruise, scheduled to depart Norfolk on November 6, will visit South America, including Rio de Janeiro, Santos, Bahia, Rio de Janeiro, Santos, Brazil; Montevideo, Uruguay; and Buenos Aires, Argentina. On the return voyage to Norfolk, stops will be made at Santos, Rio and San Juan, Puerto Rico. This will be the seventeenth cruise or tour sponsored by the Virginia Cruise Corporation during the last 11 years. It will be the longest in nautical miles, more than 22,000 miles from Norfolk to Buenos Aires and return. The cruise will be aboard one of the finest and newest cruise ships, the 22,000-ton "Detektor," which is completely air-conditioned. The U.S. Flag Moore-McCormack Lines is noted for excellence in cuisine and service. Chaplains of the three major denominations will conduct daily religious services aboard the ship and will be named in the near future. The Virginia Cruise Corporation was chartered in 1951 as a non-profit corporation to demonstrate the feasibility of operating passenger services from Virginia ports. The corporation is composed of the Twenty-First Street Business Area Association of Norfolk, the Norfolk Port Authority and the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce. Management is now vested in the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce with offices at 611 East Franklin Street, Richmond 19, Virginia. Mrs. Roberta D. Aiken is in charge of reservations.

C of C Backs Fund Drive Cites Need Of New Facility

In separate actions at their last meetings the board of directors of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce endorsed "wholeheartedly" the projected new General Hospital of Virginia Beach and the chamber's contact club announced the addition of seven new members. Urging "support to the fullest extent possible," the resolution supporting the hospital campaign reads:

WHEREAS, because of existing conditions and overtaxed hospital facilities in the Norfolk area, there is a great need for a modern, well-equipped, and adequately staffed community hospital in Virginia Beach; and WHEREAS, only complete community cooperation can assure the success of the proposed General Hospital of Virginia Beach; THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, pursuant to its prime responsibility of promoting the best interests of all persons in the area it serves, wholeheartedly endorses the plan to create a general hospital at Virginia Beach; AND FURTHERMORE, the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce urges all persons in this area to support to the fullest extent possible this essential and humanitarian endeavor.

By Order of the Board of Directors Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce May 18, 1961

Business, Professional Women Bring Two Awards from Richmond

Five members of the Virginia Beach Princess Anne unit of Business and Professional Women's Clubs have returned to their homes after serving as delegates to the 40th annual convention of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs in Richmond, Va. Making up this community delegation were County President Mrs. Agnes Mabry, Second Vice President Miss Helen Gresham, Corresponding Secretary Mrs. Mary Atkins, Miss Louise Duke and Miss Jewel Whitlock.

The Virginia Federation, broken up into eight districts, drew 304 delegates representing its statewide membership of 9,151. There are 61 clubs in the state.

The local club was the only unit to win two trophies (refreshing and the other from the National Federation for increasing its roster by 10 new members over last year's 41.

Two women prominent in national affairs delivered the principal addresses. The first was Ruby Glen Sills, executive director of the National Federation in Washington, D.C., on the theme "Dimensions in Democracy for You, the Career Woman, and the other by Mrs. Charles W. Tillett, U. S. delegate to the United Nations, Department of the Status of Women.

Mrs. Tillett, a North Carolinian who is one of this nation's three female delegates to the U.N., has just returned from Geneva, 2, Switzerland, where U.N. delegates pondered proposals to have more stringent international laws concerning marriage.

The delegates and guests attending the convention returned to their clubs and communities having learned much and will help them not only to be better qualified to carry on their work in their clubs but to be better informed and thereby better citizens of their communities and country.

Police and Fire Department Men Finish Varied Training Courses

Members of the Virginia Beach Police and Fire Departments have just completed three separate courses which Police Chief Reeves E. Johnson said Wednesday was "a continuation of our long established efforts to give our citizens the best protection possible."

Detective Joseph Peres and Fire Inspector G. M. Atwater have returned from Moorehead City, N.C., where they received the latest instruction in arson investigation. Each year a similar two-week team representing the departments takes this course.

In addition, four police officers have completed a two-week session offered regularly by the Central Police Training School of the State Police in Richmond.

"Their diplomas give evidence of their successful completion of an intensive study of all phases of law enforcement," Chief Johnson said.

Finishing this course, which included firearms and defenses to their clubs and communities having learned much and will help them not only to be better qualified to carry on their work in their clubs but to be better informed and thereby better citizens of their communities and country.

15,000-20,000 Estimate Given For Armed Forces Day Crowd

Police estimate that between 15,000 and 20,000 persons viewed Virginia Beach's Armed Forces Day Parade, despite a brisk wind and prickly weather.

Chief Reeves E. Johnson said this year's crowd was hard to estimate accurately because people were in and out of the sidewalk crowds taking coffee breaks and just plain warming up.

He pointed out the contrast to last year's conditions when the weather, if anything, was too hot. Officials and guests were high in their praise of the parade performance by the 88 units which included sharp-marching military units, high-stepping, prancing majorettes, and heavy weapons rolling hardware from bases hereabouts.

Representative Thomas N. Downing and Ensign Leroy Carstens, honorary marshals, and high Army and Navy brass and civil and civic leaders were nearly unanimous in congratulating the city and military officials who cooperated in arranging the complicated affair.

Frank D. Tarrall of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce Armed Forces Committee was overall coordinator of the celebration while Fire Chief "Bubba" Bayne acted for the civilian segment and Lt. Cmdr. Stribling Snoggrass represented the military.

The Welcome Wagon Club of Princess Anne County has been organized and Mrs. D. M. Hannon has been elected its first president. It has been announced.

The first meeting of the club was held on Wednesday. Other officers in addition to Mrs. Hannon, are Mrs. R. C. Bents, vice-president; Mrs. R. Nyabuh, secretary; and Mrs. Carl Hall, Jr., treasurer.

Land Sale Ban

Sale of land in the Lynnwood subdivision was temporarily banned this week by the Princess Anne Board of Supervisors after County Engineer S. T. Barker, Jr., said the road in the development had not been brought up to work requirements.

Barker said that Glover Miller, head of the firm, has not completed part of the subdivision's roads according to state standards. All roads must conform to these standards before they are accepted in the highway system.

The motion ordering suspension of land sales was made by Lynnwood supervisor James Darden.

Polo, Anyone?

The Tidewater Horse and Pony Association is sponsoring a weekend of polo at Greenbrier Farms, Military Highway one mile south of Indian River Road. The University of Virginia Alumni are scheduled to play two matches against the Warrenton All-Stars 4:30 p.m. Friday night and again at 100 Sunday. In event of rain Friday, that match will be held Saturday at 3:30. Sunday at 12:30 p.m. a brunch in sous party is to be held at the Horse and Pony Association club house.

WELCOME WAGON CLUB IS ORGANIZED

The Welcome Wagon Club of Princess Anne County has been organized and Mrs. D. M. Hannon has been elected its first president. It has been announced.

The first meeting of the club was held on Wednesday. Other officers in addition to Mrs. Hannon, are Mrs. R. C. Bents, vice-president; Mrs. R. Nyabuh, secretary; and Mrs. Carl Hall, Jr., treasurer.

Lovers of the gallop and mallet sport will have a look at action like this Friday and Sunday at Greenbrier Farms when the University of Virginia Alumni polo team meets the Warrenton All-Stars. (B. S. Vickhouse Photo)

Newspapering Often Requires Hydraulic Lift

The words "Elrod machine" don't mean a thing to the uninitiated. To the initiated, like the mechanical geniuses who put together between column rules, it means that the Sun-News will do a better job of printing your weekly newspaper after the next issue.

Because we've just bought one, we're not the reason for this little piece.

Wednesday a friend wandered into the shop and gave a careful gander at the contraption, all wrapped up in its crate, and burst into violent laughter.

"I just saw on that crate the most useless three words I ever saw before," he said.

Everyone took a look at the three words: "DO NOT DROP."

Foreign Trade Tonnage Is Up For State In '60

The Virginia State Ports Authority this week released a report showing that the total foreign trade tonnage at all Virginia ports for the calendar year 1960 increased 2.8 per cent compared with 1959.

The combined bulk and general cargo tonnage in foreign trade for all Virginia ports in 1960 was 33,164,000 short tons, an increase of 903,232 tons made up of an export increase of 750,641 tons and an import increase of 152,671 tons. Of this total, 22,794,106 tons moved through Hampton Roads ports.

Coal exports, for the first year since 1937, showed a slight increase in 1960 to 23,164,671 tons, as compared with 23,029,015 tons in 1959.

In general cargo exports, Virginia ports in 1960 had a 22.4 per cent increase over 1959. Exports were valued at $282,715,742. The value of exports at Hampton Roads ports were $267,136,149 and imports 263,183,486.

Polo Matches Are Scheduled For Weekend

The Tidewater Horse and Pony Association is sponsoring a weekend of polo at Greenbrier Farms, Military Highway one mile south of Indian River Road. The University of Virginia Alumni are scheduled to play two matches against the Warrenton All-Stars 4:30 p.m. Friday night and again at 100 Sunday. In event of rain Friday, that match will be held Saturday at 3:30. Sunday at 12:30 p.m. a brunch in sous party is to be held at the Horse and Pony Association club house.

Saturday Rally, Picnic Planned By Girl Scouts

Saturday the Girl Scouts and Brownie Troops and their parents in the Virginia Beach area are having a rally and picnic supper starting at 4:30 p.m. Each family is to bring a picnic supper for the family to be served "pot luck" style. The rally is to be held at the Girl Scout Hut on the west end of 18th Street.

In case of rain it will be held at the same time and place on Sunday, May 28th.

Mrs. M. F. Duckworth, neighborhood chairman, will open the program. A flag ceremony will be presented by Linda Knowles, Laura Kaye Barnes, Alice Faye Hewitt, Faith Dempsy and Karen Zorich of Brownie Troop No. 468 and Suzanne Duckworth and Debbie Tillitt of Girl Scout Troop No. 464.

Awards and badges earned will be presented to the Girl Scouts. Year pins and world pins will be presented to eligible girls by their leaders. There will be a Flare Ceremony for the 10 year old Brownies. Each family is to bring plate, silverware, cup, drink and sit-upon for each member. If a child comes alone she is to bring one covered dish. It has been suggested that chicken be the meat for the supper. Each girl is responsible for her own transportation. Troops participating and their leaders are: Mrs. Kenneth Hill, No. 285; Mrs. M. F. Duckworth, No. 464; Mrs. Gerald Burns, No. 288; Mrs. Garland Atwater, Mrs. H. E. Heafner, Mrs. F. E. Bennett and Mrs. L. P. Crockett, No. 232; Mrs. E. B. Smith, No. 475; Mrs. D. E. Greenawald and Mrs. Paul Whelan, No. 468; and Mrs. James Wakestrom and Mrs. Arthur E. Scarborough, No. 284.

Church & Military League
Tonight was the last evening of scheduled bowling for these gentlemen, and we have enjoyed having this league with us. First place team are the Free Lancers, and they will receive their trophy next Monday when the awards banquet will be held. High set to night went to Harold Schwend, rolling for the Lutherans. Harold had a 201 game and 235 set. Cota de Salta also hit for an even 200 game. Dick Slater rolled a 201, and Roy Dodd had a 191.

Firemen & Policemen's League
Something real special tonight, Andy Holland rolling on the Virginia Beach Pine Dept. team really had a beautiful 200 set. Andy rolled 162-233-269 for this big set. This also won a Thunderbolt Trophy for Andy. Nice going, we are real glad for you.

Pinfall League
Raymond Speight was in last week working on his ball and swear it sure did help. Raymond rolled a 187-187-213 for a nice 587 set. Raymond bowls for the Kelly Supply Team. Nice going, Smiling Spenny Doyle also had a good time for himself. Spenny had a 175-180-216 for 571 series. Pretty sets for both these men.

Princess Anne Ladies
Punky Ervin's team won four points over Speed Wash. This team had high total with 2067. Mary Barnett was high with a 173 game. Shirley Measner was high for her team again with a 173 game and 436 set. Frances Hill was high for the team of Capt. with a 432. Frances just missed a patch, one more 169 game and she would have had a triplicate patch.

Town & County Ladies League
Beach Travel Service won four points over Allstate Construction. Dot later turned in another pretty set tonight. Dot rolled 146-170-176 for high set of 492. This was high set for the League tonight. Betty Mauch was high for Oceana Country Market with a 458 and Anne Holland was high for Oceana Beauty Shop Team with 463. I was high for All State Construction team but wouldn't have the nerve to print such a low set. Clay Wilson had high game for the evening with 191.

Thursday Night Ladies
Last night these ladies had the roll off match to determine the champion of their league. The Gussies were victorious, they won all four points over Kelly Texaco Team. Shirley Vols rolled high set for the winners with a 477, while Alwyn Davies rolled the high game of 174. Congratulations to the winners.

These girls will hold their awards banquet early in June. First place team is the Gussies. A high individual award was won by Shirley Schaefer. High single game is a tie between Christine Evans and Betty Embury. High set goes to Julia Hutchinson. I can't announce most improved award, since this is kept secret until the banquet night. My lips are sealed girls, but it's tough not to mention it cause I think this is the nicest award given.

Pindusters Ladies League
The girls were really whooping it up this morning. This was the last scheduled morning of bowling for these girls. They start their roll-off games on Sunday. Since these girls are my neighbors I'm torn as far as who I'm rooting for. This final week Sandy Box was the star, rolling for the May Daze. Sandy had a 164-161-176 for a 501 set. Nice going, Sandy. Sue Marer was going to hit 500 today. Sue started out with a 153, a 157

Pirates Take League Lead
The Princess Anne Pirates, after dropping their opening game in the City League, have come back to win three straight and take over the Joop's leadership.

Monday night at Lakewood Tom McCurdy, Pirate's third baseman, delivered a three-run homer in the seventh for a 6-6 win over Wisco snapping a four-game victory skid by that outfit.

The score by innings:
PA Pirates.....010 001 300-6
Wisco.....004 000 000-6
E-Stevens, Carson 2; Newhart, McCurdy, POA-PA Pirates 27; Wisco 27-8. DP — Lomago (unassisted). LOB—PA Pirates 3. Wisco 3. 2B—Smiling, SB—Fridley, SF—Lowe.

HBP—Smith (Stevens), WP — Stevens, U-Byrnan and Batson. T-2:15.

Other sponsored teams bowling in this League are: Beach Boulevard Market, Leading Beauty Salon, Ingram Pharmacy and Beauty Box.

The first banquet of the League was held Friday, May 12, 1961, at 6:30 P.M. at Post Office, Virginia. Mrs. Evelyn B. Mills, Vice-President, presided in the absence of the President, Mrs. Lorraine Kadas.

Mr. Ellis J. Mills gave the invocation. The Welcome was given by Mrs. Earla Lee Davies.

Guest speakers for the evening were Mr. Joseph (Joe) Phelps, Manager of Thunderbird Bowling Lanes.

Ladies Bowling Win Garnered By Team No. 6

Team No. 6 of the Night Owl Ladies Bowling League won first place at the Thunderbird Bowl recently. Members of the team were: Mrs. Joyce Atwood, Mrs. Jo Ann Newborn, Mrs. Ethel Nath and Mrs. Doris Paulus.

Runner-up team was sponsored by Kraus Construction Company. Members of this team were: Mrs. Jean Swindell/Captain, Mrs. Lorraine Kadas, Mrs. Pauline Curtis, Mrs. Barbara Brammer and Mrs. Mary Bolton.

League Officers for the 1960-61 season are: President, Mrs. Lorraine Kadas; Vice-President, Mrs. Evelyn B. Mills; Secretary, Mrs. Nancy Hall; Treasurer, Mrs. Earla Lee Davies; and Sergeant-at-Arms, Mrs. Doris Vanle.

The remainder of the evening was spent dancing.

Little Leaguers Boast Pair Of Portside Stars

The Princess Anne Little League race seems to be owned right now by a couple of left-handed flingers. On successive nights last week Jim Casteen hurled a no-hitter for Rosewood Park over WAVY, striking out 13 and winning 4-0, and Bart Phillips southpawed a one-hitter for WGH against Acey, taking it 8-0.

Also last week, Rosewood scored two in the ninth to nip Acey 2-1. Phillips and Phillips are the best Haynes 11-1. Monday Rosewood Park was on the losing end when Henneley struck out 14 to give Southern Materials an 11-3 victory.

The "battle of the southpaw" is slated Saturday when Casteen and Phillips are slated to tangle in the Rosewood Park-WGH feature.

The scores by innings:
Rosewood.....102 202-7 8 2
Acey Ducey.....401 000-5 4 2
Wilson, Ornsby (5) and Stillman, Wilson (5); Suggs and Lewis.

Friday, May 12, 1961
Atlantic Cleaners.....4 6 0
Little Gators.....0 1 1
Huffman, Hayes (3) Howard (5) and Clemons; Bland and Ross.

Highlights — A bases loaded home run by Terry Williams in the first inning was the Old Well first needed as they chalked up a shut-out victory for Eddie Maddox with Chesapeake A.C. the victim.

USS Poccano.....11 11 0
Wilkins Chevrolet.....0 2 3
Pritchard and Bradley; Carroll, Schoonover (5), Leary (6) and Cheney.

Highlights—Dickie Trower's bat was the big gun in the Poccano's 11-0 triumph. Dickie had four for four including a home run, while Phil Pritchard held the opposition to two hits in gaining his first victory of the season.

Everyone's sick over Chic Jordan's accident. A fine catcher with the Cubs the last two years, Chic broke his arm in a practice game Saturday morning and will be out for the season. It was one of those one-in-a-million freaks and it couldn't have happened to a better guy. We're glad you'll be with us, Chic, even though you'll be out of play.

Some bad news and some good news. We must mention that we have a three time winner in our family. For the third year in succession Buddy Matthews of the Tigers has won first place in the 50-yard dash in the Physical Fitness meet at Box Stadium. Way to go, Buddy, but next time don't make it so close!

This time tomorrow night, the dog will have been fed, the lunch basket packed, and extra jackets put in the car. A little later, the Little League pledge:

"I trust in God,
I love my country and will respect its laws,
I will play fair and strive to win—
But win or lose,
I will always do my best."
Play ball! See you.

Seaside Park Open Full Time
Dudley Cooper, owner of Seaside Park, announced that the Park opened a full daily schedule beginning Monday, May 22. The opening hours will be from 1 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, 10 a.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. This schedule will be maintained throughout the season through Labor Day when the Park will close. This early opening is eight days sooner than the traditional Memorial Day official opening of all amusement parks throughout the country, but consistent with the schedule heretofore maintained by Seaside Park.

The bathhouse will open each morning at 8:00 A.M. and will all of the restaurants which will serve breakfast meals. All of the 50 attractions of the Park will be in full operation.

The free act schedule will commence Monday, June 14, when it will present Joseph Smiley, outstanding magicians, whose feature act is "swimming" a woman in half. The free act will be presented twice daily at 2:30 and at 10 p.m. on the Outdoor Stage.

Admission to Seaside Park is always free.

Navy Approves Use of Road By Soap Boxes
The Navy has authorized the use of a 700-ft. concrete overpass at the Little Creek Amphibious Base as the official "speedway" for the 4th Annual Tidewater Soap Box Derby to be held July 18.

The race, according to Derby Director Ralph L. Barnes, "is a youth project designed to teach the youngsters to use their hands and minds and to give them a sense of competitive sportsmanship."

The winner will go to Akron, O., to compete with 180 drivers in the International Soap Box Derby, which is sponsored by the Chevrolet Division of General Motors. He will also receive a $500 scholarship, presented by the Knights of Pythians as an incentive.

The cars, which obtain a maximum speed of 31 mph, are required to use standard wheels and steering assemblies furnished at cost by Chevrolet. They must be driven by the driver, age 11 to 15, at a cost of not more than $38.60.

Local sponsors of the event are the Knights of Pythians, the Norfolk Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Norfolk Newspapers, the Naval Aviation Safety Center and the local Chevrolet dealers.

Drennen's Duty Close To Home
Thomas D. Drennen, senior chief engineer, USN, son of Mrs. Marcella E. Drennen of 600 Great Neck Rd., is serving at the Fleet Anti-Air Warfare Training Center, Dan Neck, Virginia Beach. He reported to the center in March.

The center provides training in all phases of anti-air warfare, detection and tracking of enemy aircraft, fire control systems for guns and missiles, and the operation and maintenance of the gun themselves.

Harold Henry's tremendous home run, with some on featured the loser's attack.

Emrhoe Ford-Bayside.....1 1 1
Roosevelt Garden Merchants 0 1 1
Clemons and Bolt; Bell and Donohoe.

Highlights — An unearned run was the margin of victory in this tight pitchers duel. Charles Bell sparked on the mound with 18 strikeouts and only two walks, but a teammates' error permitted the winning run to score in the first inning.

Maynard Auto Upholstery.....6 6 2
USS Terrebonne Parish.....1 5 9
Stamos and Yeargan; Muscoplat and Hubbard.

Highlights—Home run bats to Roger Reed and Keane Yeargan which accounted for five runs sparked a good effort by Joel Huffman, who struck out nine in going down to defeat in his first effort this season.

Wednesday, May 17, 1961
Atlantic Cleaners.....7 8 0
Bayside Lions.....0 1 4
Huffman and Cleland; Lawson and Williams.

Highlights—The Cleaners kept rolling along the victory trail as Huffman through a fifty one hitter at the Lions. Bobby Lawson pitched well enough but his teammates played a loose game behind him.

Thursday, May 18, 1961
Maynard Auto Upholstery.....8 8 0
Wilkins Chevrolet.....0 5 1
Stamos and Yeargan; Phillips, Carroll (2) and Cheney.

Highlights—Dick Stamos kept the Wilkins team under control as he pitched the Maynards to another win in a fast well-played contest. Tom Carroll was also excellent in relief, in addition to lead the Maynard batemen with a double and a single during the contest.

Herzer Plays For Federation

The Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs held its 27th annual convention May 22 to 24 at the John Marshall Hotel in Richmond. Clifford Herzer, well known concert pianist of Virginia Beach, presented a concert at the formal dinner May 24. This was followed by installation of officers and a reception honoring outgoing and incoming officers and guests.

On Feb. 19, 1954, General Lemuel C. Sheperd, Jr., Commandant of the Marine Corps, broke ground for the Marine Corps War Memorial in Arlington, Va.

She Helps Dad's Political Forays And Loses Her Golf Instructor

Gubernatorial candidate Albert S. Harrison and his daughter, Toni, sharpen up their golf swing in the backyard of their Lawrenceville home. The senator and his daughter are golf partners when they can fit a round into his busy campaign schedule.

At twenty-one, Toni Harrison is probably the most solid supporter of Albert S. Harrison in his bid for Virginia's highest office. The candidate's daughter's quiet determination is reflected in her plans for the coming campaign when she says she will be doing any job available to help her father win the election.

Having just reached the voting age herself, she is now busy getting all her friends registered for the coming election. "I'm sure many of them wouldn't be registering yet, if I wasn't working on them," she said.

If Toni Harrison were to be described in two words, they most certainly would be "quiet and dignified." A gubernatorial candidate, given a choice of daughters, would certainly select Toni as a model.

When asked how she feels about her father's candidacy and prospects, she calmly comments, "I knew he would be governor some day," and she is doing all she can to help this belief become a reality.

"Daddy has been in politics as long as I can remember and it just seems natural that he should be a candidate for office. This time it's different though, in a way, because of the great importance of the office he seeks. But, Mother and I will certainly be doing more than we ever did in his past campaigns, for just that reason."

At the moment, Toni's campaign efforts are restricted by her college work. As a Junior at Mary Baldwin, almost all her time is taken up with year-end exams. But with the coming of summer vacation she will be getting into the thick of the things. Toni is majoring in history at school and is interested in political science. "I guess it runs in the family," she quips. Her plans after graduation are not definite, but she hopes to do research work.

Her only complaint about her father's political career is they don't get together as much when he is campaigning. "I am probably the only girl in Virginia who is losing her golf instructor to the people," is Toni's way of putting it. She and Senator Harrison became golfing partners, recently, when she got interested in his favorite sport. "We used to play tennis a lot and now we have switched to golf. I'm afraid I am still not much competition, but we have a good time and I'm getting better," she says. When the schedule is too tight for a round of golf, Toni gets a few pointers in the backyard at the Harrison's Lawrenceville home.

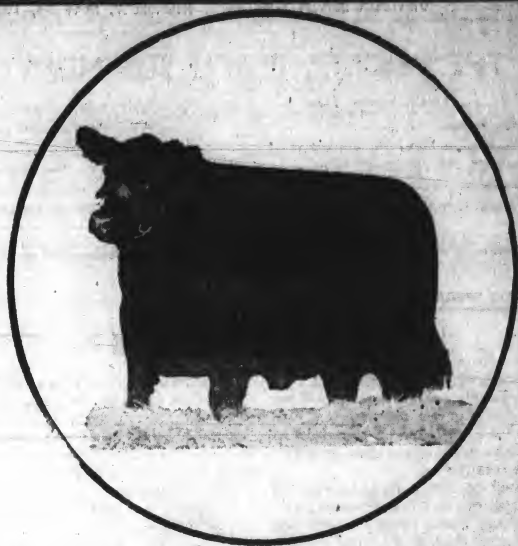

Toni's week-ends at home are spent the way any college girl would use her time. She worries about the term paper that is due and she renews her home town acquaintances. She says her date book hasn't suddenly swelled with aspiring young politicians, even in spite of her father's campaign. She also tries to get her hand in the kitchen with her mother. Baking cakes is her strong point and she is trying to sharpen up the rest of her cooking lore. She also spends some time playing the piano and listening to records.

"I like to let Toni and her mother read my speeches," the Senator says. "They usually have some very good thought to inject. I don't make them listen to them, though," he adds.

Prominent Figure in Area Theatre Aids Sandpiper Playhouse Opener

Rose Johnson Willis, whose name has become synonymous with Theatre in the Tidewater area, will be embarking on her 30th year in this field when "Marriage-Go-Round" opens at the newly founded "Sandpiper Playhouse" at Virginia Beach on July 1st.

Miss Willis, who served as director of the Norfolk Little Theatre from its founding in 1927 until 1950, at which time she retired, has continued to devote a great deal of her time to teaching voice and diction and interpretation. In recent years she has been much in demand for dramatic readings throughout Virginia and North Carolina.

Piano Students To Hold Recital

Mrs. Fred Soles will present her piano students in recital on Sunday, May 28, at 4:00 p.m. in the Virginia Beach High School Auditorium. The public will be admitted free and is cordially invited to attend.

Also, Mrs. R. L. Williams and Mrs. K. L. Jard will play duets with their daughters. Mrs. Soles will end the program with a selection by Rachmaninoff and her four-year-old daughter, Laura, will open the program with a little piano solo.

Birdneck Point Garden Club Elects Officers

The Birdneck Point Garden Club held its May meeting at the home of Mrs. J. W. Hunt. Mrs. S. L. Lott and Mrs. R. E. Doyal were co-hostesses. Twenty-six members were present. The group met on the lawn. Mrs. E. A. Martin presided. A poem "May is a Smile" was given as a devotional reading by Mrs. E. L. Rowell.

Business of the day consisted of annual election of officers and reports of committees. The following officers were unanimously elected for the year 1961-1962: President, Mrs. R. G. Boshier; 1st vice president, Mrs. H. W. Sweetfeger; 2nd vice president, Mrs. R. E. Limoth; recording secretary, Mrs. G. C. Davis, Jr.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. W. Lindsay; and treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Hunt.

Mrs. Doyal gave a comprehensive report on beautification. Forty-six plantings were made at the triangle at Kittiwake Court which has now been completed. Plans were given for improvement of the entrance to Birdneck Point in the near future.

Announcement was made of the annual buffet supper for the husbands of club members. Mrs. H. B. Savage will be hostess with Mrs. R. E. Sweetfeger assisting. Mrs. M. H. Keller was presented by Mrs. R. S. Wahab, program chairman. Mrs. Keller composed several floral arrangements, stressing design, line, form, texture and color. Awards were made in the following groupings:

Arrangements—Class 1 "From a Victorian Garden," Mrs. J. W. Viner; red, Mrs. G. C. Davis, Jr. and yellow, Mrs. R. A. Adriance.
Class 2 "Oriental," blue, Mrs. J. W. Viner, red, Mrs. R. E. Limoth.
Horticulture, Top Award—gold, Mrs. G. C. Davis, Jr.; Foxglove; blue, Mrs. J. W. Viner; Iris, Mrs. G. Hogshire. (2) Peonies, and red, Mrs. J. W. Viner, Rose.

High School Cadets To Visit Pendleton

The Army is coming to town and they are bringing visitors with them. Approximately 40 high school students will accompany the 1st Recon, Sq. 183rd Armor, Virginia National Guard unit to Camp Pendleton this weekend.

Lt. Col. Albert H. Morris, Jr., commanding the Richmond Light Infantry Blues, stated his unit will arrive Friday evening for two days of weapons firing at Pendleton.

The high school visitors, representing three different senior cadet programs in Richmond, will participate in firing of small caliber weapons during the day and will join their soldier-instructors for a night on the town during liberty hours.

On Feb. 14, 1915, the USS Essex commanded by Captain David Porter rounded Cape Horn and became the first American war vessel to enter the Pacific.

THE CIVIL WAR

(Events exactly 100 years ago this week in the Civil War—told in the language and style of today.)

Col. Elmer Ellsworth Dies at Alexandria

Famed Young Officer's Death Is First in Union Forces

ALEXANDRIA, Va.—May 24—Col. Elmer Ephraim Ellsworth, commanding the famed Fire Zouaves, was shot to death today after Union forces streamed into Alexandria.

Ellsworth was slain by a hotel keeper, James W. Jackson, owner of the Marshall House, after the colorful Union officer removed the Confederate flag from the roof of the building.

The death of Ellsworth, a protégé of President Lincoln, was the first of a Union officer since the beginning of hostilities.

His slayer was killed instantly by Corp. Frank Brownell, who was with Ellsworth when Jackson hurled himself at them in the stairway of the hotel.

He had taken over a run-down cadet company, put steel in their backs, and developed a remarkably well-knit outfit—the Ellsworth Zouaves—that toured military installations, including West Point, to demonstrate perfection in close-order drill.

Col. Ellsworth was charged with the over-all safety of the Lincoln entourage when it left Springfield for Washington Feb. 11.

According to Brownell, Jackson jumped out of nowhere, shotgun in hand, and emptied it into Ellsworth's breast.

Brownell said he shot Jackson at once.

Ironically, Ellsworth's death came after the city he was supposed to capture had been evacuated by Confederate troops.

Infantry, cavalry and engineer forces had crossed the Potomac to advance on Alexandria, as part of a move to defend the hills on the approaches to Washington.

Ellsworth's unit floated down by boat and landed—only to find the 500-man Confederate defense force had evacuated.

AS IF NIFFED by the absence of an enemy, Ellsworth spotted the Stars and Bars flying from the Marshall House rooftop, and went after it.

He had won the city, but lost his life for a flag.

Plans were being made to ship Ellsworth's body to Mechanicsburg, N.Y., the home of his parents, for burial.

ELLSWORTH was the most widely-known young officer in the Union Army.

He was a pet of former President Buchanan as well as of President Lincoln.

Dynamic, sharp-tongued, flashy and hard as nails, the young colonel had crowded decades of living into his 24 years.

His association with Mr. Lincoln began in Springfield, where Mr. Lincoln was practicing law there.

At Mr. Lincoln's request, Ellsworth went to the Illinois capital from Chicago, where he had been working as an office clerk.

He headquartered himself in the Lincoln-Herndon law office and stumped the state for his patron.

MC DOWELL

WASHINGTON, D.C.—May 28—Brig. Gen. Irvin Mc Dowell today was named commander of all Union troops in Virginia.

In this key post, Mc Dowell will be basically responsible for the defense of Washington.

Mc Dowell, a native of Columbus, Ohio, was graduated from West Point in 1888. He served in the Mexican War and was promoted to major only five years ago.

Jehovah's Witnesses Plan Rally
Again in N.Y. Baseball Stadium

"It is Yankee Stadium again!" announced Mr. Earl Jacobs, presiding minister of the Virginia Beach congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses at their regular weekly meeting. Date of the Yankee Stadium convention is June 20-25, 1961.

For the fifth time since 1950 Jehovah's Witnesses will use the world famous sports park for their religious gathering. The last convention held there broke all attendance records, with 253,922 present from 129 lands.

Commenting on the forthcoming assembly, Mr. Jacobs said: "The assembly theme is 'United Witnesses'—Jehovah's Witnesses firmly believe the only way to real unity is to put into practice Bible principles and teachings in one's daily life."

"Christian assemblies, such as the one being held at Yankee Stadium help in doing this," he said. He further stated: "Everyone in the local congregation is urged to attend if at all possible."

The New York assembly is the first in a series to be held this summer throughout the United States, Europe and Canada. Delegates from South and Central America will attend the New York convention.

"Our congregation will be represented by at least fifty delegates," Mr. Jacobs stated. Further arrangements, including travel plans will be announced later.

Back Bay Soldier Is Army Specialist

Specialist Four Winfred H. Cartwright, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cartwright, Back Bay, recently graduated from the Seventh U. S. Army Non-Commissioned Officer Academy in Bad Tölz, Germany. Specialist Cartwright received four weeks of training in various military subjects with emphasis on leadership and combat tactics.

The purpose of the academy is to broaden the soldier's professional knowledge and to install him with the self-confidence and sense of responsibility required of a capable leader. Cartwright, a policeman in the 382nd Military Police Battalion's Company A in Heidelberg, entered the Army in 1958 and arrived overseas in April 1960. He is a 1954 graduate of Creeds High School and was employed by Norfolk and Western Railroad before entering the Army.

School Choirs To Vie Friday In Singing Bee

The third annual Princess Anne Virginia Beach Schools Singing Bee will be held at the Princess Anne High School, Friday morning, May 26, from 10:30 until 12. This yearly event is sponsored by the elementary school vocal music teachers, Mrs. Irene A. Korte, chairman. It is designed as the culminating activity for the year's work in the Elementary and Junior High Choral groups, and will provide an opportunity for the students to sing with a large group and under a different director. Mr. Clark Graves, vocal music director of PAHS will be the guest conductor, and Mrs. Glenda Lovelace, Thalia and Woodstock Schools, will accompany Miss Sue Reese, Aragona School, is chairman of the seating committee.

Participating elementary schools and music teachers include: John B. Deane, Korte, Kings' Grant, Korte, and Thalia—Mrs. Lovelace; Courthouse, and Creeds—Mrs. Barbara Harrell; W. T. Cooke—Mrs. Marilyn Dryman; Shelton Park, and Bayside—Mr. William Boyll; Linkhorn Park—Miss Ella Sue Kiraofe; Kempesville Meadows—Mrs. Christine Stauffer; and Thoroughgood—Miss Anna Morrison.

Approximately 480 sixth and seventh grade students from the above schools will sing "The Orchestra Song," "America, the Beautiful," Leroy Anderson's "The Syncopated Clock," Cesar Frank's "O Lord Most Holy," and "Do-Re-Mi" from "The Sound of Music."

Eighth and ninth grade students from the following schools—Miss Carroll Shoemaker, Wood—will participate: Kempesville Junior High—Mr. James Ackels; Kempesville Meadows—Mrs. Stauffer; and Bayside—Mr. Boyll. The 130 students in this group will sing "Fantasy on Nursery Rhymes," by Bell, and the popular song, "Exodus."

The Princess Anne High School Acappella Choir, under the direction of Mr. Graves, will conclude the morning's program.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Virginia's Art By Leslie Check, Jr. Director, Virginia Museum of Fine Arts

The Relief of Nimrud

An 18th Century Frenchman, the Abbe Beauchamps, was the first recorded man in the modern world to recover fragments from any Assyrian ruins. He obtained them from some natives who had been digging in the area for mortar.

Later these fragments fell into the hands of C. J. Rich, the British Resident at Baghdad. He in turn published a report on them, a report which interested the man who was to become the founder of Assyrian archaeology.

This man was Sir A. H. Layard who found the site of Nineveh in 1845-46. From that time on the interest in this ancient civilization has been intense, but the enormous size of many of the finds has made their distribution to the museums of the Western world difficult.

The alabaster palace relief (885-860 B.C.) at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts is one of the rare examples of Assyrian sculpture in this country. The Assyrians were supreme in the field of relief sculpture, far surpassing their rivals the Babylonians who, in turn, seem to have surpassed the Assyrians in language and law.

The earliest known Assyrian reliefs were found in the palace of Ashur-nasir-pal II, who reigned from 883-859 B.C. and whose palace was in Nimrud, south of Nineveh. Since these dates are almost the same as those of the Museum's relief, it is clear that this relief is from one of the earliest periods to be recorded.

But it is also clear that very great ability in handling low relief had been developed by this time, and even a certain sophistication may be discerned in the winged and rather benign figure of Ishtar seen in Richmond.

Although the Assyrian religion was based on magic, astrology and demonology these qualities do not seem to have entered into the concept of the relief to any great degree. Nevertheless there is an aura of unexplained mystery and of unknown mysteries about this splendid relief created so long ago by the sculptors of the Assyrian court.

Mrs. E. A. Hoffmeister, along with Mrs. Kermit S. Land a new director, installed officers in the Cavalier Garden Club at the last meeting held at the Princess Anne Country Club. The recently selected slate follows:

President, Mrs. Carl M. Rau; 1st vice president, Mrs. V. K. Almond; 2nd vice president, Mrs. W. J. Vaughan; recording secretary, Mrs. W. H. Brown; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. D. W. Cassada and treasurer, Mrs. R. T. Soffel.

Awards for the past year were presented to Mrs. Fred G. Barham, cash award for accumulating the most points. Mrs. Barham also won the Tri-Color in the Cavalier Garden Club Flower Show in April.

Mrs. Almond won the Louise Saunders Trophy for showing the most effort. Mrs. Almond also won a blue ribbon in the Norfolk Christmas Flower Show.

Mrs. J. W. Wood, won cash award for most points in Horticulture.

Gold awards: Table Arrangements — Mrs. Hoffmeister, Mrs. Robert P. Maul, Mrs. Barham, Mrs. C. G. Baughman and Mrs. E. A. Coyner.

Blue Awards: Arrangements — Mrs. E. A. Hoffmeister, Mrs. Almond, Mrs. B. K. Lindeman, Mrs. Walton G. Saunders, Mrs. Robert P. Maul, Mrs. Rau, Mrs. W. H. Darden, Mrs. W. H. Brown, Mrs. L. O. Clark, Mrs. Crockett Henry, Mrs. Tyler H. Ellis, Mrs. Vernon J. Honeycutt and Mrs. L. O. Branch.

Cavalier Plans Gala Season Starting Friday

The Cavalier rings up the curtain on the 1961 season Friday, May 26, significantly expanding the resort's entertainment and recreational facilities.

"Resident and non resident members and their guests will enjoy a fare of entertainment heretofore unequalled," said Sidney Banks, the Cavalier's president. The period of June 30-July 6 will be featured as a star-studded week with Nelson Eddy and Gale Sherwood entertaining with their night club show, Russ Carlyle and his Orchestra playing for dancing.

John Derieux and his orchestra in the Captain's Table for dinner dancing and Harry Taylor in The Hunt Room for his sixth successive season.

Ray Herrera and songstress Char Lovett have the opening spotlight both in "The Captain's Table" for dinner dancing and later for dancing on the surfside deck. Other orchestras in the 1961 line-up are a 17-piece Glenn Miller Band, Lester Lanin & His Orchestra with Lanin in person, The Lester Lanin Travelers, Russ Carlyle, Lenny Herman, Don Glasser and Johnny Long.

Harry Taylor returns to The Hunt Room from a winter engagement at Miami's Kenilworth Hotel where Arthur Godfrey has just renewed his contract for next year.

According to Banks, The Cavalier Beach & Cabana Club will operate on the same schedule as heretofore—open daily with dancing on the deck nightly except Sunday. The Captain's Table and Ship's Lounge will be open every day and evening excepting Mondays.

On Feb. 13, 1854, a Naval Expedition under the command of Commodore Matthew Perry anchored off Yokosuka, Japan, to await an answer from the Emperor regarding opening Japanese ports to commerce.

The MIXING BOWL ... IT'S Fun TO COOK

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

For the very latest in food fads and fables... for practical, down-to-earth recipes that please the palate and pocketbook, read the "Mixing Bowl" by Lucile Clark each Thursday in the Sun-News.

Pickles are the surprise treat in this chuck-wagon lunch. Pickle slices in whole, all pickles... that's all you do. Youngsters will love 'em!

The National Pickle Packers Association designated May 1961 as "National Pickle Week," so I hope you will join in the celebration. It will be fun and you'll be getting cheers, cheers, cheers from the entire family.

When it's time to round up your young "cowboys" at lunchtime, entice them off the range with chuck-wagon fare. Even the "Indians" will come off the warpath at chowtime for this kind of outdoor eating.

Beans-n-bacon form the mainstay of the meal. Canned pork & beans can be heated, or not, as you wish. Serve them in small individual skillets, garnished with bacon and crisp sweet fresh cucumber pickle slices.

The sandwiches are made with raw vegetables, peanuts or raisins and sweet pickle relish, combinations the youngsters will love. For convenience, make them early in the day, wrap individually in transparent saran, and store in the refrigerator until serving time.

And for a special treat, provide picklesicles. These are simply the biggest dill pickles you can find, with ice cream sticks inserted for easy handling and eating. Serve them nestled in a big bucket of ice. These picklesicles make a fine mid-afternoon refreshment for active youngsters too. They are good thirst-quenchers and provide a snack that satisfies without spoiling appetites for dinner. Just for fun, you can paint the sticks with ordinary vegetable coloring.

Carrot-Relish Sandwiches
(Makes 8 servings)
2 cups grated carrots
1 cup chopped unseasoned peanuts
1 cup mayonnaise
1 cup sweet pickle relish
12 slices white bread, buttered

Cabbage-Relish Sandwiches
(Makes 8 servings)
3 cups finely chopped cabbage
1/2 cup seedless raisins
1/2 cup sweet pickle relish
1 cup mayonnaise
12 slices wheat bread, buttered

Combine cabbage, raisins, pickle relish and mayonnaise; mix well. Spread carrot mixture on 8 slices bread. Top with remaining bread slices to make sandwiches.

Are you in a pickle, pondering what to put in a packed lunch? Here are four tips that apply regardless of whether the lunch is for your husband to carry to work, or for the youngsters to take on a picnic in the park.

1. Provide sandwiches with high protein content. Choose foods that do not spoil easily, and chill them thoroughly before putting in the lunch-box.

We suggest Nippy Cheese Sandwiches, spiced with sweet mixed pickles. The recipe is given below. Make them up the night before, wrap and store in the refrigerator.

2. Wrap all foods carefully to keep them fresh. There is a new clear economy sandwich wrap which is ideal for sandwiches. It is strong and flexible, which makes it easy to wrap even unusual shapes. Its excellent moisture-vapor barrier characteristics protect freshness.

3. Include fresh fruit, and a beverage, either hot or cold, in a vacuum bottle.

4. Don't forget the pickles! No picnic basket or lunch-box is complete without them. Their tangy flavor adds zest to the meal. And their crispness and juiciness are in pleasant contrast to the texture of the sandwiches.

Why not dress the pickle up with radish slices? Directions for making the pretty surprise with sweet gherkins are given below.

The same plastic lunch-box wrap that you use for the sandwiches solves the problem of how to wrap the pickle to save all the juice and flavor. For a whole pickle, the best method is the familiar "butcher" wrap. Place the pickle in one corner of a piece of wrap about 10" long. Roll up firmly; about half-way across, tuck in the edges and continue rolling. The wrap tends to cling to itself, providing a neat and snug package.

Nippy Cheese Sandwiches
(Makes 8 servings)
2 cups (about 8 oz.) grated cheddar cheese
1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
1 cup coarsely chopped sweet mixed pickles
1 cup catchup
16 slices whole wheat bread, buttered

Combine cheese, horseradish, pickles and catchup; chill. Spread on 8 slices of bread. Cover with remaining bread slices to make sandwiches.

Sweet Gherkins with Radish Slices
Cut 6 slices, crosswise, in each sweet gherkin without cutting all the way through. Insert thin radish slices in slits. Wrap each gherkin in lunch-box wrap.

Little Creekers To Take Show On Road Tour

The Little Creek Players will leave the boards of their theatre in mid-June to travel to various military clubs in the Tidewater area with Henning Neime's melodrama "Only An Orphan Girl."

Readings were held at the LCP Theatre Monday, May 22, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The group will select a double cast for the eight roles in the play. There are four male and four female characters in the play, ranging from the very young to the not-so-young.

Auditions will also be held to select other necessary talents such as a barbershop quartet, a honky-tonk piano player, female dancers, jugglers, a guitarist, a banjo player and a violinist.

The Little Creek Players, Norfolk's only military-connected little theatre group, is sponsored by the Atlantic Fleet Amphibious Training Command. "Only An Orphan Girl" will be the players' first "road show."

Three representatives of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company from Virginia Beach qualified for the company's Regional Educational Conference held May 22-24 at Asheville, N.C. They are Leslie A. Disharoon of 576 Brandon Road, J. Richard Gormley, 7008 Atlantic Avenue, and James A. Leach, III, of 306 47th Street.

Attending the party were members of the company's home office staff plus qualifiers from 23 agencies located in 14 states and the District of Columbia. Theme of the conference was "Growthmanship for the Sixties."

County Hospital Given $4,030 By Garden Unit

The Thalia Garden Club wound up its program for the year with a luncheon and installation of officers at the Pine Tree Inn.

Mrs. A. T. Castleman traced for members the history of the club and its activities for the year.

Mrs. H. O. Freeman is the new president, succeeding Mrs. J. L. Romano. Other officers are Mrs. J. L. Craig Jr., and Mrs. D. H. Goff, vice presidents; Mrs. C. H. Bungard, recording secretary and Mrs. W. H. Smith, treasurer.

Mrs. Gilbert Keene, president of the Cape Henry Women's Club, was guest of honor and installed the officers.

A most entertaining play was presented by Mrs. Florian Harrington, Mrs. John Pathery and Mrs. Paul Merritt of the "Y" Little Theatre.

A prize was given Mrs. L. R. Acres for having the prettiest hat and Mrs. D. S. Williams was winner for wearing the most unusual hat.

Winner for the year for having the most arrangements was Mrs. Goff and second place goes to Mrs. M. P. Amato. First place for horticulture went to Mrs. R. S. White and second place to Mrs. Graydon Early.

The Club voted to sponsor a Junior Garden Club for Thalia.

It was announced that the club turned in pledges for $4,030.00 for the Princess Anne County Memorial Hospital.

Beach Officers Attend Army's Command Unit

Two Army Reserve officers from Virginia Beach, Colonels Aubrey N. Holmes and William A. Cox Jr., have just completed a seven-day logistical command and staff course at the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

The men are members of the 13th class to be enrolled in the course, which has been conducted annually since 1940. The class consists of approximately 200 selected officers from 43 U.S. Army Reserve logistical commands.

Colonel and Mrs. Holmes live at 2403 Baltic Ave. He is deputy commander of the 2386th Logistical Command, an Army Reserve unit in Norfolk. The colonel, son of Mrs. Rita L. Holmes, 315 Twenty-fifth street, is a graduate of Maury High School and Virginia Polytechnic Institute. He is employed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Colonel and Mrs. Cox live at 114 Wye Lane. He is commander of the 2389th Logistical Command, a graduate of Oceanic High School, the colonel was graduated from Virginia Polytechnic Institute in 1944. He is president of the Cox-Frank Corp. in Norfolk.

THE PROPOSED NEW GENERAL HOSPITAL OF VIRGINIA BEACH

Your HELP is needed

To Provide a Community Hospital for Our People in the

VIRGINIA BEACH AREA

A COMMUNITY NEED

Why?

- The present 36-bed Virginia Beach Hospital, opened in 1948, and staffed by four physicians, is no longer adequate to serve the community's needs.
- since 1948 the population has literally exploded, making the Tidewater area the fastest growing in Virginia; the number of area doctors has tripled, but hospital facilities have not been enlarged.
- Most of the area physicians and their patients are subjected to an hour's drive each way over a seriously congested highway to reach a Norfolk hospital.
- the Norfolk hospitals are carrying heavy patient loads now making it increasingly difficult to schedule surgery and otherwise accommodate area patients.
- professional medical practice becomes more burdensome for both doctor and patient without adequate local hospital facilities.

Authorities consider it unwise — even unsafe — for a community as large as ours to be without adequate hospital facilities!

But unless we provide a NEW COMMUNITY HOSPITAL, open to all qualified area physicians, most of us and our fellow-citizens will continue to face the difficulties — and dangers — of seeking hospital care many miles from our homes.

About 20 Miles

TO A NORFOLK HOSPITAL FOR 85% OF THE PRACTICING PHYSICIANS, AND THEIR PATIENTS, IN VIRGINIA BEACH AND PRINCESS ANNE COUNTY . . . AN HOUR'S DRIVE . . . WHEN MINUTES COUNT . . . ACUTE ILLNESS . . . AN ACCIDENT . . . LIVES MAY HANG IN THE BALANCE!!

THE NEED IS URGENT!
WE MUST ACT NOW!

A Community Enterprise

STATEMENT FROM MR. GEORGE D. BROOKE, Hospital Board President
"This hospital will belong to the people of this community. Under our charter contributors may participate in the annual meeting when members of the board of directors are elected. Hospital business is their business, and support of the hospital is everyone's responsibility."

The Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce has unanimously endorsed the proposed new General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

Some 500 local volunteers — our own neighbors in Virginia Beach and vicinity — are at work in the campaign organization seeking $950,000 as the community's share of the $1,662,000 program. Federal-state aid is expected to provide the rest.

A Community Asset

enables residents to live in greater security and confidence attracts newcomers to the area invites new business appeals to tourists and visitors draws doctors, nurses and other medical personnel strengthens area economy like other new, expanding industry

The need is critical. Our citizens and their physicians must have an open staff, general hospital. With this basic community facility, Virginia Beach will continue to be attractive as a place to live and work and visit. Without it, we will be sorely handicapped for years to come.

To provide a community hospital for our people

BAYLAKE METHODIST CHURCH
A general meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service will be held Thursday, May 25, at 8:00 P.M. at the church. Mrs. De Forest Lilly is president of the Society.
Sunday, May 28, at 8:30 P.M. the Senior Methodist Youth Fellowship will have a dinner honoring the Junior High School graduates. New officers of the Fellowship will be installed at that time by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Reynolds.

PERSONAL
Mrs. A. M. Mackay of Baylake Pines has returned to her home after being a patient in De Paul Hospital.

BAYLAKE LIONS CLUB MEETS
The Baylake Lions Club met Wednesday night, May 17 at 7:00 P.M. at Shore Drive Inn with first vice president, Gordon Hughson, presiding.

The club, elected the following officers for the coming year, who will take office in July: president, Gordon Hughson; first vice president, C. B. Osterlander; second vice president, Michael Henry; third vice president, Charles E. McCoy; secretary, Lewis D. Thurston; financial secretary, Elwood C. Crandall; treasurer, Harold G. Russell, Jr.; Lion Tamer, E. H. Pauley; Tallywacker, Taylor Gray; two year directors, Ernest Consovo and Ernest Gallup. One year directors, Nolan Chandler and Malcolm Nock.

Jack Talbot, program chairman for the evening, introduced Mr. Alvin N. Blum, who is director of Safety at the Naval Supply Center. He talked to the club on "Safety" using a flammal board to illustrate his talk. He told of the shocking loss of life, serious injury and loss of property in the United States due to accidents of all sorts. Among the statistics that he mentioned are the following: 36,000 killed on the highways last year; 1,400,000 injured at estimated cost of over $6 billion dollars. 7,000 pedestrians killed; 15,000 persons killed at work; 24,000 deaths due to accidents in the homes. 17,000 persons killed while on vacation; 11,300 killed by fires. Total of 118,500 with estimated economic loss of eleven billion dollars.

Mr. Blum stressed the importance of each individual taking all possible precautions to avoid accidents at the home, at work and on the road, so that we can reduce this terrible slaughter.

International Counsellors Spurgeon Toney and Lewis Dillon, past district deputy governor John Wood and wives of the club's delegates to the State Convention in June were among the guests.

E. H. Pauley, chairman of the boys and girls committee, received a certificate of recognition of the membership of a team in the Little Creek Little League. Pauley re-

OUR SAVIORS LUTHERAN CHURCH DEDICATES SUNDAY
Our Saviors Lutheran Church, located on Shore Drive, in Baylake Pines was dedicated Sunday with a special service at 11:30 A.M. The guest of honor for the occasion was the Rev. J. Luther Mauney, president of the Lutheran Synod of Virginia who was in charge of the service. Dr. Mauney comes from Roanoke to take part in the day's significant program.

Rev. Kenneth R. Carbaugh, pastor of the church, was host to the state president. He also welcomed those attending the service.

The new church is contemporary in design. It was built at a cost of $140,000 and contains a worship center, nine classrooms, nursery, church office and kitchenette.

The building was designed by T. Norman Mansell of Philadelphia and the construction was planned by Boy D. Murphy, Urbana, Ill.

By E. R. "DICK" COCKRELL, JR.

The greatest achievements of mankind have been accomplished by two types of men: Those who were smart enough to know it could be done, and those who were too dumb to know it couldn't.

COUNTY APPOINTMENTS ASSISTANT AGENT

O. Keister Evans, Jr., will assume duties of Assistant County Agent of Princess Anne on June 15th. Evans was appointed by the Board of Supervisors to fill the position vacated by Barnes Allen, Assistant Agent since 1955.

Evans, now a senior at VPI is majoring in agricultural education. Extra-curricular activities include such major ones as a member of the Technique Staff, and a member of the Agricultural Exposition Committee. These are but two of many outstanding activities conducted during his four-year college career.

The new assistant was raised on a tobacco farm near Danville, Virginia. He is 22 years old, single and is a handsome, six feet, two and a half inch lad. The duties of the assistant agent will be to work with both farmers, agricultural business men, and the youth of the county. His specific duties are divided between personnel so that maximum efficiency can be enjoyed.

I am looking forward very much to this great addition to our staff and am very pleased with Mr. Evans' appointment. I am sure that he will be a great addition to the Extension Office. You can't do today's job with yesterday's tools and be in business tomorrow.

SOYBEAN APPLICATION NOW DUE

In order to be listed in the Virginia Certified Seed Directory, applications for soybeans must be in not later than June 15th. This is the dead line. If it is possible for you to send in your application sooner than that, it would help the Virginia Crop Improvement Association plan their work a little more efficiently.

When you send in your soybean applications, please give planting dates. Without planting dates, the Crop Improvement Association has no way of knowing whether the crop will be ready for inspection early or late in the season. Planting dates help to avoid unnecessary travel.

225 Acres of Small Grain For Certification

The acreage of small grain grown for seed certification is decreasing in Princess Anne County. This year we have 114 acres of wheat, 34 acres of oats, and 80 acres of barley.

If we ever get smart enough in this country to make it as easy for a kid to buy a small bottle of milk as it is for him to buy a lot of other things, both the dairy industry and the kids will be better off.

Virginia Dare Conservation District Enters National Contest

The Virginia Dare Conservation District, consisting of Princess Anne and Norfolk counties, has entered the national contest sponsored by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company. Score sheets were mailed to official judges last week, who will name the winning district and individuals in August. Virginia Dare will be competing with all other districts in the State. The contest is sponsored by the winning district and a member of its governing board will be guest of Goodyear for an Arizona vacation in December.

PROTECT POULTRY FROM HOT WEATHER

Hot summer weather is yet to come but owners of laying hens should be preparing to protect their birds from its effects.

Laying house temperatures from 55 to 75 degrees seem ideal for hens. At these temperatures the body temperature is likely to be 106.5° and hens have no difficulty regulating body temperature at this level.

Hens start to pant at 85°. This is a marked increase in the respiration rate to get rid of more heat.

When relative humidity is as high as 100°, the hen can no longer evaporate enough water to keep her body temperature from rising.

If the temperature in the house goes to 100° and the humidity is high, the body temperature of the hen may rise to 112° or even higher. If it remains at 112° or higher for any length of time, the birds will die.

Hens begin to show signs of stress at about 85°. Egg size decreases, egg shells become thinner and production falls. Death losses from heat prostration are often severe in periods of high humidity and warm 90° or better temperatures. Losses also mount in dry periods when maximum daily temperatures range from 105° to 110°.

Hens need plenty of drinking water and they may need more than twice as much water when the house is at 90 degrees as when it is at 70 degrees.

Losses can be reduced by intermittent spraying of the hens in the inside of the house. Fine mist sprayers or foggers help in hot, dry periods. About one gallon of water per hour for each fogger produces a fine mist that promotes evaporative cooling. As the last resort when humidity is high, cold water can be used to lower the body temperature by contact.

Sudden heat waves, especially in early summer, are likely to be harder on the flock and can often cause death or severe drop in egg production than the same temperature later in the summer.

Laying-house temperatures can be kept at more comfortable ranges by insulating the ceiling, by using roofs that reflect the heat, installing ventilation openings at the level of the floor and using fans to create more air movement. Sprinkling the roofs is often desirable.

Growing green vegetation around the outside of the main house may help keep the house cooler. Do not let this vegetation grow tall enough to stop air movement through the floor level ventilation openings.

If the roof is not the type that reflects heat, painting it white or spraying it with whitewash may reduce the inside temperature by ten degrees or even more. During hot spells provide more watering space and make the water easier to get to.

Encourage the birds to eat more. All-night lights may be desirable to make feeding possible in the cooler part of the night. In some cases lights from 230 or 300 a.m. until natural daylight may be enough.

Deep litter on concrete floors can be removed so hens can get down to the concrete. The concrete may be from 10 to 15 degrees cooler than the air temperatures, when the house temperatures are from 90 to 95 degrees.

GREENHOUSE DIFFICULTIES

A malady known as damping-off often causes trouble for gardeners who grow their own plants at home in plastic greenhouses or hotbeds. If you use soil that has grown vegetable plants before, it will aggravate the trouble. Such soil should not be used in hotbeds or greenhouses unless it is first sterilized. Soil from the field where vegetables have not been grown for several years is always much safer to use.

Other practices which will help include using light, well-drained soil, free of the damping-off organism, controlling moisture, light and humidity, and using soil drenches.

After the flat is seeded, water the soil as little as possible for good growth until after the seedlings have hardened off and are beyond the danger stage. Damping-off becomes troublesome when young plants and soil are overwatered or shaded too much and allowed to stay wet for a long period of time.

Nor should you crowd plants in the flat or allow wide variations in the house temperature. Keep the relative humidity as low as possible by opening ventilators and water plants only in the morning of a sunny day.

A drenching treatment with a fungicide, such as captan, zineb or ferbam will help, but will not guarantee complete control of damping-off unless soil is sterilized before the seed are planted.

A neck is something which if you don't stick out, you don't get in trouble up to.

CHECK FIRE HAZARDS

BRING CLEANING TIME Spring clean-up time around the farm and homes should include a check against the danger of fire. Closets, attics and cellars are the main starting places of home fires.

Hopkins Wins VEPCO Medal For 25 Years

Joseph B. Hopkins, of Virginia Beach, was recently awarded a pin marking 25 years of service with VEPCO. The presentation was made by J. R. Haden, Area Manager, Hopkins, N.C., and was employed by the company on April 1, 1936.

Since that time he was transferred to several locations on VEPCO's system and has gained wide experience in electric power line construction work.

He was promoted to Line Foreman August 1, 1950, and is currently serving in that capacity. Hopkins, his wife and two children reside at 412 Lake Drive.

and good housekeeping is one of the best ways to prevent the start and spread of a fire. Most fires start in trash piles, rubbish, or stored odds and ends that accumulate in and around the home. Real clean up for fire safety boils down to a choice only you can make. Eliminate all that extra stuff around the house that burns so easily, or keep taking the long chance of living amid such ideal fuel for fires.

Check the items in attics, closets and basements. Old linens and clothing, mattresses, wooden furniture, curtains, draperies, lamp shades, magazines, papers and rags—they all burn fast.

Rubbish often means a difference between a small controllable fire and a fire-gutted home. Don't forget to clean up rubbish and backyards, alleys and vacant lots also.

Fire extinguishers are important first-aid tools for fighting fires. Local fire departments can advise on types and sizes and always buy ones that are approved by nationally recognized laboratories.

Extinguishers should be placed strategically in all fire danger areas—in kitchens, barns, machine sheds, and at storage tanks for fuels. Check and recharge it regularly. Don't wait for fire to read the directions on how to operate the extinguisher.

I see where the Department of Agriculture says it's a good time to sell and a poor time to buy in the cattle business these days. Life is always hard on somebody.

Cultivating corn immediately after spraying it is about as worthless as filling your car with oil and then letting it out again.
